PROBE SPREADS

Cheating Scandal At Academy Hits Football Players

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — More than 100 Air Force Academy cadets may be involved in a classroom cheating scandal, including about 30 football players, it was officially announced Saturday.

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert issued a statement in Washington saying that an investigation indicates the existence "of a well-organized group of 10 or 12 cadets who were stealing examination papers and offering them for sale.

"Some of these cadets have already submitted their resignations for the good of the service."

NO ELABORATION

Zuckert did not elaborate in his reference to the football squad.

So far, the academy has announced the resignations of 29 cadets, but said the probe was continuing.

Ben Martin, academy football coach, said regulations forbid any comment from him at this time. He said normally about 40 cadets are members of the varsity football squad and that spring practice was scheduled for April. The 1964 academy team won four games, lost five and tied one.

Zuckert emphasized that the "overwhelming majority" of the cadets were not involved. Prior to the resignations the cadet wing numbered 2,567.

The civilian chief of the Air Force said he was satisfied "that the investigation of clear evidence of cheating at the Air Force Academy is being handled fairly and expeditiously and that every consideration is being given to the individuals who are being investigated."

The academy said it would not disclose the names of the cadets who have resigned.

Zuckert's announcement climaxed a week of tension at the nation's newest service academy, following start of the probe last Monday.

Col. Richard Haney, chief of the academy office of information, said as far as he knew the 29 cadets who resigned had left the academy grounds.

"I know that once they resign, they usually are eager to get away from here," he said. "And we expect them to be off the grounds a few hours after they sign that resignation document."

Individual cadets brushed aside questions about the investigation, but a spokesman for the academy said, "They are disturbed and embarrassed about this. They aren't saying much, but I know they want any cadets that have violated the honor code to clear out."

Monroe Civic Leader Dies; Rites Monday

Oscar Newby McNeil Sr., 61, prominent Monroe business and civic leader, died unexpectedly Saturday at St. Francis Hospital shortly after suffering a heart attack.

A resident of 4808 Bon Air Dr., Mr. McNeil had lived in Monroe since 1927. He was a member of St. Thomas Episcopal Church and formerly was treasurer, lay leader and senior warden of the church.

OFFICIAL OF FIRM

Mr. McNeil was secretary-treasurer, managing officer and director of First Federal Savings & Loan Association. He was president of the Twin Cities YMCA, a charter member of the Twin Cities Y's Men's Club and past president of the club.

A member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, Mr. McNeil was a former member of the Ouachita Parish Wildlife & Fisheries Commission, a former chairman of the local United Givers Fund, a member of the board of directors and a past president of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, a member of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce, and a former chamber board member.

Funeral services for Mr. McNeil will be at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Thomas Episcopal Church, following a requiem mass to be held at 8 a.m. The Rev. Richard Wilson will officiate at services. Burial will be at Memorial Park Cemetery.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Martha Hanna McNeil; one son, O. N. McNeil Jr., a student at Georgia Tech University, Atlanta; and one sister, Mrs. Lydian Fletcher of Lakeshore, Fla.

The family requests that memorials be sent to St. Thomas Episcopal Church Memorial Fund.

Congo Rebels Capture Town; Whites Leave

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Rebel invaders struck Saturday across the Congo River and seized a small town less than 200 miles from Leopoldville, radio reports said.

Radio messages from Bolobo, opposite a rebel training base at Gamboma, in the Congo, (Brazzaville) Republic, said a war party crossed the river frontier and occupied a plywood factory. They were holding members of the factory's Belgian staff as hostages.

British Baptist missionaries and members of a Roman Catholic mission radioed that they were preparing to evacuate Bolobo in a motor launch belonging to the Catholic mission.

"We are leaving in 15 minutes," the missionaries said in a broadcast at 2:50 p.m. A Canadian doctor and one British missionary may have stayed behind, the message said.

The plywood factory is at Nkolo, about 20 miles north of Bolobo, which lies 180 air miles northeast of Leopoldville. Congolese soldiers who set out from Bolobo to intercept the rebels were ambushed halfway between the two towns and suffered some wounded before being driven back, the messages said. The size of the rebel force was not known.

The messages said there were 11 adults and five children at the Baptist mission station at Bolobo. All are believed to be British except a Canadian doctor, Arnold Nicholl, who had been pressed to stay to care for soldiers wounded in the rebel ambush.

If he remains with the wounded soldiers, British missionary Angus McNeil has volunteered to remain with him, the messages said.

Jubilant Foes Hone Knives For Laborite

Harold Wilson's Cabinet Dangles By Only 3 Votes

LONDON (AP) — Conservatives, jubilant at the overthrow of Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker, sought ways Saturday to slam a knockout blow at the reeling Labor government.

A mood of eager belligerence swept over the Conservative party, which until recently looked hesitant and ill at ease in opposition.

ANYTHING GOES

"I believe," wrote Iaian Macleod, former Tory Cabinet minister, "in guerrilla raids, in concentrated assaults on weak ministers, in occasional planned setpiece attacks on the Labor party in general and the prime minister in particular."

All this martial metaphor related to parliamentary tactics and to the fact that Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party, whose House of Commons margin is now shaved to three votes, could find itself in deep trouble mustering the necessary votes to stay in office.

This new tilt to the British political scene came with the surprise defeat of Gordon Walker Thursday in a special election at the east London suburb of Leyton.

Awarded Medal

William E. Burns, gunner's mate with the U. S. Navy, has been awarded the Navy unit commendation ribbon and the Armed Forces Expeditionary medal for his part in the Gulf of Tonkin incident while serving aboard the U. S. S. Constellation. The Constellation, an attack aircraft carrier, is the largest conventionally powered carrier. Burns is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Burns Sr. of West Monroe and attended West Monroe High School. He is still aboard the carrier which should be back to the United States Feb. 1.

Happy Parents

Happy new parents of a boy to go with their two girls are Dewayne and Lona Richardson, of Arkansas Road, West Monroe.

The tot, dubbed Timothy Carter Richardson, made his debut recently at Glenwood Hospital, all 9½ pounds of him, and mother and son are home now and doing fine.

He's already greeted 10-year-old Karen and Lorrie, 6.

The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Carter, visiting here from Golden, Colo., while the maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Milstead of West Monroe.

SUCCESSION CHANGE

New Act Could Let McKeithen Stay In

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Rep. Mike Hogan said Saturday he was thinking seriously about sponsoring legislation that would let a governor serve two straight terms.

"And I don't think anyone should be excluded," the Calcasieu Parish representative said, meaning—of course—Gov. John McKeithen.

The significance of this is that always in the past, when such legislation was offered, it usually excluded the governor in office.

The new idea, from a brief sampling of legislators, seems to meet with some favor.

Rep. Hogan's proposal, which will be offered in the next general legislature in 1966, will come at a time when congressional general elections provide room for a public vote on a constitutional amendment.

McKeithen, in his latest news conference Friday, scoffed at questions that he might try to unseat Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., who comes up for re-election next year.

The governor said he was trying to keep the job he now holds.

Among politicians, there is some speculation McKeithen might keep a possible second term in mind if no brighter prospect shows up.

Since the constitution now forbids a governor to succeed himself, a constitutional amendment would be necessary, requiring a two-thirds legislative majority in each house. Then the people would make the final decision.

In Hogan's view, "the way it is now, if we have a good governor in office, we can't keep him for another term. On the other hand, if we have a poor governor, he would have to face the voters before he could gain a second term. So it would work out just as well either way.

"I've talked to several legislators about this," Hogan said, "and without exception, the ones I've talked to favor it. I'm convinced that in Louisiana politics today, no man can build a political machine — even in eight years. The days of the ward-heelers are over."

Hacking Cough, Chest Pain Put President In Hospital

Sir Winston Sinks Lower; End Is Close

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill was reported "moving towards the end" today after his condition took a turn for the worse Saturday night.

Gloom deepened after Britons heard the latest discouraging words.

Lord Moran, 82, Churchill's friend and physician, said, "The deterioration in Sir Winston's condition is more marked."

19TH BULLETIN

Commenting on this 19th medical bulletin issued since the 90-year-old statesman was hit by a stroke Jan. 15, a spokesman for the British Medical Association said: "This is what we expected and I think he must be moving towards the end."

It was Moran's second visit of the day to Churchill. In an earlier bulletin he said only, "There is nothing to report."

Sir Winston, Britain's wartime leader, has been lying in his Hyde Park Gate home in the twilight between life and death for more than a week.

Since the series of medical bulletins started on Jan. 15, there has not been a word of encouragement concerning his condition. Wednesday night he was reported at "very low ebb."

The medical correspondent of the Sunday Telegraph reported that he had been told Sir Winston's cerebral thrombosis actually occurred on Sunday, Jan. 10. This would have been five days before the first bulletin was issued.

Although Churchill's alarming condition was never far from British consciousness, the less serious illness of President Johnson almost swept Churchill's losing fight off the front pages of London's newspapers.

All headlined President Johnson's removal to the hospital during the night.

There was less activity in Churchill's street although members of his immediate family continued to call. Their visits were shorter and less frequent, however.

Later, a larger crowd gathered.

The Sunday Telegraph correspondent said, "It has been suggested in some quarters that the fact that Sir Winston was not removed to a hospital in the early stages of his illness indicates that the case was considered hopeless from the start."

Vice President Upset By News Of LBJ Illness

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Saturday he was shaken by the news that President Johnson was hospitalized, but he could "smile again" when he learned the illness wasn't serious.

Humphrey flew back home to Minnesota Saturday with his wife, Muriel, to be grand marshal of the St. Paul Winter Carnival parade. He went ahead with the trip only after the President sent word to "tell Hubert to carry on his schedule."

Humphrey told a Winter Carnival luncheon group before the parade "I don't know if you can understand the kind of feeling that goes through your being and soul in a situation like this."

"I will be honest with you," he said. "Early this morning it was very doubtful whether I could make this visit."

"I worked in my office until midnight and got home around 1 a.m.," he said. "I was in bed when the call came (from White House assistants) that the President was hospitalized.

"I said nothing to Mrs. Humphrey. I went downstairs and just walked around the house. I went back to the bedroom. My wife was awake. She asked if Winston Churchill had passed away. 'No,' I said, 'The President is sick.'

"We both went downstairs together and sat and talked until a second call came from the White House. I then realized my fears and apprehensions were unfounded and I can now smile again."

Republicans Seeking Out Better Voice

CHICAGO (AP) — Republicans set out Saturday to find a new voice for their beaten party, with national committeemen demanding a say on policy and Sen. Thruston B. Morton insisting the word will come from Capitol Hill.

Closing up shop in Chicago after a change in command for the sake of party unity, the Republican National Committee adopted a resolution seeking a place in the GOP coordinating committee envisioned by party leaders of the House and Senate.

As it stands now, the council would include 11 congressional leaders, 5 former presidential nominees and 5 governors with the national chairman as presiding officer.

The national committee would foot the bill, and outgoing chairman Dean Burch estimated the first-year tab at $150,000.

"I don't know whether you're going to turn it down or approve it," said Morton, the Kentucky Republican who heads the party's Senate Campaign Committee. "I can only tell you that the — thing's going into business whatever you do."

Committeeman Gardiner Johnson of San Francisco proposed the resolution that asks Burch and chairman-elect Ray C. Bliss to negotiate for a national committee role on the coordinating council.

"This position of leadership, of authority, in my opinion is not one which should be either abdicated or diluted," Johnson said.

Colder Winds Drop Mercury

The thermometer began dropping from a warm 71 degrees Saturday afternoon about 3 o'clock and by midnight Saturday the mercury was moving toward the 40 mark.

The official weather forecast for the area indicates that Twin Cities and area residents can expect the new cold front to remain through Monday.

NORTHERLY

Partly cloudy skies are expected to hover over the area with temperatures becoming somewhat cooler tonight. The predicted high today is 52 to 57 with the low reading tonight forecast at 28 to 33.

FAA's 3 p.m. reading of 71 was the high temperature Saturday. The low was a cool 42.

Winds today will be northerly at 10 to 18 miles per hour.

HUONG PLEADS

Viet Nam Rioters Demolish Library

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Anti-government demonstrators burned books Saturday in a U.S. Information Agency library in Hue, 400 miles north of here, smashed all the building's windows and ransacked offices.

Premier Tran Van Huong urged his people "not to be dragged into this monkey business" in a desperate radio appeal to halt the growing violence.

"At this solemn hour, the life of the nation is in the people's hands," he said.

MORE TO COME

Buddhist-led demonstrators took to the streets for the second straight day in Hue and Saigon and there was a report of a protest march involving several thousand persons in the city of Nha Trang, 200 miles northeast of Saigon. The crowds dispersed by evening but more trouble was expected today.

There was widespread speculation that Communist agents have infiltrated the Buddhist campaign to oust Huong and were using demonstrations as a cover for attacks on American installations.

The U.S. consul in Hue, Samuel Thompson, reported that he felt the attack on the USIA building was caused by a group separate from the main body of 3,000 demonstrators.

"The Viet Cong encourage people to demonstrate and sit in the streets," Huong said in his radio address. "They hire hoodlums to demonstrate at the U.S. Embassy among other places. They threw stones at the police and at the cultural service of a friendly country.

"They did this with the object of breaking up an international friendship. They did this disguised as monks leading a group of curious persons."

The mob in Hue surged into the agency building, drenched about half the library's books with gasoline and set them afire, officials reported.

Then they sacked the top floor of the building, extensively damaging the offices of the Viet Nam American Association, a private group that sponsors study programs for Vietnamese students. Cost of the damage has not been assessed.

Cong Will Use Another Trick

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Communist Viet Cong have begun a campaign to steal government uniforms in what may be a prelude to a new deceptive twist in their fighting tactics.

A Vietnamese government employe disclosed Saturday that guerrillas twice stopped a bus taking him back to Saigon and made government soldiers aboard surrender their uniforms.

ENDS UP SICK

Week Too Frantic Even For Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last week which saw President Johnson end up in the hospital Saturday was a hectic one, crammed with work, ceremonies and parties.

Inauguration day was a particularly fast-paced one. The President was on the go from early Wednesday morning until nearly 12:30 a.m. Thursday. Moreover, he exposed himself to chill weather and drafts, without a topcoat.

The President likes to take afternoon naps but inauguration day shattered that routine. He got up early to attend interfaith church services, and from then on it was a ceaseless round.

Despite moderately cold weather, he took the oath at the Capitol without a topcoat; stood for almost three hours in the reviewing stand at the White House, without a hat or topcoat; and danced that night at five inaugural balls.

Though both the inaugural stand and the reviewing stand were warmed by electric heaters, they were still chilly and drafty. In the reviewing stand, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey put on his coat and scarf for a while.

At one of the balls that night, the ebuillient President helped Margaret Truman Daniel over the rail of a box so he could dance with her. This was at the Mayflower, where he changed partners ten times.

Besides the round of inaugural festivities, which began Monday, Johnson spent much time during the week working on the inaugural address, the budget message to Congress and economic reports.

Ailing First Lady Is Also Hospitalized

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson went into the hospital Saturday with a bad, hacking cough and a pain in his chest, and the White House said he is "responding well to treatment."

Lady Bird Johnson, who with their daughter Lynda Bird went off to a presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains so as not to give the President their colds, wound up in a hospital room near her husband.

The First Lady and Lynda drove back to the capital around noon, underwent checkups, and Mrs. Johnson decided to stay in the hospital and get some rest. Lynda returned to the White House, but plans to spend the weekend in bed.

NO ALARM

Johnson himself showed no alarm.

"I wouldn't hesitate right now to put on my britches and go back to the office if there was something that needed to be done," Johnson told reporters Saturday about his sudden illness.

In a gesture typical of Johnson, he called four newsmen in at noon Saturday for a surprise bedside news conference. They found him hoarse but resplendent in fireman's red pajamas trimmed in black, with a white handkerchief peeping from the breast pocket.

He began to feel bad Friday night, "primarily from the tickling in my throat," the President said. His temperature went up, so at 2:26 a.m. Saturday an ambulance took him from the White House to the National Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Md.

Of the congestion in his throat, the President said:

"I notice it's a little better now."

His throat had been soothed by an old-fashioned cough syrup, "Brown's Mixture," and he is expected to be hospitalized anywhere from three to five days.

Although the President had the best in medical attention — a specialist had been summoned from New York in the middle of the night — he had his own version of what had gone wrong.

"My resistance was awfully low," he said. He had been working long hours on his messages to Congress — his big budget message goes up to Capitol Hill Monday — and he had neither napped nor lunched the last two days.

"It may be a lesson I ought to — ." He didn't finish the sentence, but he obviously meant that he thinks he should be a little more careful in the future.

Although his medical histories never mentioned it, Johnson said he has had pneumonia six or eight times, and that he thinks he has more trouble with colds than most people.

All the Johnsons were outdoors for the big inaugural ceremonies Wednesday, and the President didn't wear a topcoat either for his speech or for the five balls he attended that night.

His physicians refused to make any direct connection between the inauguration and the presidential cold, but three out of four of the Johnsons are feeling poorly.

Mrs. Johnson and their daughter Lynda Bird, 20, came down with colds Friday, and had gone to Camp David, Md., so they could keep the President from catching their germs. Johnson figures that's where he got the bug though.

Talks Continue At New Orleans To Reopen Port

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A marathon negotiating session occupied longshoremen and shippers in New Orleans Saturday night in a move to break a strike deadlock.

Agreement in New Orleans, the nation's No. 2 port, could accelerate the pace of settlement all along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

However, Alfred F. Chittenden, president of Local 1419 in New Orleans, said nearly a dozen issues remained and "we are no nearer a settlement than we were Friday."

Sitting in on the session was James J. Reynolds, an assistant secretary of labor.

Negotiations also were under way in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Galveston. The 13-day-old walkout has idled 60,000 longshoremen from Maine to Texas.

Tradition is that a strike in any district along the coast shuts down all ports, whether other districts have contract agreements or not.

In New York, which usually sets the pattern for agreements elsewhere, a scattering of dock workers returned to the piers to unload perishable cargos.

And with pickets removed from New York Harbor piers, on orders of ILA leaders, the first U.S. flag ships were permitted to embark since the strike started. Until now, other maritime unions observed picket lines, preventing the manning of U.S. ships.

ILA President Thomas W. (Teddy) Gleason joined the negotiating in Galveston. The Galveston contract covers ports extending from Lake Charles, La., westward.

Before leaving New York, Gleson predicted a return to work at all east and Gulf ports by "24 to 48 hours at a maximum."

Other ILA leaders were not that optimistic.

Thomas J. Burke of Savannah, Ga., ILA district vice president, thought it would take at least another week for a settlement to be reached in his South Atlantic District.

The Waterfront Commission of the Port of New York reported 276 longshoremen reported for work Saturday — 150 in Newark, N.J., and 126 in Brooklyn.

The four-year pact accepted by a 2 to 1 margin in New York —the same one rejected by the rank and file two weeks earlier —allows gradual reduction of work gangs from 20 to 17 men.

The contract also gives New York's 24,000 longshoremen a guaranteed annual wage of $5,860, improved pension, vacation and holiday benefits and a 36-cent-an-hour increase over the basic hourly wage of $3.26.

NEW $203,000 ARMORY

Formal Dedication Ceremonies Held

Formal dedication ceremonies for Monroe's new $203,000 Louisiana Army National Guard Armory at Selman Field were held Saturday at 3 p.m.

Highlight of the event was the turning over of the armory keys by Major General Erbon W. Wise, Adjutant General of Louisiana, to Lt. Col. James L. Roberts, Commander of the 165th Transportation Battalion of Monroe.

Speakers for the occasion in addition to General Wise, who gave the dedicatory address, and Lt. Col. Roberts, who made remarks in response to receiving the armory keys, included Major General George W. Trousdale, W. D. H. Rodriquez, Monroe commissioner of streets and parks, T. W. Humphries, president, Ouachita Parish Police Jury, and Rep. Lawrence Gibbs.

Garland Shell was master of ceremonies for the event, witnessed by a crowd of about 200 persons. Following ceremonies, refreshments were served and a tour of the armory was conducted.

Units to be housed for training purposes at the armory are Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment of the 165th Transportation Battalion; 1083rd Transportation Company; and the Second Truck Platoon of the 1087th Transportation Company. An Army adviser will also be located in the new building.

Included in the new armory are 12 offices, three supply rooms, three class rooms, one kitchen, an indoor rifle range, two latrines with showers, one ladies' lounge with rest room and a drill hall which is 62 ft. 8 in. by 111 ft. 4 in. The entire armory is 109 ft. by 217 ft.

The City of Monroe donated the 10-acre site for the armory, located across the street from the State Police at Selman Field. The Ouachita Parish Police Jury paid the architect's fee of $8,670.

On hand Saturday to provide special music was the Neville High School Band.

Cardinal Urges Nazi War Trials Not Be Stopped

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, Roman Catholic primate of Poland, has urged continued prosecution of Nazi war criminals, saying "we appeal against action to make outdated the crimes" of World War II.

In a sermon Saturday at Warsaw's Church of St. James, the cardinal added: "But we know that just punishment cannot be meted out in the face of the enormity of the crimes. We can only call God's lamb who absolves the sins of the world. There is still eternal punishment."

It was probably the first time the primate has referred to the controversy over West Germany's 20-year statute of limitations, which would bar further prosecution of war criminals there after May. He did not mention Germany by name but used the Polish expressions in which the issue is discussed here.

Polish officials say local archives contain evidence against perhaps 10,000 unpunished Nazi war criminals. Some of it is understood to involve atrocities against priests.

Tornado Hurts Negro Children In Mississippi

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sections of Mississippi mopped up Saturday after weather conditions clashed to cause record rainfall and a tornado that injured five Negro school children.

In Clinton, a tornado dipped down Friday and ripped a portion of the Lovett Elementary School. It broke glass and tore part of the roof.

The five children were not hospitalized and the other 195 students in the school escaped without injury.

The principal, Mrs. Rebecca Oatis, said, "I turned around and saw the funnel of what looked like a ball of fire in its middle. I started to get on the floor, but by then it had hit the school."

The Mississippi Gulf Coast experienced one of the heaviest rainfalls on record Friday night and Saturday morning.

There were scattered reports of road damage. A washout on a U.S. Hwy. 90 service drive was reported near Debuys Road, midway between Gulfport and Biloxi. There was speculation the fire may have been originated by a lightning bolt Friday night.

A radio station in Gulfport (WGCM) was off the air about five hours Friday night when lightning struck its tower.

The rains started late Friday as an area of thunderstorms moved across the coastal areas, dumping up to 7.57 inches on Biloxi by 6 a.m.

Rains continued to fall on most of the state Saturday, with the heaviest .46 of an inch at Biloxi by noon.

Vancleave recorded 7.5 inches of rain between 6 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Saturday, the heaviest in the area in 24 years. Vancleave is about 15 miles north of Ocean Springs.

Some minor flooding of roads and lowlands along Bluff Creek, a tributary of the Pascagoula River, was reported in the Vancleve area.

Other rains during the night included 2.07 inches at Meridian, 1.74 inches at McComb and 1.51 inches at Jackson.

Low temperatures during the night ranged from the 30s in the northern part of the state to the 50s in the south.

'Unthinkable' To Quit Saigon

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top U.S. spokesman on Far Eastern policy said Saturday that U.S. withdrawal from South Viet Nam is "unthinkable." He held open the possibility of enlarging the war in response to Communist actions.

Asst. Secretary of State William P. Bundy said that in the past year infiltration of Red guerrilla fighters and supplies from North Viet Nam through Laos and South Viet Nam has "markedly increased."

This infiltration "has included for the first time significant numbers of indigenous North Vietnamese trained in North Viet Nam in regular military units," he said.

Bundy's discussion of Vietnamese problems and U.S. policy for dealing with them was contained in a speech prepared for the Chamber of Commerce in Washington, Mo.

His speech confirmed publicly information disclosed by high officials here Friday night that heavy infiltrations of North Vietnamese troops into South Viet Nam had taken place during 1964. Officials put the number at several thousands.

This appeared to introduce a new element into the conflict, which was already going badly for the United States, primarily because of political dissension in Saigon and the instability of South Vietnamese governments.

In earlier years U.S. officials always claimed that the guerrillas fighting in South Viet Nam were essentially South Vietnamese though some had been trained in the North. Word of infiltration of North Vietnamese troops indicated that the Communists may think they see victory ahead. Bundy said the numerical ratio of guerrilla forces to government troops is below the 10-1 ratio often considered necessary for victory in guerrilla wars. He put Red guerrillas in South Viet Nam today at 35,000 "hard core Viet Cong" with another 60,000 to 80,000 as local forces. He put South Vietnamese forces at "roughly 400,000" which is a lower figure than the half-million men that U.S. officials often use.

Bundy praised the South Vietnamese as tough and brave fighters and said they have won "significant victories" although they have suffered military reverses also.

The alternatives to the present course of supporting the Vietnamese government, Bundy said, lie between withdrawal or "neutralization" on the one hand and enlarging the war on the other.

"So long as South Viet Nam is ready to carry on the fight, withdrawal is unthinkable," Bundy said.

Of negotiation, he declared that any course which led to true security and independence for South Viet Nam in accordance with international agreements "would of course be an answer."

4-H Executive Council Elects New Officers

The Ouachita Parish 4-H Executive Council, meeting Saturday at the agriculture building in West Monroe, elected new officers.

Those selected to head the council, composed of 29 4-H clubs throughout the parish are as follows: president, Paul Spillers of Calhoun High; vice-president, Sharon Parson of West Monroe High; secretary, Dewanna Ray of Calhoun High; treasurer, Janie Futch of West Monroe High; and news reporter, Francis Landreaux of Saint Paschal's School.

The date for the annual 4-H Achievement Day was set for April 10.

The point system which is used to determine the outstanding 4-H club at Achievement Day was discussed by Donna Moore, associate home demonstration agent. A committee will be appointed on this by the new president.

Parish 4-H accomplishments during 1964 were discussed by Floyd Kent, associate county agent.

Carolyn Taylor presided as chairman, and leaders for opening events included Jeannie Thompson, Bill Goodling, Judy Jones, Francis Landreaux, Rodney Ferguson, Ann Tolbird and Dewanna Ray.

STEALS COMICS

ISLINGTON, England (UPI) — Laborer John King was sentenced to six months in jail Saturday for stealing funny books. Police said his explanation for throwing a chair through the shop window and stealing the comics was: "I wanted something to read."

SPOTLIGHTING THE AREA

With Jimmy Hatten

Before the establishment of the Louisiana Industiral Insti- the Louisiana Industrial Insti- became Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, or, as it is commonly known, Louisiana Tech, situated at Ruston was the Louisiana Chautauqua.

Its 15 years of existence should not go unnoticed in education annals because it was the turning toward the educational and cultural values missed in the decades following the War Between the States.

Chautauqua is described as a community assembly for educational or recreational purposes.

At a meeting of the Louisiana Educational Association in 1890, plans were formally adopted for the Louisiana Chautauqua, after the idea had been advanced by Mrs. Mattie H. Williams.

On land donated to the Chautauqua society by Whit Booles, a tabernacle was built.

It was described by the New Orleans Picayune as "the largest and best in the South, with a seating capacity of two thousand people."

Halls of music, science, and philosophy were built, and from 1891 to 1905, the Chautauqua furnished training for many teachers.

Some of the most noted speakers of the period were heard as platform attractions.

They included William Jennings Bryan, John Temple Graves, and Gov. Bob Taylor.

In addition, there were musical productions.

As the string ran out on the Chautauqua, the new institution which was later to become Louisiana Tech began to flourish.

The days of the Chautauqua were not many, but there are probably residents around who still recall in fond memory the high hills, deep valleys, with mineral springs flowing freely the year around, and in the midst, the Chautauqua — with the silvery tones of William Jennings Bryan echoing through the setting.

One Negro Pair In Trailer Court Hurts Finances

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A young Negro couple moved into a trailer court in southwest Phoenix last Dec. 8 and, as a result, five of the seven white tenants moved out.

Mr. and Mrs. Neldon Overfield, who operate the court, said their monthly income dropped from $200 to about $60 a month later.

Because mortgage payments on the court are $150 a month, Overfield took a school janitor's job on the side.

Saturday it was disclosed the Negro couple, Airman and Mrs. Harry Jones, also have moved in order to live closer to Luke Air Force Base where Jones is stationed.

"The Overfields had nothing to do with our moving," Jones explained. "We are very grateful for what they did and we feel deeply indebted to them.

"They did for us what no other trailer court in Phoenix would do."

Mrs. Overfield said she and her husband feel "it's going to be a long financial struggle ahead."

River Overflows

SALONIKA, Greece (AP) — A dam on the Nestos River burst early Saturday, inundating large areas in the region of northern Greece.

There were no reports of casualties, but authorities said several villages in the area have been evacuated and extensive damage was caused to winter crops.

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank all the many wonderful people who expressed their sympathy in so many ways during the death of our son and brother, Charles Lynn Martin. Especially do our thanks go to Revs. Hershall Clanton; Mack Walker; L. C. Lord, Sr.; and J. H. Patterson. Thanks also goes to the staff of First National Funeral Home, Winnsboro, La. We are grateful to Lee Lord and Linda Thames for their kindness and to all of Lynn's teachers who were so thoughtful. God bless Mrs. Gussie Bonner and each and everyone who helped.

Cotton Acreage Release Drive Set In Parish

Around $50,000 in income was lost in Ouachita Parish last year through the failure of cotton growers to release unwanted acreage allotments for reassignment to planters wanting them.

This was announced here Saturday by J. J. Joyce Jr., Ouachita Parish County agent, in connection with a drive by parish farm, business and civic groups to encourage cotton growers to make use of the entire basic cotton allotment.

Deadline for release of unwanted acreages through local Agricultural Stablization and Conservation Service offices is Friday of this week.

The released acreage will be loaned temporarily to farmers desiring to plant more than their allotments, said W. A. Calloway, county ASCS committee chairman.

He pointed out that allotment acres are released for one year only and farmers do not lose cotton history in determining future allotments. However, cotton acreage which is neither planted nor released eventually is lost to the farmer, parish, and to the state.

The chairman said that growers needing additional acreage should make their applications to the ASCS office in the West Monroe Agriculture Building. Last year's state-wide release and reapportionment campaign resulted in the release of 48,000 acres which netted Louisiana an estimated additional $8 million in farm income.

The parish's 1964 cotton allotment was 15,477 acres, of which 15,204 acres were planted. County Agent Joyce said. A total of 625 acres were released temporarily for planting by other growers, and 272 acres went unplanted and unreleased, according to estimates.

Agencies cooperating in the drive to plant or release acreage are Louisiana State University Agricultural Extension Service, Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation, and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

VONDA KAYE VAN DYKE

Miss America Will Appear At Monroe Pageant

Miss America of 1965, Vonda Kaye Van Dyke, will appear in Monroe July 1-3 during the Miss Louisiana Pageant.

Miss Van Dyke will bring her red-haired dummy, Kurley Q, who teamed with her to win the coveted title and a $10,000 scholarship.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Monroe, sponsor of the state pageant, announced that Miss American will be guest of honor at all Miss Louisiana functions and will make appearances during each night of the competition.

Vonda, who represented Arizona in the national event, has been appearing all over the United States since her victory. She is a 21-year-old senior at Arizona State University, where she is majoring in speech and drama. She has been training and practicing the art of ventriloquism for 14 years.

For the first time in the 13-year history of the Miss America Pageant, the title winner was also selected Miss Congeniality.

Area Residents To Get Degrees

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana State University will award doctoral degrees to 24 graduates at winter commencement exercises Tuesday on the campus here.

Some 630 students are slated to receive degrees at the commencement. Almost a third of the diploma to be awarded will go to graduate and professional students.

Among Louisiana residents slated to receive Doctor of Philosophy degrees are George C. Brian of Monroe, speech; Clarence W. Newman of Lake Providence, animal science and Charles G. Shepherd of Tallulah, agronomy.

Workshop Set In Reading At Lexington

Dr. Woodrow Flanary, associate professor of education and director of the reading laboratory at Northeast Louisiana State College, will conduct a two - day reading workshop at Lexington Elementary School on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings.

The workshop is being held in the school auditorium from 9:15 to 10:45 each day. Attending will be members of the Lexington P-TA and other interested parents.

"We are inviting parents who have children attending nursery school and whose children will be attending the first grade at Lexington this fall," said Mrs. John O. Clay, P-TA workshop chairman.

Dr. Flanary will devote the first day's session to "Reading Readiness." Topic for the Wednesday session will be "Remediation in Reading."

A member of the Northeast State staff since 1962, Dr. Flanary came to Monroe from East Tennessee State University, where he was a member of the faculty for four years. He taught at East Carolina College for five years before going to Tennessee.

Dr. Flanary is a native of Virginia. He received his B. A. degree from Emory and Henry College and the M. A. degree in English from Vanderbilt University. He earned his Doctor of Education degree at the University of Virginia with a specialty in reading.

He taught English for eight years at Emory and Henry before leaving for doctoral studies at Virginia. While at the University, he served as assistant to Dr. Ullin Leavell, director of the McGuffey Reading Clinic.

Last summer, Dr. Flanary-authored a special Sunday feature for the Morning World on "Is Your First Grader Ready for Reading?"

Budget On Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress will get President Johnson's budget message Monday even though the President himself is expected to be still in Bethesda Naval Hospital.

The message is already prepared and will go to the House of Representatives for presentation by reading clerks. The Senate will not be in session Monday, and will hear the message Tuesday. The President does not deliver the message personally.

Farm Bureau's Queen Contest, Banquet Monday

Fifteen contestants will be vying Monday night to be named queen, as the Ouachita Parish Farm Bureau holds its annual banquet. Fourteen talent contestants also will compete, and Agriculture Service Awards will be presented to an outstanding man and woman.

Set for Gunby Dining Hall on the campus of Northeast Louisiana State College, the program will begin promptly at 6:30 p.m., officials said.

Featured speaker will be Carl Kemmerly, director of the Louisiana State University extension service.

Beauty and talent judges will be M. H. Collet, local manufacturing executive, Mrs. Betty Ellen Smith, News-Star—World women's editor, and businessman Jim Rivers.

Did LBJ Wear His Long-Johns?

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's a state secret as to whether President Johnson wore long johns during the inaugural ceremonies and parade last Wednesday.

Johnson's doctor, Rear Adm. George G. Burkley, was asked about long underwear Saturday.

"That's a state secret, I think," he told reporters with a chuckle.

He did say that Johnson was adeqquately dressed during the period of his exposure at the ceremonies at the Capitol and during the inaugural parade. He said the President was protected by a canopy and that there was heat at each spot.

So he said in his opinion the arrival of the cold Friday was not a result of exposure to the weather Wednesday because colds usually develop about 24 hours after exposure.

JUDGE'S RULING

Sheriff, Negroes Both Win In Alabama Voting Clashes

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Negro civil rights workers scored a partial victory Saturday in their Selma voter registration campaign. But Sheriff James G. Clark got his way, too.

U.S. Dist. Judge Daniel H. Thomas ordered Dallas County law enforcement officials not to interfere "with the orderly process of voter registration."

At the same time, Thomas ruled that voter registration applicants had to use a door specified by the sheriff earlier this week.

Clark made wholesale arrests Tuesday and Wednesday after the Negroes first refused to use an alley entrance, and then the front door. The Negroes demanded that they allowed to use a third entrance which led past Clark's office. The sheriff angrily accused them of trying to make trouble and arrested them for unlawful assembly and refusing to obey an officer.

Attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People legal defense fund sought the restraining order. They claimed the voter applicants were being harassed and intimidated by Clark; Circuit Solicitor (Prosecutor) Blanchard McLeod, County Solicitor Henry G. Rees, County Judge Hugh Mallory and Bernard A. Reynolds, county judge of Juvenile Court.

"Persons legally entitled to register as voters should be permitted to do so in an orderly fashion calculated to produce that result. And this court intends to see that opportunity is offorded," Thomas said.

The approximately 230 Negroes arrested by Clark and his men are free on bond.

The sheriff was not available for comment on the decision.

In Atlanta, Ga., Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Nobel Peace Prize winner and leader of the voter registration drive in Selma, called the ruling very encouraging.

In Atlanta, Ga., King called the ruling very encouraging.

"It will help the voter registration drive a great deal," he said.

King had returned to his Atlanta headquarters Friday night, but said he planned to lead another registration drive in Selma on Monday.

"We still face obstacles inside the courthouse," King added. "There are still complex literacy tests and the slow process of registration. In some cases, these can be more injurious than anything else."

Selma was quiet Saturday following an unsuccessful attempt by approximately 100 Negro schoolteachers Friday night to register. They tried three times to enter the courthouse before Clark and his men pushed them back. The officers bore clubs, but did not touch anyone with them. No one was arrested.

King called it the most significant development of the current campaign.

"This is the first time in the history of the movement that so well organized and dramatic a protest has been made by any professional group in the Negro community," King said.

The voter drive was concurrent with a mostly successful test of public accommodations in Selma cafes and lunch counters.

Thomas' order specifies that: "Those seeking to register and those seeking to act as vouchers — registered voters vouching for the applicants — will form an orderly line not more than two abreast from the entrance of the office of the Board of Registrars, down in the corridor of the courthouse, in a line most direct to and through the entrance of the Lauderdale Street door, on a first-come, first-served basis, for the white or colored."

HOW MANY METERS IN A MILE ?

If talking about distance, 1,609 meters make a mile. If you're talking about electric meters, they vary from 35 on power company lines in the cities to about FOUR per mile on Rural Electric Cooperative lines.

THIS GREAT DIFFERENCE IN CITY-RURAL UTILITY SERVICE IS THE MAIN REASON WHY REA MAKES LOW INTEREST LOANS TO FINANCE THE INITIAL CONSTRUCTION OF RURAL ELECTRIC SYSTEMS.

Because power companies didn't consider three or four meters a mile profitable to serve, rural citizens had to organize non-profit Electric Co-ops to serve themselves.

Yes, we proudly serve areas and folks nobody else cares to serve. Think what this means to both Town and Country prosperity!

by Jan Bank

Several weeks ago, you may have read in this column of the portrait of Estelle Musson by Degas which the Delgado Museum in New Orleans was making an all - out effort to purchase. The portrait of the Louisiana girl was painted on the artist's only visit to the United States. Contributions, large and small, to raise the $190,000 needed were received right up until the last minute. I cannot help but think that the artist, if he could know the fame of his paintings and their monetary value, would consider, though experts do not, "The Portrait of Estelle Musson" his most valuable work of art.

Children sold possessions to donate pennies, celebraties made appearances to raise funds, the wealthy gave more than generously and volunteers manned telephone to accept donations of dimes to dollars until midnight of the deadline day, to make the painting a permanent possession of the city, defying the critics who call us a sedentary society.

Now that the museum can boast ownership of the art work, a "Degas in New Orleans" show is being planned. It will feature as many works of the famed impressionist, painted during his stay in New Orleans, as are available.

There will be a full dress preview and it looks as if, even though this will be an admission show, the hundreds of people who gave to give "Estelle Musson" her proper home will be guests of the museum.

All the excitement generted by the desire to obtain the painting demonstrates that a truly great portrait is more than an image of a person transferred in some media. It is, in itself, a work of art. Although all portraits do not measure up to this desirable state, a good likeness of a loved one is a joy to own.

The current portrait show at the Masur Musem of Art has attracted many people. That, after all, is the rule of measure for the curators of the museum; getting as many people as possible to visit.

So much work goes into each show that it is gratifying when one is as successful as this one has been. The owners of the paintings exert great effort as they must transport their paintings, some absolutely huge, must live with the vacant spot on the wall during the exhibit and then must maneuver the paintings back into their cars and into their homes to be rehung.

Almost every artist tries his hand at a portrait or two, but now . . . "Will the real portrait specialist of the Art Center, please stand up?" Mary Anita Lennon does. Her work is a possession of great pride in many Monroe homes. I asked Miss Lennon what the artist strives for when doing a portrait and she told me that "a sincere picture that captures more than the physical features of the person." "It must reflect their mood and soul. A portrait should be a good enough painting for anyone to want to hang it in their homes for its artistic merit." John Singer Sargeant said, "A Portrait is a painting with something wrong with the mouth."

Mary Anita loves to paint children because they are more beautiful and expressive; so much less inhibited than adults.

Representations of her work that capture all her standards are those of Anita Lee Inabnett, owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Inabnett and Holly and Betty Huer, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lon S. Heur.

Another fine portrait by the Monroe artist is that of Arthur David Ensminger, owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ensminger.

Monroe has many artists who do excellent work in the portrait field. Two charmers, Mary Susan Sartor and Polly Sartor, were done by an artist who knows everything there is to know about them to capture all their charms; their mommy, Tommie Sue Sartor. The paintings are owned by Dr. and Mrs. Fred Sartor.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mayo have loaned for the exhibit, a portrait of Maude Mayo done by Roy Henderson, who was the first art teacher when Northeast Louisiana State College was a Junior College.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. McDonald have loaned portraits of their daughters, Ann and Shirley, for the show, done by Charles Copeland of Monroe.

Carl E. Mittell was the artist of portraits of his daughter and son - in - law, Barbara and Max Brinford, giving further proof to the statement that we can be very proud of the very talented artists we have here in Monroe.

One of the oldest portraits in the show is that of Samuel Holstein Hunderson, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Brandon Kellogg, done by Alfred Galpin Kellogg of Brookline, Mass., in the 1840's.

More lovely ladies' portraits appearing in the show are Mrs. A. K. Kilparick by Betty Saenger, Alma Summer Peters done by Adrien Brewer and Suzanne Mosely done by Mabel Lane.

A very large, handsome portrait by Victor Lallier, a focal point of the show, is owned by Mrs. Wilson Ewing of her daughter, Ester.

Although all the shows at the museum are carefully chosen, this particular show has evoked a great deal of interest because it is of Monroe's illustrious people, both of a by-gone era and of those living here today.

AUXILIARY MEMOS

The current show will be on view only one more week. Museum hours are between two and five p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Hostesses for this week will be: Sunday, Jan. 24, Mrs. Waddy Moore and Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick; Tuesday, Jan. 26; Mrs. Jesse McDonald and Mrs. J. W. Moore; Wednesday, Jan. 27, Mrs. Craig Morgan and Mrs. Thomas Dansby; Thursday, Jan. 28; Mrs. E. T. Heard, Mrs. Orin Jones and Mrs. Jack Masur; Friday, Jan. 29, Mrs. Herbert Land and Mrs. Earl Graser; Saturday, Jan. 30, Satchie Naiden.

ART NEWS HERE AND THERE

Vicksburg, Miss. will be making their citizens very art conscious beginning Jan. 31 with an enterprising effort called "Project V.I.P."

Stores will display the work of local artists, an art competition open to regional artists will be held, and an exhibit of signed original works from The Roten Galleries will be on view.

For the benefit of collectors, the paintings from the gallery will be for sale. Cash prizes will be awarded for winners in the competition. Submitted works must be on The Twenty Third Psalm.

"Project V.I.P." (Vicksburg is interested in paintings) is sponsored by the Sisterhood of Anshe Cherfed Hebrew Congregation, and may be seen at 721 Clay St.

Every day more of us add original or favorite reproductions of paintings to our home. Many of the people who collect seriously have at least some representation of abstract, collage, sculpture and other art forms.

Now here is the housewives chance to burst forth in a blaze (or should I say freeze) of glory with pop art in the kitchen.

One of the most famous makers of appliances have produced a line of refrigerators and freezers with the new art form as a gimmick for selling home furnishings. One under the counter model is decorated as a huge Jack of Hearts playing card. Another, of the five cubic foot size, is covered in real black and white calfskin with a spur for a handle.

My favorite is a full-size refrigerator with its door painted, in comic strip fashion to resemble a phone booth crammed full of people. The word telephone is printed across the top. This model would keep me from missing my family while they're at school and work each day. On Sundays I wouldn't need the painting as the front of my refrigerator looks perpetually like we posed for the mass produced one.

Whether pop art on appliance doors will be accepted is yet to be seen, but like it or not, you must admit it does give the dealer something to answer when the customer says "What's New?"

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Two bank robberies Friday, in Genoa and Verona, brought to eight the total of such crimes in northern Italy in the last 100 days. The loot totals $92,800, some of which has been recovered.

Chief Mitchell Invited To Take FBI Training

West Monroe Chief of Police Johnny B. Mitchell has been invited to attend the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy, beginning March 8 in Washington, D. C. The invitation was extended through Mayor J. Allan Norris by J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director.

Announcement of the invitation was released Saturday in a joint statement by Mayor Norris and H. G. Maynor, FBI special agent in charge in New Orleans.

The academy is a special 12-week intensive training course designed for local officers to become instructors and executives in the law enforcement field. It was established Jan. 29, 1935, and since that time has trained approximately 4,600 officers.

Ouachita parish officers who have attended the national academy are Sheriff Bailey Grant; Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff J. Frank Kirby; Chief Investigator, Ouachita sheriff department, E. L. Walker; Captain M. E. Kidd, commander of Troop F, Louisiana State police James C. Kelly, Jr.; and West Monroe Detective Captain Charles E. Dortch.

Moreau Named Top Amateur In State In 1964

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Flankerback Doug Moreau of LSU was honored as the state's top amateur athlete Saturday night with Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks named the state's top pro.

Golfer Barbara Faye White of Shreveport was dubbed Louisiana's best female athlete at the awards banquet of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Dibert Post 351.

The state's top coach, in the post's opinion, was Louisiana Tech's Joe Aillet. Ray (Coon) Porta of Baton Rouge High was named top prep coach.

Jockey "Tee Red" Bernis was saluted as the top New Orleans pro athlete. And the New Orleans Professional Football Club, Inc., drew the post's organization recognition award.

Pettit, one of professional basketball's great, used to wear LSU colors.

Named co-winners of the outstanding amateur athlete of Greater New Orleans award were Bobby Lane, former Newman High basketball star, and tennis queen Linda Tuero.

DO YOU RECOGNIZE this once-famous residential street in Monroe? In case you don't, it's Walnut Street around the turn of the century—1905 to be exact, when this picture was made. This is a view of the street when it was one of Monroe's better residential areas. Shown above is a shot of it looking north toward Louisville from near the Washington Street intersection. Most buildings along the street today are warehouses, business establishments, along with some medical offices. The picture is from the Albert Marx collection. President, Nation Both Need Rests, Senator Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Saturday "it's probably a good thing for him and the country that the President is being forced to get a little rest."

"I'm not worried and I'm informed that he is in good shape," the Senate majority leader said in an interview after receiving reports from White House aides on the condition of the hospitalized President.

Mansfield conferred at the White House Friday evening with the President on pushing the new legislative program.

During that conference Mansfield said that the President appeared "his usual self except that I noticed he coughed several times."

When he learned that the President had been taken to the hospital early Saturday, Mansfield said he was "surprised but not shocked."

He added that a "forced" hospital rest may prove a wise move for everyone.

Navy Hospital Now Top Power Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a president on its 17th floor, the U.S. Naval Medical Center at Bethesda, Md., found its routine abruptly altered Saturday.

Although Pesident Johnson is expected to be a patient there for only five days or less, his 17th-floor tower suite immediately became the center of executive power for the United States.

That meant three demands had to be quickly met — the establishment of security for the President, the opening of communications with the White House, about nine miles away, and the setting up of accommodations for newsmen.

They were met in that order, with Secret Service agents sealing off the main entrance to the hospital as soon as Johnson entered at 2:25 a.m.

The first newsmen who arrived shortly after 4 a.m. were kept outside in the chill darkness for nearly a half-hour before being admitted to a small waiting room off the lobby.

From then on it was a question whether there were more newsmen or communications technicians swarming through the corridors.

A press room was set up in a second-floor auditorium. A seminar for high school students that had been scheduled there Saturday morning had to be shifted to a gymnasium.

Movies shown there nightly — and in the afternoon on weekends — to the patients, were canceled.

Saturday's matinee was to have been "Mary Poppins" and the most disappointed children in town were a dozen small members of Navy families who came to see it and found the auditorium full of lights, cameras and clattering typewriters.

"Why can't we see 'Mary Poppins'?" one of the children asked his father over and over as they were squeezing through the crush in the press room on their way out.

"You should have voted for Goldwater," the harassed father finally muttered.

Forty telephone company employes and a squad of Signal Corps experts were called in to install phones. By early morning the White House lines were functioning.

Persons arriving to visit patients and even those entering as patients were sidetracked to the waiting room to be checked by Secret Service agents. Employes were required to use other entrances.

Melon Growers' Meeting Slated At Farmerville

FARMERVILLE (Special) — A meeting sponsored by The Union Parish Watermelon Growers' Association will be held in the Union Parish Courtroom at 7 p.m. Thursday. O. P. Beridon, who is with the Louisiana State Department of Agriculture will be present to discuss this year's marketing program for the parish.

The Association was formed last year to assist parish growers in marketing and receiving the best market prices for their melons. The parish grew around 600 acres of watermelons last year and more than 1,000 acres are already planned for 1965.

In 1964, Union Parish melons were served to consumers from Canada to the South Sea Islands. Several of these places have already requested Union Parish mellons for this year.

Congo Casualties

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Official Uganda sources Saturday quoted refugees from the Congo as saying that 300 Congolese government soldiers and white mercenaries have been killed in a major battle with the rebels.

There was no confirmation of the reports, which also said that the rebels, led by Christophe Gbenye, had recaptured four towns in the northeast Congo, including Mahagi on Lake Albert.

Ship Launched

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) —The supertanker Esso New Orleans, under construction at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. here for seven months, was launched Saturday.

Mrs. J. K. Jamieson of New York, wife of the executive vice president and director of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, christened the 800-foot, 66,700 ton ship.

The Esso New Orleans will join the Humble and Refining Co.'s 20-vessel fleet later this month. The two are the largest in the Esso American-flag fleet, and the largest ever built at Newport News.

The ships can carry more than 24 million gallons of petroleum products.

Quake Shakes Island In Pacific

HONOLULU (UPI)—A heavy earthquake struck the island of Halmahera in the Pacific between the Philippines and New Guinea, the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey reported Saturday.

A spokesman for the survey said the quake occurred at 2:12 p.m. PST (7:12 p.m. EST) and had a Richter magnitude of 7.5.

The survey's Honolulu observatory was investigating the possibility of a tidal wave across the Pacific. But the spokesman said it was doubtful such an occurrence would cause any trouble in Hawaii.

The quake was also registered at the University of California in Berkeley, where the jolt tangled the recording instruments and prevented seismologists from pinpointing the epicenter.

NEW INDUSTRY

A former Monroe resident, George S. Gabriel of Suffern, N. Y., has been instrumental in the development of a new industry dealing in the manufacture of plastic and metal animal care equipment used primarily in scientific research. His company, Lab Cages Inc., located in Kennett Square, Pa., is expecting sales to exceed one million dollars this year, he said.

Gabriel plans to make a brief stopover in Monroe Thursday to visit his sister, Mrs. Ralph Bradley, 1409 South 4th St. He moved from Monroe to Suffern in 1960. He now lives with his mother, who cares for his four sons, George Jr., Thomas, Richard, and Robert.

GETS SAFETY AWARD

An Award of Merit for safety was given to Faulk-Collier Bonded Warehouses, Inc., local agent for Allied Van Lines, Inc., at a recent stockholder's meeting of Allied agents in New York, N. Y. A trophy was presented to I. A. Faulk, president, of the firm.

The award was given in recognition of the firm's outstanding achievement in safety. More than 900 Allied agents were in competition for the award.

Individual safety awards were presented to seven drivers of Faulk - Collier, Ray Elmore, Ceasar Lamb, James Moffett, Hardy Staten, Thomas Wilson, Calvin Carroll, and William Scott.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

SAN ANTONIO (Special) — B. W. Biedenharn, Pearl Beer distributor for the Monroe area, attended Pearl Brewing Company's annual distributors' convention, held Wednesday and Thursday in San Antonio.

Occasion was Pearl's annual distributors' convention where wholesalers, drawn from Pearl's five state marketing area, were in San Antonio for their annual two-day sales meeting.

Board Chairman and President Otto A. Koehler announced 1964 was the best in Pearl's 79-year history.

SALESMAN HONORED

NEW YORK (Special) — Tyler S. Conerly, Jr. of Monroe, La., has been selected as one of the top 10 "salesmen of the year" for J. B. Roering and Company, George B. Stone, Roerig general manager, announced.

Stone said the selection was based on Conerly's all - around performance in 1964 as a medical service representative assigned to the Monroe territory.

Girl, 4, Home From Hospital

Vanessa Works, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Works of 802 Garland St., West Monroe, is now at home with her parents after undergoing special medical care at a Shreveport Hospital.

She can't have visitors yet, but the Works would like to thank all who contributed to pay for medical expenses.

Vanessa will be five years old Saturday.

Charge Shelling

TOKYO (AP) — North Viet Nam charged that six warships under command of U.S. and South Vietnamese authorities shelled one of its towns early Saturday, killing a woman and child, wounding three others and destroying a house.

Radio Hanoi, in a broadcast monitored here, said one of the attacking warships was damaged by North Vietnamese army units.

LOCKED ON a rack, the XB70A bomber is put through torture tests at the North American Aviation plant at Palmdale, Calif. The big bomber, plagued by troubles during its development, is being prepared for its fifth flight in February, to try for 2,000 mph and 70,000 feet. Outdated as a hydrogen bomb carrier, the B70 may be turned into a space workhorse in the future to test advanced equipment. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Trouble-Plagued XB70A Will Attempt Answer Soon

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Science Writer

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — Writhin in a 20th century equivalent of the medieval torture rack, a weird metal monster is creaking out answers to a billion-dollar question: Can it survive flight at three times the speed of sound?

The answer may come when the trouble-plagued XB70A bomber takes to the air again in February in an effort to reach 2,000 miles an hour and 70,000 feet.

In its fourth flight, last Oct. 24, the 185-foot long experimental craft achieved mach 1.4 — 1.4 times the speed of sound or 940 m.p.h. — and 45,000 feet in a test at nearby Edwards Air Force Base.

FLOWN BACK

Then it was flown back to the North American Aviation, Inc., plant here, where it was built, and subjected to its most rigorous structural stresses yet.

With the bomber locked on a rack in its hangar, strain gauges flexed the dart-shaped, twin-finned tail-wing up and down as much as four feet in a test of a new concept in its design.

The new idea is "compression lift," which means that the shock wave generated by the XB70A's long pointed nose will actually support part of its 250,000-pound weight in high-speed flight.

Shock waves — compressed air flowing back from leading surfaces — contribute to the drag on conventional planes. The XB70A, however, is designed to ride on top of a portion of the wave. It's 105-foot wide, aft-mounted wing has tips which can be folded downward to channel the wave properly along the under surface, providing extra lift.

The "torture rack" tests are designed to prove the wing's ability to withstand this strain.

So far no troubles have been reported in the wing-strain tests, although they affect an area where the builders ran into many problems during manufacture.

The first flight of the bomber took place last Sept. 21, after a 20-months delay caused by such difficulties as wing-tank leaks, and warpage when workmen tried to weld the wing along 82 feet of the pencil-like fuselage.

The welding problem finally was whipped and most of the fuel tanks properly sealed. Danger of leakage still keeps one major fuel tank empty, however, and the first XB70A may never carry enough fuel to achieve its designed intercontiental range.

A sister XB70A is nearing completion and engineers say this problem will have been solved by the time it flies, probably this summer.

Money has been the bomber's biggest worry since development began.

Original plans in the mid-1950s called for up to 200 B70s, as the planes then were called, an awesome, multibillion-dollar fleet capable of carrying hydrogen bombs anywhere in the world at speeds and altitudes beyond the reach of any fighter then flying.

By 1960 the Pentagon decided that 18,000-mile an hour missiles could do the job cheaper and better. The B70 program was cut back to three prototypes and in 1963 this was reduced to two.

Before the first XB70A made its maiden flight, a 2,200 m.p.h. fighter — the top-secret YF12A — was splitting the sky above the bomber's natal hangar.

Incorporating even more advanced construction techniques, materials and weapons, the YF12A — originally known as the A-11 — shot down the already crippled B70 bomber program.

If any more XB70A's are built, they will reflect a sharp change in administration thinking — and a sudden need to get masses of big bombers into the air quickly.

INGENUITY

Although it has been shuttled onto a siding, the XB70A will go down in history as a monument to ingenuity.

Like the 4,000 m.p.h., rocket-powered X15, the jet-powered XB70A was built of stainless steel to withstand the heat of air friction at high speed. The wings are made of a flat sheet of steel, then a layer of honeycomb metal, and another sheet of steel, all welded together for strength.

This sandwich construction leaves pinholes in the welds through which air can enter and create an explosive mixture — dangerous when skin temperatures heat up to 500-600 degrees Fahrenheit.

A plastic was developed to seal the pinholes but while it was being cured the wings warped. It took months to bring the warped wings into a flawless weld along the fuselage.

At the time of the B70's conception, stainless steel was the strongest, most heat-resistant metal available. Although steel can withstand more than 1,200 degrees in conformations possible in the smaller X15, its weight means it cannot be fabricated to withstand more than 600 degrees in giant planes like the XB70A.

The YF12A uses an even tougher metal, titanium, and so presumably will the upcoming supersonic transport, unless even better materials are developed. The Air Force recently disclosed it is working with boron plastics and alloys which may lead to craft as big as the XB70A and as fast as the X15.

The big question is whether such a bomber will ever be needed. If not, the know-how may be channeled into craft which can fly both in air and in space, designed primarily to ferry technicians between earth and manned orbiting laboratories.

Meantime the XB70A will go on flying for many years. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has indicated interest in taking over the program, turning the once-proud Valkyrie into a scientific workhorse.

BOOKS

Catherine The Great Portrait

CATHERINE THE GREAT. By Zoe Oldenbourg. Pantheon. $5.95.

The author describes her book as a "character study."

It is not a complete biography, for Mme. Oldenbourg says she is interested mainly in "how Catherine came to the throne." And she says "it is the woman, more than the empress, that I am to show, and more especially the slow shaping and maturing of the future empress."

So most of this account is devoted to the period of the mid - 18th Century, from Catherine's childhood to her opportunistic grab at the rulership of all the Russias when she was 33. There followed 34 years in which she reigned.

And what sort of person emerges from this chronicle?

She was a gawky little princess from a two - bit principality in Germany. She was joined in a marriage of convenience to a subnormal heir of the Russian title, the Peter Ulrich who briefly became Peter III, and who came from another little German principality.

Catherine had to serve long years of fearful apprenticeship under Elizabeth, daughter of Peter the Great, before she became a wildly autocratic empress, favoring the nobility, oppressing the serfs and bankrupting her empire in feverish ostentation.

Mme. Oldenbourg is a front-rank writer of historical novels who in this book turns her attention to an ambitious, devouring self-centered female who had the reputation of being "a masterful and energetic sovereign, but also of a debauched and unscrupulous woman."

For all the fact that it is written as a character sketch, illuminated with feminine insight, it amounts to a vivid portrait of a strangely dominant character in a strangely chaotic place and time.

Patterns Threaten To Repeat

MALLABEC. By David Walker. Houghton Mifflin. $4.95.

A Canadian river flowing through an old forest, with its salmon pools and its dangerous rapids, the Mallabec, is as much a part of this story as the main characters.

The novel's key figure is John Hyde, a landscape architect who had inherited the land on the Mallabec. After a long absence, Hyde and his neurotic wife Moira return to the river and forest, and soon are joined by their 28-year-old son Robin, a go-getter real estate dealer in Boston.

They meet Kate, the beautiful, posthumous daughter of an English poet, Poynder, who had lived on the Mallabec years ago. And they meet her husband, a young forestry expert named Talbot.

That prepares the way for a flashback to 1939, when the Hydes and the Poynders were neighbors on the river, and something had happened to change the lives of everyone concerned, something involving the river itself.

So now Hyde sees the old patterns renewing themselves, and feels that his old friend and enemy, the river, is playing its part in the renewal.

It is a story which builds tensions and diffuses a sense of brooding tragedy. It is written with a deft touch of phrasing.

Walker is a very skilled and versatile teller of stories. His most recent "Winter of Madness" was an engagingly humorous madcap version of the intrigue novel, told in a sardonically debonair fashion.

This time he has taken an entirely different theme and mood, creating a novel that breathes a subtle sense of evil in the midst of idyllic surroundings in the backwoods of Canada.

STARTING MONDAY IN THE NEWS-STAR

A Strangely Illuminating Book Listed

THE CATWALK. By Richard B. Erno. Crown. $3.95.

Certainly the plot, theme and atmosphere of Erno's novel represent a departure from the familiar patterns of fiction.

Its hero, Arnold Bricker, is a handy man in a small Michigan town, who is "simple" — or as they probably would say in such a town, he is "overbright."

Following the death of his mother, Arnold is very much alone, except for his friend Gil Major. Living a very uncomplicated existence in a dilapidated old house, playing his banjo, fishing, riding his old motorcycle, unworried by poverty, Arnold drifts along through life.

But he has a vague feeling that "something special" ought to happen to him, and connects this feeling with local rumors about a sea monster in a nearby lake. Arnold's ambition is to catch a glimpse of this fabulous creature.

Nothing very vital happens to Arnold, except for a brief interlude with Beth, a farm girl. Convinced that he cannot go courting unless he has a steady job in a factory, Arnold manages to get a job, but is unable to hold it.

His friend Gil, though scarcely more ambitious than Arnold, is trapped by family loyalty into caring for his aged father, who has lost his mind. But finally the old man's death releases Gil, who promptly leaves town "to see what the world is like out there," and poor Arnold is lonelier than ever.

Written in a low key and filled with muted subtleties, this story is remarkably effective and strangely illuminating.

AUTHORSHIP WITH CORRESPONDENCE

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A Sydney University professor has written a book in collaboration with a Russian professor he has never met.

The co-authors are Prof. H. J. Cowan, 45, professor of architectural science at Sydney University, and Prof. Igor Lyalin, professor of building structure at a specialized institute in Moscow.

They have found common ground on the subject of torsion — the twisting that occurs in reinforced and prestressed concrete.

Prof. Cowan has written many papers on this subject and has achieved a worldwide reputation. About four years ago Prof. Lyalin wrote to him after reading one of his papers. At that time Prof. Lyalin had been seconded to the Burmese government to develop a technical university in Rangoon.

The two professors have corresponded ever since, and when Prof. Cowan was invited to write a book on torsion they agreed to collaborate.

Prof. Cowan says: "He wrote part of the book and I wrote part, exchanging 40 or 50 letters during its preparation. He made a few corrections to my writing and I made some to his. It was rather like playing chess by correspondence."

EXPRESSWAY WITH TEETH

MIAMI (AP) — A woman who lost a set of false teeth on a Miami expressway learned she wasn't the only one.

Mrs. William Kelly advertised her loss and five persons called to report they'd found false teeth on the expressway.

Unfortunately, none of the five sets belonged to Mrs. Kelly.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Interesting New Books Available

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

There are several interesting books of fiction offered to the reading public this week "The Road Less Traveled" is an account of the experiences of a young man in training for the priesthood. "On A Fated Night" by Dorothea Malm is a story of terror and intrigue, set in France more than a century ago. Miss Malm is a master at this sort of writing and the book will appeal to many readers. L. Sprague de Camp is one of the more exciting writers of historical novels. His latest book "The Arrows of Hercules." It has it's setting in the Ancient World in the year 399 B.C. It is an exciting story and will fascinate many readers. Readers who enjoyed "The Egyptian" by Waltari will want to read "The Year of the Death" by Reuben Merliss. This book is full of exciting and little-known information about the practice of Medicine in the Middle Ages and especially the treatment for the Black Death. Those who like books about Doctors will also want to read this. "Squadron Forty - Four" by Arch Whitehouse is a very fine story about the fliers of World War I. This account of the men who made aviation history in the years from 1914-1918 will be read and enjoyed by men of all ages.

There is a great variety of non-fiction offered this week. "Man and His Symbols" by Carl Jung is a very fine introduction to Jung's psychology. "The Systematic Theology of Paul Tillich written by Alexander J. McKelway is an addition to the religious section of the Library. "The Christian Faith" by F. W. Dillistone is a fine exposition of the Christian belief. "Seeds of Destruction" is the latest book by Thomas Merton, the Catholic mystic. Ray C. Petry is the editor of "History of Christianity; Readings in the History of the Early and Medieval Church."

A very interesting and unusual book in the field of social science is "Cycles in Your Life" written by Durrell Huff. This book explains how different people operate on different cycles. A very lovely new book is "The Doubleday Pictorial Library of Technology" edited by J. Bronowski. "Harvest" by Wheeler McMillen is an anthology of farm writing, which contains much important information. "The Small Kitchen Cookbook" by Nino Mortellito will be most useful for those who cook in a limited space. "Guide to American Pewter" by Mario Praz is a fine book for collectors of pewter. One of the loviest books that we have added in a long time is "An Illustrated History of Furnishing From the Renaissance to the Twentieth Century" written by Mario Praz. This was a memorial book and a fine addition to the book collection. "David's Harp" by Alfred Sendry is a most interesting history of music in Biblical times. "Facing the Big Cats," by Clyde Beatty is a very exciting account of his experiences in the circus, written by Clyde Beatty. A humorous book is "Time Lurches On, Or Daddy, What Will You Be When You Grow Up?" by Ralph Schoenstein.

New York is a fascinating city and many readers will want to see "New York, N.Y.: A Photographic Tour of Manhattan Island From Battery Park to Spuyten Duyvil" written by Fred McDarrah. An unusual travel book is "Fiji; Island of the Dawn" by Leonard Wibberley. They are two new books dealing with the Civil War: "Refugee Life In the Confederacy" by Mary Elizabeth Massey deals with a little - known chapter of the conflict. "Jefferson Davis and His Cabinet" by Rembert W. Patrick sheds much new light on the internal conflicts of the Confederacy.

There are a number of exciting biographies; "Catherine The Great" is the first biography to be written by Zoe Oldenbourg, who has given us several exciting novels of life in the middle ages. She has done an excellent job with this colorful figure.

Peter Michelmore is the author of "Doctor Mellon of Haiti" an account of how a man of great wealth spent his entire fortune to set up a hospital in the most need region of Haiti. This book should serve as an inspiration to others. "Patton, Ordeal and Triumph" written by Ladislas Farago is another book about the famous general of World War II, "Howard Thurman; Portrait Of A Dreamer" by Elizabeth Yates is another inspiring book of a man who wanted to help others. "Y. A. Tittle; I Pass; My Story" written by the famous football star, will be in great demand with young men. "Knights of Malta" by Claire Engel is an interesting account of a most interesting order of knights.

There are also several fine additions to the reference collection. "Hammond's Library World Atlas" will be widely used. "Generals in Blue" and Generals in Gray" are two volumes by Ezra Warner dealing with the leaders of the Civil War and published by the L.S.U. Press. They will help many students of American history. There are two new books in the genealogy section; "Southern Families, Vol IV" by John Bennett Boddie and "Early Settlers of Mecklenburg County, Virginia" written by Katherine B. Elliott.

EDUCATED SEA MONSTERS

NEW YORK (AP) —Monsters are prowling the seas off U. S. shores in growing numbers. As described in Steelways magazine, published by American Iron and Steel Institute, many of these steel monsters—called drilling barges by oil men — have learned a variety of tricks since their introduction some years ago.

One type with steel legs as tall as a 30-story building can wade to work, another is built so it can stand in 175 feet of water and drill. Another was drilling off the California coast in 350 feet of water recently. These oil rigs are part of a worldwide fleet of 160, most of which are operating off Louisiana, Texas, California and Alaska.

The oil industry is spending well over $100 million for new, mobile barges. Some of the units contain up to 8,000 tons of steel, cost as much as $7.5 million to build and up to $15,000 a day to operate.

TOWN SNOWBOUND

SAVNIK, Yugoslavia (AP) — Savnik, a town of 8,000 in the mountains of Montenegro, has been snowbound for more than a month. When a woman fell seriously ill, several hardy townsmen carried her on a stretcher to a hospital 24 miles away. The postman usually makes it on foot or by horse every 10 days.

Wodehouse Puts Man On Brink

THE BRINKMANSHIP OF GALAHAD THREEPWOOD. By P. G. Wodehouse. Simon & Schuster. $4.50.

The Wodehouse novels (of which this is the 69th) are characterized by a high Q. N. quotient — Quaint Nonsense, that is.

They also are populated by people who talk and act like the stage Englishman of 40 or 50 years ago.

But undoubtedly they have their perennial appeal, just as Gilbert and Sullivan operettas still are running in this era of tone rows.

This story is in the Blandings Castle genre, a scene presided over by Lord Emsworth, pig fancier de luxe, whose mental equipment is about the equivalent, electrically speaking, of a 7½-watt bulb.

It is his brother Galahad who provides the catalytic changes of plot, if you can call it a plot. Galahad is the one whose friends tell him his glib patter qualifies him for the job of a con man, a remark which Galahad takes as a mild compliment.

He has set himself the task of patching up a romance between his impecunious friend Sam Bagshott and Sandy Callender, the American girl who is Lord Emsworth's secretary. Sam and Sandy had fallen out over Sam's participation in a lottery over which member of the club would be the next to be wed.

That brings in the romance between the wealthy Tipton Plimsoll and Veronica, the beautiful but stupid niece of Lord Emsworth.

There are the usual bits about an intercepted letter, the machinations of Beach the butler, the misunderstandings and misapprehensions which Galahad has to iron out in his inimitable way.

As with most of Wodehouse's fancies, this one is quite utterly, utterly.

NEW PARTY PLANNED

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Expelled from the Neo-Fascist Social Movement party, former Deputy Donenico Leccisi says he will launch a new party on the Italian political scene. Leccisi was thrown out of his party when he and a group of followers occupied the party's provincial headquarters in Milan during internal bickering last November.

Best Queen The World Has Seen

QUEEN VICTORIA, Born to Succeed. By Elizabeth Longford. Harper. $8.50.

The lion was the symbol of the British Empire, but a more appropriate one might have been the woman who reigned — and often did her best to rule — over Britain during its greatest years.

The events and the people in the nearly 64 years of her reign surely must have made it history's greatest matriarchy, and Lady Longford has done a fascinating job of protraying both the times and the woman who made the word Victorian an indeliable part of the English language. The author had access to previously unpublished royal archives and portions of Queen Victoria's famed journal.

Whether the 600-page volume surpasses the Lytton Strachey work that has been the standard biography for 40 years probably will be debated, but there is no question that the new book has considerable merit.

It is exhaustively documented — the list of reference notes covers 25 pages and the index is another 29 — but it never assumes a pedantic air. Indeed, the reader may have trouble at times discovering where history leaves off and gossip begins.

The author obviously felt that the sections bordering on gossip were necessary for a full understanding of the woman who turned the British throne from a laughing stock or worse to the most powerful and respected monarchy on earth, but who at the same time had frailties and quirks that often threatened to drive those around her to madness.

Appropriately, the book is jammed with the great names and events of British history — Disraeli, Suez, the Light Brigade, Browning, Khartoum, Gladstone, India, Kitchener, Wellington — and with interesting passages about such figures as Kaiser Wilhelm, Victoria's parents and children, and of course Prince Albert.

But always the central figure is the woman whom the author appraises: "She was incomparably the best Queen the world had got, and more than one foreign nation, still struggling under a rule of tyranny, self - indulgence or fatuity, wished she were theirs."

THERE'S NOTHING THAT YOU NOR WE CAN DO ABOUT THE INSURANCE HIKE . . .

Insurance Hike Is Highest Here

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Monroe area automobile owers will be tapped for a 29 per cent increase in auto liability rates beginning Feb. 1. This is the result of action by the Casualty and Surety Division of the Louisiana Insurance Rating Commission Monday.

The agency granted Louisiana insurance companies the right to boost their auto liability rates an average of 14.75 per cent across the state.

Insurance Commissioner Dudley Guglielmo, emphasizing that he voted against the increases, explained today that he understood the hikes were based on the loss ratios of the various insurance territories in the state.

"Insurance company statistics indicate," Guglielmo said, that the loss ratio in the Monroe area has been "worse than any other part of the state."

Local insurance sources pointed out that the Monroe area insurance rate has also been lower than other parts of the state. A comparison was offered showing that a person's premium on a per[illegible] for an adult driver in Monroe, [illegible] leans.

. . . BUT WE AT TROY AND NICHOLS CAN MAKE IT LESS PAINFUL BY STRETCHING YOUR PREMIUMS OUT OVER SEVERAL MONTHS!

Sad, but true! There's not much you or Troy and Nichols can do about the increase in auto insurance rates, going into effect February 1. But, Troy and Nichols can help you absorb some of the punch. By using our EASY Payment Plan, you can stretch the premiums out over several months. Let Troy and Nichols help make this increase as painless as possible. See us tomorrow for your auto insurance.

Body Is Found

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UPI) — Deputies Saturday found the body of a Negro whose car plunged into a drainage canal on the edge of town Friday night.

He was Eugene Ellis, 31. Police said there had been reports that more than one person was in the car, but they said Saturday it appeared Ellis was alone.

Officers Named

ST. JOSEPH (Special) — Officers of the Tensas Parish School Board elected at the January meeting include Fred M. Miller, president; Truman James, vice president, and J. L. McConathy, superintendent of schools and ex-officio secretary-treasurer of the school board.

Firm Promotes Two Managers

Joe Wilson has been promoted to District Manager of United Dollar Stores and Gary Allen Warlick, Jonesboro store manager, to manager of the Monroe store according to an announcement by B. J. Tanenbaum, president, of Dumas, Ark.

Wilson opened the Monroe store in 1959 for the firm and in 1963 also assumed management of the West Monroe store. The Wilsons and their son David, a freshman at West Monroe High, have moved to Dumas to the firm's home office.

Warlick, a native of Monroe, has been with the firm the past five years and started with the company in the Monroe store. The Warlicks and their young daughter are now making their home at 11 Merridale Drive in Charmingdale.

WHY?

Each year some members of our community suffer needless trials and tribulations.

BECAUSE!

Some families fail to invest a few precious minutes discussing the demanding need of a family memorial estate. They do not seem to understand that a healthy, happy family unit can spare the inevitable lonely vigil which the surviving part of the family must always make alone.

Memorial Park, the cemetery beautiful, offers you and yours advice through their "Before Need Counciling Service."

OIL, GAS REPORT

14 Completions In Monroe Area

A trend of increased activity in the oil and gas field of the Monroe District continued through the week ending Jan. 21.

Fair weather and other favorable conditions brought about a total of 14 completions and 17 new locations. The completions were somewhat less than the previous week, but four more new locations were listed than a week ago.

The report issued by Duncan Cook, director of the Monroe District of the State Soil Conservation Department, Mineral Division, also reported a total of 48 locations, 20 active, 60 inactive, four abandoned and one temporarily abandoned.

Three re-completions were noted. They were Catahoula Parish, Tew Lake Field — H. A. Harper's Knapp-King Ut. Economy Nears Fifth Year Of Upturn Strong

NEW YORK (AP) — Evidence piled up this week that the economy, approaching the start of its fifth year of upturn, continues strong.

The government released statistics showing gains in December in three important indicators — housing starts, orders for durable goods and personal income.

At the same time, the stock market rose to a historic high, as measured by the popular averages.

About the only major dark spot was the Maine-to-Texas dock strike which made its effects felt as it entered its second week.

The Department of commerce reported an 8 per cent increase in new housing starts. This was considered significant because it followed an 11 per cent decline in November.

Housing starts in December ran at an annual rate of 1,541,000, about 8 per cent higher than November but 2 per cent below December 1963.

For 1964, starts totaled 1,543,000, about 4 per cent under the 1963 total of 1,609,200.

Most of the gain in December was in the south and northeast sections, with a decline in the north central states and only a slight increase in the west.

New orders for durable goods totaled $20.3 billion, up 13 per cent from December 1963. Shipments were a record total of $20.4 billion and unfilled orders amounted to $53.5 billion, $6.8 billion higher than a year earlier.

Personal income in December climbed to an annual rate of $505.7 billion, up $3.5 billion from November.

In all of 1964 personal income set a record of $491.5 billion, a gain of $27 billion above the previous high of 1963.

Big factors in the increase in personal income in December were a $2-billion gain in wages and salaries and a $750-million increase in corporate dividends.

The stock market on Tuesday capped a strong January rally by attaining an all-time peak. The widely followed Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose to 896.27, just short of the 900-mark. The next day it backed away.

Brokers attributed the market's fine showing to dividend increases, good corporate earnings reports, lessened worry about the international monetary situation, and hopes that President Johnson will be able to avoid labor troubles.

Despite these good signs, some economists had some doubts about the future.

Tilford C. Gaines, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, said a mild recession before the end of the year is a good possibility.

"It is my judgment," he added, "that the economy will grow weary as the year progresses and that a sidewise movement or a much reduced rate of growth may be the best we should expect in the last two quarters."

The dock strike had idled 60,000 men and 343 ships. The cost to the economy was estimated at $67 million a day.

Colorado Milling & Elevator Co., with its warehouses bulging, curtailed flour production in all eight of its mills east of the Rocky Mountains.

Mohawk Rubber Co. of Akron trimmed production of tires destined for foreign markets because its warehouses were stuffed with tires that couldn't be shipped.

The Erie Lackawanna Railroad furloughed 400 workers in its marine division. Truck lines in New York laid off 3,500 drivers.

The automobile and steel industries operated at near capacity.

Passenger car output this week was estimated at 209,200, up slightly from 207,074 last week and 17 per cent above the 178,471 turned out a year ago.

General Motors worked Saturday at 16 of its assembly plants, and Ford operated 14 plants the extra day.

Steel production last week stayed at its highest level in five years. Output totaled 2.67 million tons, up 0.5 per cent from 2,656,000 the previous week.

Stock Market Averages Hit Record Highs

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week made record highs in the averages as it stretched its current rally through the fourth straight week.

Analysts saw the continued strength as evidence of heavy reinvestment of the proceeds of year end selling as 1964 drew to a close, supported by a greater air of confidence in Wall Street.

As trading began last week, The Associated Press average had already scored an historic high while the Dow Jones industrial average and Standard & Poor's index of 500 stocks were a shade below their previous peaks registered last November.

On the first day of trading all three averages climbed to new peaks. They repeated this on Tuesday. The market then faltered, turning in a mixed performance, with averages off slightly. Mild profit taking resumed on Thursday, with trading slower and the market down definitely but not to any great extent.

Trading was faster on Friday when the list made a moderate rally, ending the week on the uptick.

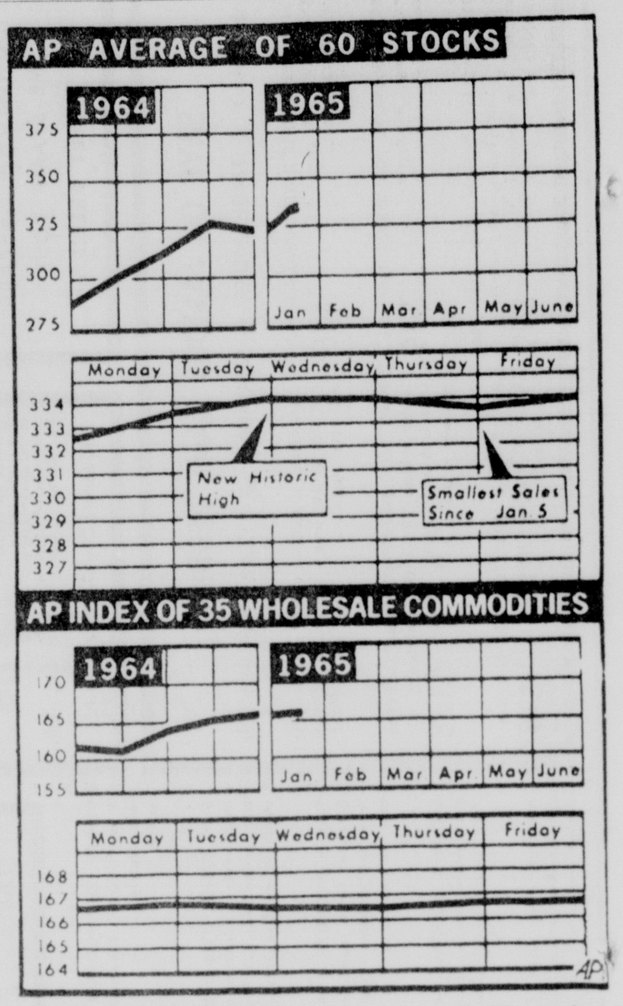
The rise to new highs was regarded as the end of a two-month period of consolidation which followed the previous peak made in November.

Trading was quite active most of the time, the week's volume totaling 26,917,740 shares compared with 28,149,370 the week before.

The Dow Jones industrial average ended the week with a net gain of 2.44 at 893.59. Its closing record was established Tuesday when it reached 896.27.

Bond prices advanced last week.

On the New York Stock Exchange bond volume for the week totaled a par value of $53.046 million, compared to $53.512 million the previous week.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks moved higher for the fourth week in a row, closing Friday at 333.9 from 332.7 a week ago. The commodity index remained unchanged at 166.7 as gains and losses were evenly divided. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

May We Introduce Ourselves?

Our Name Is

CABLEVISION

We have acquired the Franchise to serve Monroe and West Monroe with TV Cable signal, and while making no claim to fame, we do have many years of experience in the CATV field. After many weeks spent in research of the area we have accepted the responsibility to bring good out of town TV viewing to the Twin Cities!

We are probably the only company boasting a policy of starting from the top and working down! Actually this is what we are doing. We have started at the top of our giant 500 foot receiving tower and are replacing out of date and inferior equipment with the best and most advanced in the electronic field of Cable TV.

We are endeavoring to do a good job and take our responsibility very seriously. We thank those people who already subscribe and promise them and the many thousands of others who are interested in good T V Cable service that we will keep them informed on progress and will deliver the best possible T V picture in the shortest possible time.

TO ACCOMPLISH THIS WE MUST ASK FOR YOUR COOPERATION AND THAT YOU WILL BEAR WITH US. ALL THE TIME SPENT IN SERVICE CALLS AT YOUR SET MAKES THE GOOD T.V. RECEPTION WE ARE WORKING FOR, THAT MUCH FURTHER AWAY. WE HAVE TO CORRECT THE PROBLEM OF TV RECEPTION AT IT'S SOURCE, NOT AT YOUR SET.

We have just moved into our new office at 2716 North 7th Street in West Monroe and are busy getting settled in. Our phone number is 387-0276 . . . in case you need some information.

By the way, my name is K. Able-Signal, the boss is John Thomas and the chief engineer is Karl Kandell. We work as a team. I cannot do a good job without their help and they can't do anything without me!

In our bulletin in this space next Sunday we hope to inform you of our progress. Please be patient with us and we promise you much better Cable Televiewing for your leisure hours.

COMING SOON: Shreveport Ch 3, 6, 12 . . . Alexandria Ch 5 . . . Monroe Ch 8 . . . ElDorado Ch 10 . . . 24 hour-a-day Weather Monitor (with background music) plus several FM & FM Multiplex Radio stations. Good strong sharp clear pictures with all the color available . . .! Til next week then.

Monroe Police Report Armed Robbery Solved

Monroe police Saturday reported solving the Jan. 14 armed robbery of Lennie's Liquor and Snacks Store at 1400 Jackson St.

Police, working on a tip from a local motel which reported a man leaving without paying his bill two days later, notified authorities in Ft. Smith, Ark., that the suspect was believed to be in that area. Thursday night, the Missouri Highway Patrol in Springfield informed Monroe police that the suspect had confessed to the local robbery, a similar one in Lake Charles, four in Arkansas and one burglary in Arkansas.

Police said the man is presently jailed at Marshfield, Mo., has signed a waiver to return to Monroe and will be returned as soon as Missouri authorities complete further investigation.

The local robbery occurred about 9:45 p.m. Jan. 14. A total of $143 was reported taken.

About 12:40 a.m. Saturday, West Monroe police booked a 21-year-old man, Dewey Lee Fletcher of 802 N. 7th St., on five charges, including speeding, driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, driving with a revoked driver's license, resisting arrest and disturbing the peace. Fletcher was arrested on North Seventh Street.

A 57-year-old Negro, H. K. Jackson of Fort Worth, Tex., was booked about 1:35 a.m. on charges of reckless driving and carrying a concealed weapon.

Late Friday Monroe police booked three Negroes on charges of gambling and disturbing the peace in the 1300 block of DeSiard St. Police Police said the three, Wilbert Crockrow, 32, Cortie Finley, 49, and Charlie Carter, were shooting dice in the street.

About 6:15 p.m. Monroe police received a purse-snatching complaint from Mrs. Martha Jones of Rt. 2, Box 219, Prairie Rd. She told police that a young Negro male grabbed her mother's purse at Oak and Jackson Streets near St. Francis Hospital and ran south on Jackson.

Mrs. Jones described the Negro as about 5 ft. 10 in. tall, slender build, possibly wearing faded work clothes with a jumper and hat. She said the purse contained $72 and identification papers of her mother, Mrs. James A. Griggs of 1000 Victory Dr., Minden.

Columbia Professor Says College Cheating Widespread, Usually Undetected

NEW YORK (AP) — About half the students questioned in a 99-college survey admitted having cheated and "this is probably a conservative estimate," a Columbia University researcher reported Saturday.

Few get caught. Fewer are punished severely. Seldom are they expelled.

The survey findings were reported even as the U.S. Air Force Academy was being jolted by a cheating scandal reminiscent of the 1951 shakeup at the U.S. Military Academy.

So far, with the investigation still continuing on the Colorado campus, 29 Air Force cadets — including some athletes and top scholars — have left school. In the earlier West Point scandal, 90 Army cadets were expelled, including 43 varsity football players.

Supported by the federal government, Columbia researcher William J. Bowers questioned 5,422 students at 99 colleges and universities, as well as more than 600 college deans and more than 500 student body presidents.

"Perhaps the most alarming finding of this body concerns the prevalence of academic dishonesty on American college campuses," Bowers said.

Students and teachers themselves do not realize the extent of it.

"The magnitude of the problem is grossly underestimated by members of the campus community," Bowers continued.

"Two and a half times as many students have cheated as student body presidents estimate, and more than three times as many have cheated as deans estimate.

"Even students themselves underestimate the proportion of students who have cheated at some time; they tend to believe that only about half as many have cheated as their self-reports indicate."

Bowers traced the origins of college cheating to the high schools and the prevailing student philosophy there that being a "brain" damages the student's popularity. Thus cheating is the means of "getting by" without risk to social standing.

In college, he continued, the most influential deterrent to cheating is how it is regarded by the student body in general.

Letters Tell Facets Of Life In Viet Nam

Monroe Morning World
SUNDAY FEATURES
Monroe, La. January 24, 1965 1-B
Editorials Spotlight Sports

By BILL HARDIN
Staff Writer

Interesting insights into native customs and contrasting ways of life in Viet Nam are provided in letters and photographs sent to members of his family by an area man, now a U. S. military intelligence officer stationed in Chau Doc Province in an area of armed conflict.

A year being spent in Viet Nam, both in Saigon and in the troublesome areas near the Cambodian border, can be something to be dreaded - as it mostly is — or it can be just another assignment for those who chose the Armed Forces as a career.

It can also be, if recorded in letters and in photographs, a period that in later years will be real to both the participant and the family to whom he writes.

It is the latter situation that Captain John Earl Taylor, originally from Farmerville, later Monroe and Northeast Louisiana State College, still later at Fort Campbell, Ky., and even later, Ft. Sill, Okla. Fort Sill was the jumping off place before going to Viet Nam as an advisor.

PICTURES OF LIFE

From letters received by his mother, Mrs. Earl Taylor, Route 1, Farmerville, his wife, Pat Huser Taylor of Slidell, and from friends, some picture of the life, or rather the better parts, have been told. His wife has received many pictures with the letters, most of the photographs relate directly with the experiences which he has had.

Capt. Taylor is an intelligence officer in the Chau Doc Province, on the border between South Viet Nam and Cambodia, scene of many of the latest actions in the unofficial war. However, he has written little or nothing of this action, preferring to tell of the native customs, the difference in life there, and in several instances of some of the "luxuries" which he has enjoyed when visiting in Siagon.

Relating one particular incident, Capt. Taylor wrote a "province chief invited the American adviser to accompany him to a special ceremony or meeting across the Bassac River. I rode by boat, the same slow-moving vessel I rode down the canal on my first operation."

WATERWAY IN MEKONG

The Bassac River forms in one of the highland areas of Cambodia then continues in a southeasterly direction through the extreme southern part of South Viet Nam, eventually forming one of the many waterways in the Mekong Delta.

"Anyway," he continued," we pulled into this very narrow channel, and much to my surprise there, in the distance, stood a gigantic mosque."

Although much of the population of South Viet Nam is Catholic, due to the influence of the years of French rule and custom, the predominant religions remain Islamic and Buddhist, as in much of the other areas of Asia. And, because of the dependence in the area on water transportation - through the small canals and other waterways- villages and larger towns seem to rise from the water itself. The same is true of the mosques, the tops of which usually dominate the village's skyline."

Upon arriving at the mosque, Capt. Taylor wrote, "we were greeted by the village chiefs, the 'low' village chief, the 'high' village chief, . . . other chieftains."

Because of the many Oriental titles denoting the various statuses of each chieftain, many of the non-Orientals, in these cases, mostly Americans, simply call the various chieftains "low" and "high" chiefs.

RHYTHMIC CHANT

"It was a most cordial welcome! We had a military honor guard of sorts and as we started down the two long rows of people that lined the way to the mosque, there began a low, rhythmic chant to drum beats. A thrilling sound, in a fashion," he remarked.

Recalling past motion pictures seen prior to his leaving the United States, Capt. Taylor described the particular scene as "something like you hear in the movies of India. "For instance, the scene in 'Around the World in 80 Days' where the princess is to be burned alive on the pyre, and hundreds of natives are standing by, bodies swaying, and smoothly - uttered chants fill the secluded jungle spot . . ."

Recalling the incident and comparing, Taylor said "this scene did not have the grandeur of a Michael Todd Production (Around the World In 80 Days), but it quickened your senses to a people with a different background, values and destiny than those of ours.

FOLLOWERS OF ISLAM

"I looked into eyes of the followers of Islam . . . and they looked into the eyes of a Christian. What they saw I do not know, but I viewed kindness, warmth and joy in people who for hundreds of years have never had a touch of civilization such as we know it. . ."

Later describing the ceremony inside the mosque, he said it "reminded me of most U. S. functions. Everybody and his brother must speak."

"Following this we removed our shoes and entered the foyer of the mosque where we sat on rugs. Shortly after we were seated, they began to bring huge platters of food which we were obliged to eat with our hands."

Then, to point out the delicacy of the affair, and the necessity of observing custom, despite its remoteness to the American way of life, he asked in the letter "Ever try to eat rice and lamb gravy with your fingers?"

TO SETTLE DISPUTE

The purpose of this particular meeting in the mosque was to settle a dispute between the "high" and "low" chieftans of the village. However, he did not specify if the mission was successful, or if it was another effort on the part of this country and Viet Nam leaders to settle local disputes.

Taylor was able to take some pictures of the mosque, the ceremony inside and other interesting portions of that visit.

Another feast described by Captain Taylor featured "chilled duck blood, peanuts and duck liver." Fortunately, or unfortunately, depending on how the courses were viewed, he did not have to eat at this meal.

During the visit to the mosque, the captian became well acquainted with the high chief and later, the group went to his house, where he took more pictures. One of the pictures was of the chief's harem, something normally taboo. Incidentally, the harem ranged in age from 16 to 60 years.

One thing which particularly disturbs Captain Taylor, he wrote, was the way the youngsters are not restricted from the roads, or other places of danger. "The way children are allowed to play on the roads, it's a wonder there are not 20 to 30 deaths a day," he wrote.

LANDING AREAS FENCED

Fences had to be erected around the helicopter pads, landing strips, to prevent the children from being on the field when the crafts took off and returned.

During the fall, Captain Taylor was assigned to Saigon where he set up mess and PX field accounts for the advisory team stationed in Chau Phu.

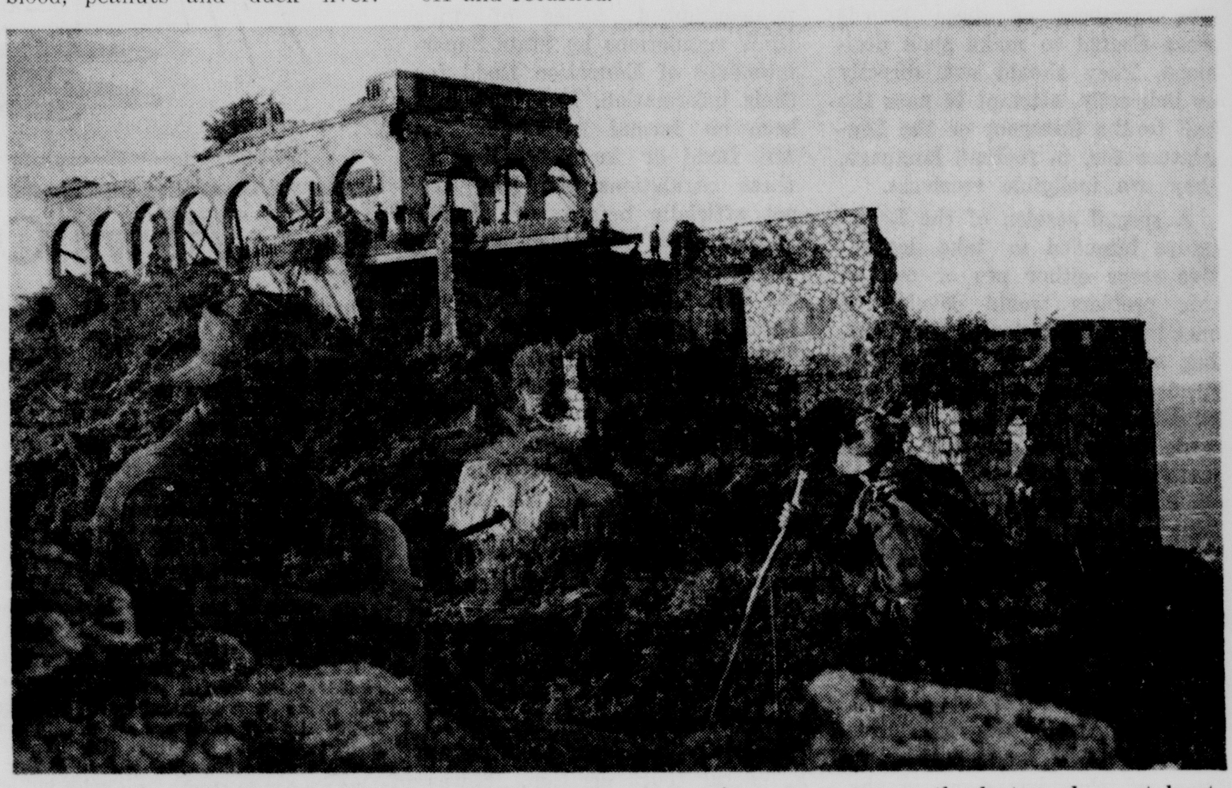
He and a friend were staying at the Continental Palace Hotel, which was formerly French. Commenting that he really enjoyed the luxuries, he cited ceiling fans, mosquito nets, cold water showers and continental breakfast.

He said the rent was $6.75 (493 piastres) which was "actually expensive for here . . . but we get the continental breakfast and luncheon or dinner."

On the day which he wrote this letter, he said he had chosen the continental luncheon and "stewed duck with green peppers . . . it was delicious." Referring to a small green pepper used there for seasoning, he commented on the "delicate taste," then added "Tremendous!"

CAPTAIN TAYLOR is shown with Sgt. Quant, one of two interpreters which the advisory unit has. They are standing in front of the sector headquarters.

A BACKWARD GLANCE is given as Taylor, and other members of the unit, along with the children and maid of Lt. Col. Phom, village chief, shown right, return from an Islamic village. In the background are some of the boats which accompanied the party across the river.



RUINS OF A temple atop Nue Sam Mountain are checked by members of the Popular Force personnel after they were fired upon by four Viet Cong. The four snipers were apparently destroyed, or at least no mention was made of the disposition of the incident.

FEASTS FOLLOW meetings of importance. This one in an Islamic mosque, with members of the American Advisory teams and officials of villages and Viet Nam army units. Capt. Taylor is seated just right of center, in line with the column. Purpose of this meeting was to settle a dispute between the "high" and "low" chiefs of the village.

School Boards' Error

The Louisiana School Boards Association put itself far out on a very frail limb — needlessly and uselessly — at its convention in Shreveport when it demanded that Governor McKeithen call a special session of the Legislature to tell the state's various local School Boards what they could or should do about the federal regulation that federal school aid would be withheld from school districts failing to desegregate, or initiate acceptable plans for desegregation.

This is not a responsibility of the State Legislature and Governor McKeithen is 100 per cent correct in his flat refusal to call a special session for this purpose. The responsibility, in the final analysis, and for the final decision, must be made by the School Boards of the various school districts — parish areas in most cases and city areas in a few. The members of these Boards were elected to make such decisions. They should not, directly or indirectly, attempt to pass the ball to the Governor or the Legislature for, in football language, they are ineligible receivers.

A special session of the Legislature intended to take legislative steps either pro or con on this problem would develop at once into a repetition of the shouting and screaming of the five special sessions of the Davis administration in 1960-61 which made Louisiana government — justifiably or not — the laughingstock of the nation. Through the joint efforts of Governor McKeithen and the Legislature, and other elected state officials, a new image of Louisiana is being created around the nation. It is a favorable image, a fine image, and one that we must preserve. To go back to the legislative days of 1960-61 would destroy all the good that has come in the past year and would be a tragic blow to our efforts to grow internally through attraction of external investment within our boundaries.

There are several things to keep in mind in this whole issue of what local School Boards should do about the atrocious and revolting regulations issued by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) under Title VI of the new Civil Rights Act.

First, the issue is not one of whether segregation of public schools can be maintained by action of local government. That issue has been settled by the United States Supreme Court through its 1954 interpretation of the Constitution, and numerous subsequent interpretations. The World believes that the 1954 decision was itself unconstitutional and that, consequently, all related subsequent decisions by the Supreme Court are unconstitutional. But the federal Constitution is whatever the United States Supreme Court says it is.

The question now is whether local school districts should follow the HEW desegregation rules and regulations in order to receive federal aid to education as it now exists and will exist if and when the new Johnson aid to education biill is passed. Constitutionality of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act certainly is subject to Court tests and surely will be tested; as probably will the particular regulations now set forth by HEW covering federal aid to schools. In time all federal aid — agriculture, highways, health — are to be covered by comparable federal regulations. Desegregation cannot be prevented by refusal of federal aid.

Second, as of right now, nothing has been placed before any local School Board in Louisiana by the federal government, by the State Department of Education, or by the State Board of Education on which to act in this matter. Members of District Boards of Education and District Superintendents of Education at a recent meeting, were handed mimeographed copies of the HEW regulations by State Superintendent of Education Dodd for their information. But there has been no formal submission by Mr. Dodd or anybody else of these regulations and they are not officially before any elected governmental school group. Until somebody formally notifies the local School Boards, in writing and over somebody's signature, that they must do thus and so or they will not receive thus and so, there is nothing for the local Boards to act on. Neither Mr. Dodd nor the officials of School Districts at the above meetings took any action on the purely informational mimeographed document given them informally.

Third, so far as state laws are concerned, the law — Act 14 of the first of the five Davis special sessions which started in 1960 — specifically has been nullified by a federal court decision. It was the law that any school district desegregating would be ineligible to receive any education funds from the state.

All of the laws of those five sessions which apply to the present situation either have been nullified specifically by federal courts, or come under the Aaron V. Cooper Supreme Court decision of 1958 which held that any action by any public official —executive, legislative or judicial — interferring with Court ordered desegregation would be held unconstitutional.

In other words, in 1958, the Supreme Court held that any future laws by states or governing bodies or officials within a state, would be unconstitutional. So, there is little question as to what the Supreme Court would do with any Louisiana law applying to the present situation that happened still to be on the statute books.

We do not envy the School Boards the decisions they will have to make in the not distant future. But neither can we approve any shirking of responsibility by any education officials, elected or otherwise. They have a tough job, but they'll have to face it.

Bail-Bond Reform

There are four principal objections to the present bail-bond systems in both state and federal courts.

1. One man is allowed to go free while the other, who has no money, is imprisoned, even though the offense is the same.

2. The cost of feeding and caring for prisoners accused but not convicted is far greater than the cost of running down the few who would abscond.

3. An accused person who is jailed has far less chance of acquittal than the one who is at liberty, since the one who is released has greater opportunity to confer with his attorney and a better chance to enlist the help of witnesses.

4. The man out on bail can keep working and thus keep his finances in better shape. This has a double advantage. He is better able to pay investigating costs and attorney fees and to support his family.

One of the bills now before Congress relating to bail in federal courts would allow release of prisoners unable to make bond on their personal recognizance.

When state courts, such as those in St. Louis, have experimented successfully with releasing defendants without bond, except those accused of the worst crimes, the federal courts should not be left behind but should take the lead.

Views Of Our Readers

Opposes Federal Aid

Start, La.

To the Editor:

I have sent the following to Gov. McKeithen.

Hon. Gov. John McKeithen
Baton Rouge, Louisiana

This is to advise you that it is my honest opinion, that the people of Richland Parish are about fifty to one against taking any federal aid. The reason is not only bowing down to integration, but under the aid program set up by the federal government, they would say what kind of books would be used in our schools for our children to study. In the opinion of many, this would be a clear-cut washpot to soak our children's minds in. Not only this, but, there is a strong sentiment to do everything we can to repeal the Civil Rights Law. Many feel that acceptance of federal aid would impair any chance which we now have to accomplishing this. They say that they had rather pay a sales tax to run our schools rather than accept federal aid.

Now, I do not think anyone is against education, but it is my belief that education should be tempered with common sense, that is that an educational set-up without reasoning (which is the very life-fiber of common sense) could be disasterous. In my opinion, we are on the brink of this very thing unless it can be established that socialism is more desirable than free enterprise, or that a sprawling central federal government is better than a republic with a Constitution like the one which our fore-fathers drew up with the tenth amendment as the cornerstone.

If you have any doubt in your mind, as to which of these two governments is foremost, ask history. It should be any man's teacher. As to the argument that we will lose this aid and have to pay the federal tax for other states, this may be true, but let us examine the record of other taxes which we pay. Let us keep in mind the amount we lose, which in figures is around 15 million to 300 million. These figures seem to vary depending upon whom is talking or figuring.

Now, President Johnson has asked 3.6 billion dollars for Foreign Aid with no strings attached. Now consider the contrast, no strings attached, up until now, the something over one-hundred billion dollars which we have given in Foreign Aid since World War II, but Louisiana has paid her share of the sum. During the last forty years there is hardly a family which hasn't given someone in battle to preserve the Republic, which now seems to have fallen from within. This is just the figuring.

Another question, we are fighting a war that is costing four million dollars a day and have been for four years and Louisiana pays her share of this in blood and money. In the news recently, we all read where we captured a huge quantity of arms which we had given one of our foreign aid friends. How stupid can we get??

Now, Governor, I plead with you as a man, a friend, and a Father to stand up as a tall man and be counted. Tell them that we are very capable of running our schools without benefit of their help or advice.

The federal aid could not be called taxation without representation, but rather a fine because we refuse to behave or a wave of hate because we refuse to listen to dictation.

Governor, I hope you will read this carefully and think it through. Then, make the decision which your conscience will allow you to live with and I feel certain, it will be the right one.

Freedom

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

Freedom can exist only in the heart.

American people have: No freedom of speech, no freedom of property rights and no freedom of work because they willingly allowed their desire for these freedoms to be overcome by their desire to conform to a system in which they had a financial stake, benefit payments and something for nothing.

Even though it is shocking, illegal and dictatorial as well as unconstitutional for a Supreme Court (and sometimes one man) and Government (and sometimes one man) to take away these freedoms from the people, the people themselves not only allowed it to happen but a majority of the people wanted this system because of what it gave to them.

The ties, favors and obligations that the administration has established, took from most of the people their desire to maintain their independence and thereby took away their freedom. It had become increasingly difficult for the people desiring freedom to have any influence and furthermore even to speak out for freedom.

The last presidential election, however, proved that regardless of how people talk about conservatism and freedom (freedom is not wanting something for nothing), the majority did not want freedom but wanted security and something for nothing at the priceless cost of giving up all of their freedoms. The people knew that this was the issue in the last presidential election.

When the people have willingly given up their spirit of independence, pride and freedom, there is no power which can prevent a dictatorship.

Church Youth Work

West Monroe, Louisiana

To the Editor:

Your paper carried the news story by the AP, January 14th "Scriptures Replaced by Famous Authors."

The story published was about a book written in Pennsylvania with quotations from famous authors. The book had 192 pages and was to be used in the city of Philadelphia suburban upper Darby schools to take the place of outlawed Bible reading by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Mr. Editor, I know your opinion of this for I read your editorial January 18th. It was good and stated the dangers ahead.

You stated Albert Einstein who was quoted in the book was athiest, Thomas Paine, another they used quotations from, was an infidel of the 18th century. Both Einstein and Paine were great men but unbelievers in the basic truths of scripture.

When you desire to change the thinking and ideals of a nation you must get the desired change before the youth and instill it into their thinking. We all know this from history. You can change the world tomorrow by changing the youth of today.

The great part of my last thirty years in the ministry was mostly centered on reaching youth. If I had all the forty nine years of my ministry to go over again I would center most all the forty nine on youth and youth work.

Our churches must get more concerned and launch great youth movements for God and basic facts about Him. The churches can do this if they will.

The churches are the hope of a nation drifting away from God. People need to wake up and get up and support the churches of today.

Johnson Expects Smooth Sailing

IT COULD BE DUE to the heady hoopla of the biggest and most costly inauguration in history, but President Johnson is painting a glowing picture of the prospects of his wide-ranging "great society" legislative program.

Exuberantly and confidently, he is telling the army of Democratic governors, mayors, national committeemen and assorted other party leaders who swarmed into the capital that smooth sailing is definitely ahead for his numerous multi-billion dollar proposals — with two exceptions.

The doubtfuls are his immigration bill, extensively revising the decades - old national quota system, and the measure to repeal Section 14 (b) of the Taft-Hartley Act empowering the states to enact right - to - work laws.

The President is admitting these two proposals face powerful opposition and their fate is extremely uncertain. But regarding his other "great society" projects, he is cockily bullish that Congress will vote them without undue delay. The "sure things" list he reels off consists of the following:

Multi-billion dollar medicare plan under Social Security.
$1 billion Appalachia aid.
$1 billion accelerated public works.
$1.2 billion educational aid for impoverished areas.
$3.38 billion foreign economic and military aid.
Water pollution control.
Establishment of a Department of Housing.

Not only is the President voicing rosy assurance that all these measures will be approved, but he is firmly attributing similar optimism to the Democratic leaders of the Senate and House. He is crediting them as being just as certain of that as he is.

HOW THEY'LL DO IT — One reason for this airy positiveness is a backstage plan to "pack" two key House subcommittees which will handle several of the most controversial measures — foreign aid and immigration.

On the former the President is getting the potent help of a fellow Texan, Representative George Mahon, head of the influential Appropriations Committee.

Mahon is seeing to it that two Democrats favorable to the President's multi- billion dollar foreign aid budget are added to the Appropriations subcommittee in charge of this legislation. These two extra votes will provide the margin to block Representative Otto Passman, D-La., chairman, from drastically slashing foreign aid as he has done for years.

With this hurdle overcome, the President and Mahon figure they will have relatively easy sailing the rest of the way in the House — they hope!

But the story is far less promising on the controversial immigration bill.

Like Mahon, Representative Emanuel Celler, D-N. Y., chairman of the Judiciary Committee is set to "pack" the Subcommittee on Immigration, headed by Representative Michael Feighan, D-O.

Feighan, no rubber stamp, is not against modifying the national quota system. But he is vigorously insistant on adequate safeguards to bar the entry of subversives, criminals and tens of thousands of unscreened refugees now living in Algeria and behind the Iron Curtain.

ALSO STRONGLY challenged by Feighan is the shifting of authority over immigration policy from Congress to the Executive Branch. The Ohioans view this as an unacceptable change.

The behind - the scenes tug-of-war between Feighan, Celler and the administration is heated and stormy. Its outcome is a toss-up. Feighan, a tough scrapper, has important allies in and out of Congress. He also has some explosive ammunition ready to use if he has to.

Foremost is the Justice Department's failure to assist Feighan's subcommittee to investigate a $200 million "traffic in human lives" operated by the Communist regime in Rumania.

Sworn testimony before Feighan's committee revealed that Henry Jakober, a Hungarian with Rumanian citizenship, functioning from a swank apartment on Park Lane in London, is directing an international "shakedown" ring that is extorting tens of millions of dollars from Rumanians seeking exit visas.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Kennedy, Wagner Wage Big Battle

NEW YORK CITY — New York Democrats who elected Robert F. Kennedy to the United States Senate are wondering what their votes have wrought. Bobby Kennedy, it seems, is the man-who-came-to-dinner of Empire State politics. The "carpetbagger" charge leveled against him has assumed new proportions.

For in the November election, New Yorkers gained not only a Senator. They opened the doors to a political force that has left the Democratic Party a shambles. Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who controlled the city and state machine, is fighting desperately to maintain some sort of hold. Senator Kennedy is already showing more muscle in his manipulation of a reform-political boss coalition which seeks to run things from now on.

The Kennedy blitz — to take over the first Democratic majority that the State Legislature has seen in decades — nearly succeeded. Now it commands more votes than the old Wagner bunch, but it lacks enough to elect a speaker and a president of the Senate. And so the two factions have been endlessly voting, while the state's legislative business has ground to a halt.

TO TOP THIS OFF, Mayor Wagner has charged the Kennedy faction with an attempt to bribe its way to victory. There are loud denials and louder cries of anguish. The Republicans piously call for an investigation, and this is already under way. It could be funny, but it is really very sad.

What this whole mess in New York and Albany demonstrates is the old political maxim that it's one thing to run someone else's campaign, another thing to operate for yourself. Bobby Kennedy did an excellent job of organizing and arm twisting when he was running through the yeoman chores of getting John Fitzgerald Kennedy nominated and elected. He was, moreover, dealing on a higher level of politics where the raw confusion of state house donnybrooks is avoided.

It can be noted, as well, that Robert Kennedy was a little over - confident and too impatient. Washington observers have known him as a young man in a hurry. But in the past, this tendency was curbed by the more seasoned advisers to JFK — and by the President himself. John F. Kennedy was sometimes crisp, sometimes acid, sometimes amusedly tolerant with a younger brother who so earnestly served him. Even in the acid there was deep affection. But this slowed down Bobby when alone he would have ordered all speed ahead.

Coming to New York politics without any real grounding and relying on advice he could not properly evaluate, Senator Kennedy made his play for statewide leadership before he had learned to find his way in the dark of our political night.

IN NEW YORK, there are factions within factions. Ideology is important, but it frequently lags behind what the Germans liked to call "realpolitik."

Not knowing this, Bobby Kennedy made his play before he knew for certain that he had the required number of votes nailed down. When his handpicked choices for leadership positions in Albany failed to make it on the first few ballots, Senator Kennedy came out in the open instead of recalling his troops and waiting for another day. He is now exposed as the leader of the opposition to Mayor Wagner and to those who have held the Democratic Party together in Albany during the years of drought.

He can no longer withdraw. He must win the battle — and decisively — or be forced to accept a damaging defeat. A victory now, in truth, may be Pyrrhic. Too many Democrats who feared the Kennedy juggernaut are now sure they were right. Others have been hurt badly. The continuing conflict has made both Mayor Wagner and Mr. Kennedy seem slightly ridiculous — and in politics, that's worse than being thought crooked.

Of more consequence, if Senator Kennedy is to pursue his dream of the Presidency, is the effect in Washington. At this time, he should have been building up an image of statesmanship. Instead he has become embroiled in what looks like ward politics to the members of the world's most exclusive club. Bobby Kennedy cannot have it both ways. He cannot play the scrapper one day and the heir to John F. Kennedy the next. He cannot simultaneously be a political man who came to dinner, carrying his carpetbag, and a young Daniel Webster.

Soviet Missile Buildup In Cuba

KEY WEST, FLA. — Impeccable Cuban underground sources reveal a Soviet missile concentration and electronic buildup certainly unknown to our public. And these are the same sources on which this column relied, and who were proven completely right, in the face of Washington denials, for so many months before the October 22, 1962, missile "confrontation."

They are eyewitnesses to the Soviet missiles and the immense electronic installations that go with these. They find the missile caves that Washington finally agreed were there not only still exist but have have been enlarged. Several members of the underground even "helped" enlarge them, for they infiltrated the operation as construction workers.

They continue to insist that all long-range atomic missiles have not been removed. When Washington abandoned our on-site inspection demand we not only did not inspect the sites we did not inspect the crates. All we got was aerial photographs of canvas-covered boxes on outgoing ships.

THUS THE HAUNTING question has always remained: If the Kremlin did what it said it would do, why didn't it let us see it do it?

There were 86 long-range missiles known to have been brought in. These observers insist that many remain and have counted several at Auras (Las Villas Province) alone. Auras is on the south coast of Cuba and the underground arsenal is 1½ miles inland from the coast.

Moreover, an American enters the picture. Members of the underground name, as a prime mover in the Soviet program, an American who took asylum in Cuba and who held an Atomic Energy Commission security clearance for four year. This scientist is a graduate of California Institute of Technology and an expert on U. S. atomic missiles.

There are two Moscow-controlled headquarters. One is in the vast cavern of Santo Tomas. Cuban Communist leader and cave expert Antonio Nunez Jimenez describes this phenomenon in the Castro magazine, Bohemia, as the largest cavern in all Latin America, stating that "its galleries and underground rivers extend 16 kilometers and form a complicated network of 20 intercommunicating caverns.

What Jimenez does not say is the use the Russians have made of this subterranean maze.

Editor's LAGNIAPPE With Jack Gates

Sunday's Thought

MY PURPOSE

To awaken each morning with a smile brightening my face;
To greet the day with reverence for the opportunities it contains;
To approach my work with a clean mind;
To hold ever before me, even in the doing of little things, the Ultimate Purpose toward which I am working;
To meet men and women with laughter on my lips and love in my heart;
To be gentle, kind and courteous through all the hours;
To approach the night with weariness that ever woos sleep, and joy that comes from work well done—
This is how I desire to waste wisely my days.

Tiring Things

Some things you get tired of hearing speakers say:

1. My friends, when I came here tonight only God and myself knew what I was about to say to you. Now only God knows.

2. It's good to be back among you again. This being my first visit to your beautiful city, I look forward to renewing old acquaintances, including those I have never met.

3. If, during my speech, any of you wish to leave the hall, please do so quietly so you will not awaken the others.

4. My problem is that when I begin to talk on this subject, I don't know where to stop.

5. I am speaking to the men only, so you ladies may keep right on talking to one another.

Subject For Study

A preacher friend told this one:

Seems a circuit rider was asking a hillbilly girl if he could speak to her father.

"Naw, sir," said the girl, "Daddy's in the pen."

"Well then," said the minister, "What about your mother?"

"Mamma's in the sanitarium," said the girl, "she was seeing things."

"Perhaps I could speak to your brother," said the minister.

"Naw," said the girl, "he's away at Harvard."

"Oh," said the minister, brightening, "That's fine, what is he studying?"

"He ain't studying nothin'," said the girl, "they're studying him."

You Can't Win

How true this is:

If you run after money, you're money mad; if you keep it, you're a capitalist; if you spend it, you're a spendthrift; if you don't get it, you are a ne'er-do-well; if you don't try to get it, you lack ambition; if you get it without working for it, you're a parasite; and if you accumulate it after a lifetime of hard work, people will say you are a fool who never got anything out of life.

Let Me Live Out My Years

Let me live out my years in heat of blood!
Let me die drunken with the dreamer's wine.
Let me not see this soul-house built of mud
Go toppling to the dust — a vacant shrine.
Let me go quickly like a candle light
Snuffed out just at the heyday of its glow!
Give me high noon — and let it then be night
Thus would I go.
And grant me, when I face the grisly Thing,
One haughty cry to pierce the gray Perhaps.
O let me be a tune-swept fiddlestring
That feels the Master Melody — and snaps.

Interesting Sayings

1. The neurotic builds castles in the sky. The psychotic lives in them. The psychiatrist collects the rent.

2. Some minds are like concrete — thoroughly mixed and permanently set.

3. The easiest way to get a reputation for possessing a superior mind is to nod approval and let the other fellow do all the talking.

4. Everyone is liable to make mistakes, but fools practice them.

5. The man who never makes a mistake probably gets his salary from one who does.

6. A fool and his money are welcome everywhere.

7. Today, after you make money, you have to hire an accountant to explain how you did it.

8. An old-timer is one who can remember when a baby sitter was called mother.

On Spending

A magazine, called the Evangel, came up with some interesting figures, if accurate, on how Americans spend their dollars.

Here is the breakdown, according to the publication:

Gambling	$30 billion.
Crime	$20 billion.
Alcoholic Beverages	$9.05 billion.
Tobacco	$5.273 billion.
Religious and Welfare	$3.356 billion.
Dog Food	$175 million.
Foreign Missions	$130 million.

Even at the $130 million, some could say that was too much on foreign missions — considering the lack of accomplishments in such places as China, the Congo, Cuba, just to name a few. And from the reports from throughout the U.S. about crime, violence, mob action etc., more could be spent on missionary endeavor here.

Your Hidden Taxes

Ever wonder how much you pay in federal taxes?

Tax Foundation, a private non-profit research group, reports it has developed a simple formula by which you can determine how much you pay in hidden federal taxes. For every dollar of your federal income tax, you pay another $1.20 in other federal taxes, mostly concealed.

For example, if your weekly income tax deduction is $15 you pay another $18 weekly in various other federal taxes, which means your total paid to Uncle Sam is about $33 weekly. This is merely an average figure, while a particular individual could pay more or less, all depending on personal income and buying habits.

But seen or unseen, as the Tax Foundation figures it, they all add up to one-fifth or more of your income tax if it happens to be around the average figure. Of course, the federal tax bite is bad enough as it is now, but Washington reports of plans for increased federal spending would suggest that increased taxes are almost inevitable. And if our taxes go much higher, a person may have to work like a dog to be able to live like — one.

Man And Monkey

Through the ages, there have raged arguments about the theory of evolution — whether man descended from the ape and monkey families. Until now, no one ever thought to ask the monkey what he thought about the situation.

At any rate, H. W. Adams of 109 Tennessee Street, Monroe, passed along a poem or something, (author unkown) on the subject. Here it is:

Three monkeys sat in a coconut tree
Looking down on people like you and me.
Said one to the other, now listen you
There's a certain rumor that cannot be true
That man descended from our noble race.
The very idea of the rank disgrace
No monkey ever deserted his wife,
Starved his babies and ruined their life.
And you've never seen a mother monk,
Leave her babies with a babysitter or sort of other junk,
Til they hardly knew who is their mother.
Here's another thing the monk won't do,
Go out at night and come home in a stew,
Use a gun, a club or a knife,
Or take some other monkey's wife.
Yes, man descended, the ordinary cuss,
But he never descended from us.

TWIN CITIES WEEK IN REVIEW

Monetary Tides Both Ebb, Flow

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

We speak of hard cash, but, in a sense, few substances are more fluid. Try holding on to a paycheck, for example.

On a larger scale, economics may be compared with the pulsing of the sea, influenced by "gently awful stirrings" akin to those which cause the tide to run.

There were two main moons affecting the Twin City monetary tides last week — one which suggested an ebb, the other a flow.

TYLER

Several stories relating to the teachers pay raise, set amounts on additional funds expected in coming months. Other items chronicled the approach of D-Day, as the line played out on federal funds to state educational programs.

Now, literature abounds with heroic types who reject wealth in deference to a principle. While story - book figures have no life of their own, local education leaders, in common with others in the state, may be faced soon with just such a crucible, and there's no pre-written finish.

Gov. John McKeithen Tuesday reiterated what many consider a wise stand against an expensive special legislative session to ponder recourses, if any, to a federal edict which demands non - discrimination pledges in exchange for continued financial assistance.

By doing so, however, in effect he dumped the question of compliance squarely into local laps — the respective school boards, that is.

DECISION-DAY

Washington has set March 3 as decision-day, by which time state and local education bodies must have signed the agreements or expect the consequences. The consequences could be considerable.

In Ouachita Parish, federal assistance dollars total slightly more than half a million, pumped mainly into a food commodities program for school lunchrooms. Calculated on this fiscal year, the figure includes $368,500 to the parish, and $133,800 to the City of Monroe system.

Tallies supplied us anent last year's parish operation reflected federal "beneficence" to the tune of $273,000. Based on average wholesale prices, commodities supplied school cafeterias were valued at $191,000, besides which the government chipped in four cents on each of about four million lunches dispensed, and a tab more through the National Milk Program. In all, the federal establishment supported approximately 34 per cent of the total lunchroom expense.

And so, it must be obvious, there is a decision to be made of stellar magnitude.

The Ouachita Parish School Board was filled in during an executive session Tuesday night, though it took no formal posture afterwards. Informal chatting after the meeting, however, found several members to hold the view that more is at stake than money and that the real issue — loss of local control — has been concealed in a smoke screen of what's grandly called civil rights.

"The minute that agreement is signed, you've turned over the running of your schools to the federal government," was the flat statement of one highly - placed educator. "It can come to the point that you can't take the low bid for a project if it's shown that the bidder has practiced discrimination."

On the other side of the coin, there was the viewpoint that rejection of compliance and resort to the courts offers no genuine alternative and that tilting over delaying tactics is quioxtic, in fact self-defeating.

Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion held a briefing meeting in Baton Rouge during the week for the state's 35 district attorneys and presumably local boards will hear soon of ideas developed at that session.

VAGARIES

Meanwhile, Monroe's W. E. Whetstone, president of the Louisiana Education Board, reviewed for readers some of the vagaries of the compliance pledge, noting that it is but one of three steps required to keep the gold flowing. The second is filling of a voluntary plan of desegregation, while the third, almost incredibly, is an agreement to comply with any possible modifications tailored into the plan by the courts.

Turning to the flow mentioned earlier in this week's tidal wave, Supts. Milton C. Hall and Van D Odom, parish and city respectively, told the World pay increases to teachers and other personnel will come to almost $380,000 in the remainder of the school year.

Parish figures were released Tuesday night and showed increases for instructional service people (teachers, principals and certain other administrators) will amount to $207,500. Bus drivers will receive $11,735.51, lunchroom workers $4,774.23, and other employees (nurses, clerks et al) $8,414.15.

Odom's report broke down city raises to cover $135,350 for instructional services, and $11,643 to other employees.

Teacher increases are scaled on qualifications and experience, and remaining personnel will receive generally a 2½ per cent raise. Most of the sum is marked for pay-out over the next eight monthly checks and will show up at the end of January, while some employees, paid semi - monthly, already have realized the boost.

Teacher raises held largely to a range of $600 to $250, averaging $278.50 in the Monroe system.

The great bulk of the raises, approved at last fall's convening of the special Legislature, will emanate from the state. Cost to the parish shouldn't reach beyond $2,550, and the city will pay from $5,000 to $6,000. The two systems are "overstaffed" by 41 teachers, according to state standards.

Tuesday's parish board meeting, unusually brief, was an hour long on the button, but busy throughout.

FIREWORKS

Rumored fireworks, however, weren't ignited, as members hired, without incident, Walter Brister., late of Pineville, as head football coach and athletic director at West Monroe High School. His unanimous selection was greeted by some members as usher to a "new era of unity", calling for solid support at all levels. We met the new coach Friday and can attest that he's brimming with confidence over next season's prospects. He takes the reins officially Monday.

Others in Twin City officialdom were active during the week.

The rural fire protection dilemma was a step closer to solution as Ouachita Parish Police Jury President T. W. Humphries turned over details of the group's tax election plan to New Orleans bonding attorney John Cox for study.

He will give the proposed financing a close look and report on needed millage "as soon as possible," in about two weeks. The jury is seeking funds to erect two fire stations — one east of the river, one west — in rural parts.

Feb. 1 was set during the week as the date of a special meeting to consider formation by the jury of industrial districts, in response to requests from local executives of Olin Mathieson and Commercial Solvents. Their placement in such areas would have the effect of exempting the firms from future special taxes, thought not, of course, from whatever fire millage (probably 1.75 mills) ultimately is voted. Prior formation of the parish-wide fire district would preclude their exclusion.

Sidelights to Life

DID YOU KNOW — Women blush more often from anger than as a result of shocked modesty?

THE COMMON COLD is rarely deadly but is one of the most expensive of mankind's ailments. It costs the average family from $35 to $40 yearly, and costs industry about $5 billion annually in lost working time. . . .

ODD LEGISLATION: A teacher can't give Bible lessons in the public grammar school of Illinois, but the state by law provides a Bible for every prison inmate . . .

SCIENCE MARCHES ON: Food firms are working on an aerosol bomb that will enable you to spray a peanut and jelly sandwich mixture . . .

DRIVING IS like baseball in a way. It's the number of times you reach home safely that counts . . .

IT WAS Lewis Mumford who observed:

"Our national flower is a concrete cloverleaf."

The World In Focus
Events Afford Sober Balance

By John Cale

FOR SOME REASON — perhaps we can attribute it to the general mood of any number of editors over the world — reports of violence took a secondary position to other events in the news of the past week.

The failing thread of life that kept 90-year-old Sir Winston Churchill's bulletins from London in the forefront afforded a balance to the series of galas in Washington that are an integral part of presidential inaugurations.

This feeling of equilibrium followed through right down to the ledgers on which figures representing dollars and cents are taken into account.

If one headline told of President Johnson's calling on Congress to consider 88 new projects to the so-called "war on poverty" program, there was another — still in bold type — that pegged the approximate cost as more than $100 million.

Where a colorful account of the inaugural parade would lead off with the fanfare of 52 bands from all parts of the country and "15,000 marchers, including cowboys and Indians, Eskimos, majorettes, visiting firemen, politicians, guerrilla fighters in green beretes and fife and drum cropsmen in red," the same story would point out that tickets to inaugural balls cost $25 for individuals and $750 for boxes.

Diamond Not Rough

WITH ESTIMATES of inaugural expenses running as high as $2.1 million not including money spent by individuals in their trips to the capital, it's good to know that such a tab could be picked up with at least a physically small outlay. The 70-carat blue-white diamond held by actress Gina Lollobrigida in the inset is valued at $1.5 million. Two of these would cover the public expenses incurred at last week's Washington blowout.

70-CARAT

With all the talk minimizing the U. S. balance of payment's problem and our recent loss of gold to dollar-surplus France, it seems that the precious metal and jewelry market is holding up well.

State Education

SO IS THE market for federal funds. The Louisiana School Boards Association convened in Shreveport during the early part of the week to face up to the reality that monies from federal revenue sources already comprise a considerable portion of the state's educational program.

Education Superintendent William Dodd told some 650 delegates that his stand regarding the desegregation of schools in order to comply with the federal Civil Rights Law of 1964 would be:

"COME WHAT may, no action or inaction on my part will cost any school board of this state its honor or a dime of its school funds."

The pledge is required under the Civil Rights Act. Refusal could mean the loss of federal aid to education. The total of such aid for Louisiana in fiscal 1965 would be $41.8 million.

Dodd did not go into detail on how his position would be carried out.

At present, state laws include one which says state funds may be withheld from any school which voluntarily desegregates.

Louisiana has been given until March 3 by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to agree to use federal funds without discrimination in state education programs.

GOVERNOR JOHN McKeithen also discussed the problem last week with other Southern governors in Washington. McKeithen and the other governors were in the nation's capital for the inauguration of President Johnson.

He refused previously to call a special session of the legislature to deal with the problem as requested by state and local school officials.

McKEITHEN SAID if the federal money is lost, he does not know how the state can replace it.

Footnote

THE PERIOD of the 1960's has brought with it somehow greater stress on the role to be played by Presidents' wives. Mesdames Truman and Eisenhower chose to remain in the background. But both the late President Kennedy and now President Johnson moved wives and families into the spotlight.

Therefore, it was a significant footnote to the reports from the inauguration that Mrs. John F. Kennedy stayed in New York, and no relative of the late President was seen in the President's stand during the parade. Apparently the year of Kennedy-Johnson is officially ended.

THERE IS SOMETHING less tangible in that hyphen; it represents a gap not only between two men, but between two regions of the nation, the outlook and attitudes toward culture, personal mannerisms and the details of playing the game of U. S. politics.

There was even something of the frontier spirit in Mrs. Johnson's holding the family Bible while Mr. Johnson took the oath of office with Chief Justice Earl Warren presiding. The gesture, a break with tradition carried out at the President's request, seemed to place the lady of house in a position of working importance in the so-called "great society."

MRS. JOHNSON

MRS. JOHNSON, who has an acute sense of history and love of government, also expects to devote some time to work on the proposed Lyndon B. Johnson Library to house his papers when he retires.

Mrs. Johnson feels she will be busier than ever during these four years on at least two key programs in the President's overall design — the war on poverty and beautification of slum-ridden cities.

She wants to become "a personal participant" in both projects. She recently met at the LBJ Ranch with R. Sargent Shriver, director of the anti-poverty program, and they discovered several areas where she could be of help.

THE FIRST LADY plans to entertain the National Advisory Committee for the war on poverty on February 3 and plans to do more traveling to pockets of poverty throughout the nation.

Her interest in beautification of cities was the inspiration behind the President's program to spruce up the country with more parks, trees and civic planning.

Premier Shot

WHILE HAPPENINGS in Southeast Asia, including the war in South Vietnam, stood at an uneasy plateau, an act of violence threatened the life of Iran's Premier Ali Mansour.

Mansour was shot twice Thursday as he left his car to enter Parliament. Surgeons gave him a good chance to live.

The government announced a youth identified as Mohammed Bokharaei, 20, had been arrested as the attacker. It gave no indication of his motive.

Mansour was in surgery for more than three hours for the removal of bullets from his throat and spleen. Doctors called the operation successful.

Mansour's brother, Javad, told newsmen: "He is improving and there is a 95 per cent hope for his life."

THE PREMIER was shot as he was about to enter Parliament to present five new oil agreements Iran signed this week with major oil companies. Under the agreements, Iran will receive 75 per cent of the income from oil production and $185 million in cash.

Mansour, 41, was named premier by the Shah last March. An expert in economic and social affairs, he headed the New Iran party, composed mainly of progressive intellectuals versed in economics and social matters.

Loyal Opposition

WHILE THE DEMOCRATS rode high during the inauguration festivities, the Republicans were bending every effort to rally support in order to round up a token of loyal opposition.

Perhaps this degree of opposition came through best in quotations from Democratic House Speaker John McCormack and former Republican House Leader Charles Halleck overheard during the inaugural luncheon in the Capitol Building.

"THE LUNCH was delicious," McCormack said. "I thought the Texas heart of filet mignon was wonderful, delicious."

"I prefer New York sirloin," Halleck countered

McCormack also praised as "wonderful" the dessert known as "President's Delight."

"It was a kind of glorified custard pudding," Halleck said.

GOP ACTIVES over the nation were hoping Ray Bliss of Ohio, who will replace Dean Burch as party chairman in April, can give the group a measure of unity following the November shakeup.

DEAN BURCH

BURCH TOLD Republican leaders meeting in Chicago they can unify the party if they "quit jousting at windmills."

He called for a "strong, unified and dynamic party."

"I expect and hope this meeting will mark the end of the many discussions of personalities that recently preoccupied us," he said, "and that we can now begin to get on with the primary business of the Republican party: namely winning victories and defeating Democrats."

Buddhists Riot

BY THE WEEK'S end, internal troubles boiled over in South Vietnam. Just as it appeared that President Sukarno's final word on resigning from the United Nations would stand as the "story of the week" from that area, Buddhist demonstrators in Saigon smashed doors and windows of the U. S. Information Agency library in protest against American support of Premier Tran Van Huong's government.

MEANWHILE IN England, Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker lost his bid for a seat in the House of Commons in an election that shook Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party government and sent Conservative hopes soaring.

His defeat in a district that for 30 years had been safe for Laborites reduced Labor's margin in Parliament to three seats.

IN AN IMPRESSIVE comeback after their dismissal from power last October, the Conservatives seized the Laborite seat of Leyton in suburban London in the first major electoral test faced by the Wilson government.

Leyton had sent a Laborite as usual back to Parliament only three months ago with a margin of 7,926 votes

Gordon Walker lost to Conservative Ronald Buxton by 205 votes.

Elsewhere In Europe

WHILE BRITAIN was facing up to business as usual even though Sir Winston Churchill's grave condition muted political headlines to some extent, France and Germany held a meeting between heads of state and Russia's Kogygin-Brezhnev team met in Poland with top officials of the Warsaw Pact nations.

Talks between President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard appeared to have partially shored up the troubled Franco-German alliance. But the U.S.-proposed nuclear force to defend Europe remained a sharp point of disagreement.

ERHARD

The two leaders concluded two days of conferences during the week at De Gaulle's hunting castle 30 miles southeast east of Paris.

Erhard, who faces an election this fall, said the talks were "crowned with success."

"There wasn't a single sour note," Erhard told newsmen when he returned to Bonn.

FRENCH INFORMATION Minister Alain Peyrefitte said that De Gaulle told his cabinet during a three-hour meeting he is satisfied with the results of the talks with Erhard.

Peyrefitte said De Gaulle and the government felt the talks demonstrated the two nations' cooperation would continue smoothly. He said the talks covered the working out and planning of allied strategy, both conventional and nuclear.

AS IF IN REPLY to any western mention of armaments, the Soviet government warned Thursday that the Communist Warsaw Pact nations would retaliate with "necessary defense measures" if NATO organizes a joint nuclear force.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia, which printed the warning, gave no hint of the nature of the Communist counter-measures.

The warning was issued following a two-day summit conference in Warsaw of leaders of the Soviet Union and six Eastern European Communist allies.

The NATO nations are debating whether to create a U.S. proposed multilateral nuclear force (ANF) which would intergrate parts of NATO's nuclear arsenal.

The Soviets have charged repeatedly one aim of such a force would be to give West Germany nuclear weapons.

Jeanette McDonald

ANOTHER SOBERING thought coursed through the minds of many Americans when the death of actress Jeanette McDonald was announced early in the week. The generation that knew her as a star of Hollywood's golden era is no longer the younger set of "opera lovers."

It probably came as a shock to these same persons that the last Jeanette McDonald-Nelson Eddy filmed musical was Rodgers' and Hart's "I Married An Angel," dated 1942.

Well, many of us are wiser now. We know, for example, that the products of those stars weren't really opera. In fact, the films didn't really do justice to the operettas of Rudolf Friml, Sigmund Romberg and Victor Herbert.

But Miss McDonald received a prima donna's buildup as only Hollywood could build it in those days, and the public bought the idea and clung to it until World War II came along to cloud the myth.

Sometimes reality serves to tear down a noble product of a healthy imagination. Possibly just such personalities as Jeanette McDonald gave American movie-goers a sorely needed lifting of the spirits in the post-Depression years — when you could get at least a half-dozen love duets and a full opera wardrobe for a 25-cent admission fee.

'Hot Potato' Issue

New Congress Faced With Bobby Baker Problem

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bobby Baker probe and its stories about sex, payoffs, secret deals and big-shot politicians are unfinished business for the new Congress.

How much more of it will get a public airing by the Senate Rules Committee is a hot-potato issue.

The investigation of get-rich deals by Baker, former $19,600-a-year secretary to the Senate Democratic Majority, already has mentioned the White House and President Johnson himself, Congress members and others prominent on the Washington scene. It was an issue in the 1964 presidential and congressional election campaigns.

The Rules Committee's Democratic majority once drew the curtain on it last July, marking it a closed issue despite Republican cries of "whitewash" and "coverup." But the curtain wouldn't stay drawn.

The committee's Democratic members, with a 6-3 majority over Republican members, waited until after the November elections, however, to reopen the hearings and receive some of the juiciest and most conflicting testimony.

Now the Republican minority is giving every sign it will fight any Democratic plans to ring down the curtain again without a far more searching study of sex angles and various other reportedly lurid allegations voiced by the chief accusing witness in the hearings, insurance man Don B. Reynolds.

Through it all Baker has refused to answer questions as a witness. He invoked the Fifth Amendment and its protection against self-incrimination, explaining he was under investigation by a federal grand jury and the Internal Revenue Service

Thus far the probe has produced more allegation, suggestion and unresolved conflict of testimony than solid proof that Baker, from his influential Senate post, actually swayed decisions by government agencies.

Among the major factors are these:

The continuing efforts to learn how Baker, onetime Senate page boy and protege of President Johnson, accumulated wealth which Baker himself counted at more than $2 million.

Conflicting charges and denials linking the names of Baker and Democratic politician Matthew H. McCloskey with an alleged $25,000 payoff to the 1960 campaign fund from a government construction contract. McCloskey, former ambassador to Ireland and former chief fund raiser for the Democratic party, denied the allegations.

Reynolds' testimony that there had been a payoff and that he was its "bag man," McCloskey's denial, and Baker's refusal to testify left it a case of one man's word against another's.

Were beautiful women, some of them call girls, employed by influence peddlers to help swing secret political and business deals? If so, who was influenced and who were the women's employers? The public hearings for the most part have avoided these questions.

What is the truth about allegedly illegal pressure tactics to collect money from some officials of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. for the 1960 vice presidential campaign funds of Democrat Johnson and Republican Henry Cabot Lodge? The hearings have stayed out of this area, too.

As matters stood when the committee adjourned its hearings Dec. 9, the Democratic majority apparently planned to hear only one more witness, former White House aide Walter H. Jenkins.

Jenkins has been under medical and psychiatric care since he resigned his White House job last fall after disclosure that he twice had been arrested on morals charges. It was not clear whether his doctors would declare him sufficiently recovered to testify at any early date.

The Democratic majority's announced plan is to turn over to the Justice Department various unresolved matters. These include a still secret FBI report of Ellen Rometsch, a brunette West German beauty and reported friend of Baker and many others prominent in Washington.

The committee last month obtained copies of FBI files on Mrs. Rometsch but quickly returned them to the Justice Department without exploring them publicly. Its Democratic majority voted down Republican demands for at least a delayed decision on what to do about the files.

Mrs. Rometsch was whisked back to Germany in 1963 not long before Baker resigned under fire from his Senate job and the committee started investigating him.

Testimony has described both Baker and a Fifth Amendment pleading business associate as "partying" in New Orleans with Mrs. Rometsch and Baker's pretty secretary, Miss Nancy Carole Tyler. The associate is Paul Aguirre, a mortgage banker in Puerto Rico.

Standing grimly silent in the background and awaiting further developments is Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., whose lone-wolf investigations were a major factor in setting off the Baker probe.

Williams, a nonmember of the committee, had sat in on its December hearings to advise the Republican minority until he got into a row with its special counsel, Lennox P. McLendon, a Democrat.

Williams accused the committee of rejecting some evidence he had offered at a private session. McLendon said this was not true.

Williams quit the hearing room, declaring he would not return, would "cooperate" no more with its Democrats, but would continue his own investigations and publicly inform the Senate of his findings.

He added that he still had interesting material in his files on Baker.

The committee itself made public at its December hearings a letter from Williams urging it to obtain and check the FBI files on Mrs. Rometsch. His letter spoke of "several rather persistent rumors that these files will show a connection between Mrs. Rometsch, Mr. Baker and perhaps others associated with the United States Senate."

"I do not think that we as the Senate can allow these questions pertaining to call girls to be passed over without a thorough investigation as to whether or not the girls were used by Mr. Baker or others to influence legislative decisions or business contracts," Williams wrote.

The committee's chairman, Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., announced its majority vote to refrain from hearings on sex aspects. He said the majority felt it had "no legal right to probe into the private conduct of individuals."

Without elaboration, he said the FBI Rometsch files contained nothing related to the "official conduct" of any senator or other Capitol Hill personages.

The committee gave no indication of calling back to its witness stand insurance man Reynolds for public quizzing about reportedly lurid but largely hearsay testimony he had given behind closed doors.

Reynolds is the man who flung President Johnson's name and those of other politicians into the investigation during its first stormy round of hearings.

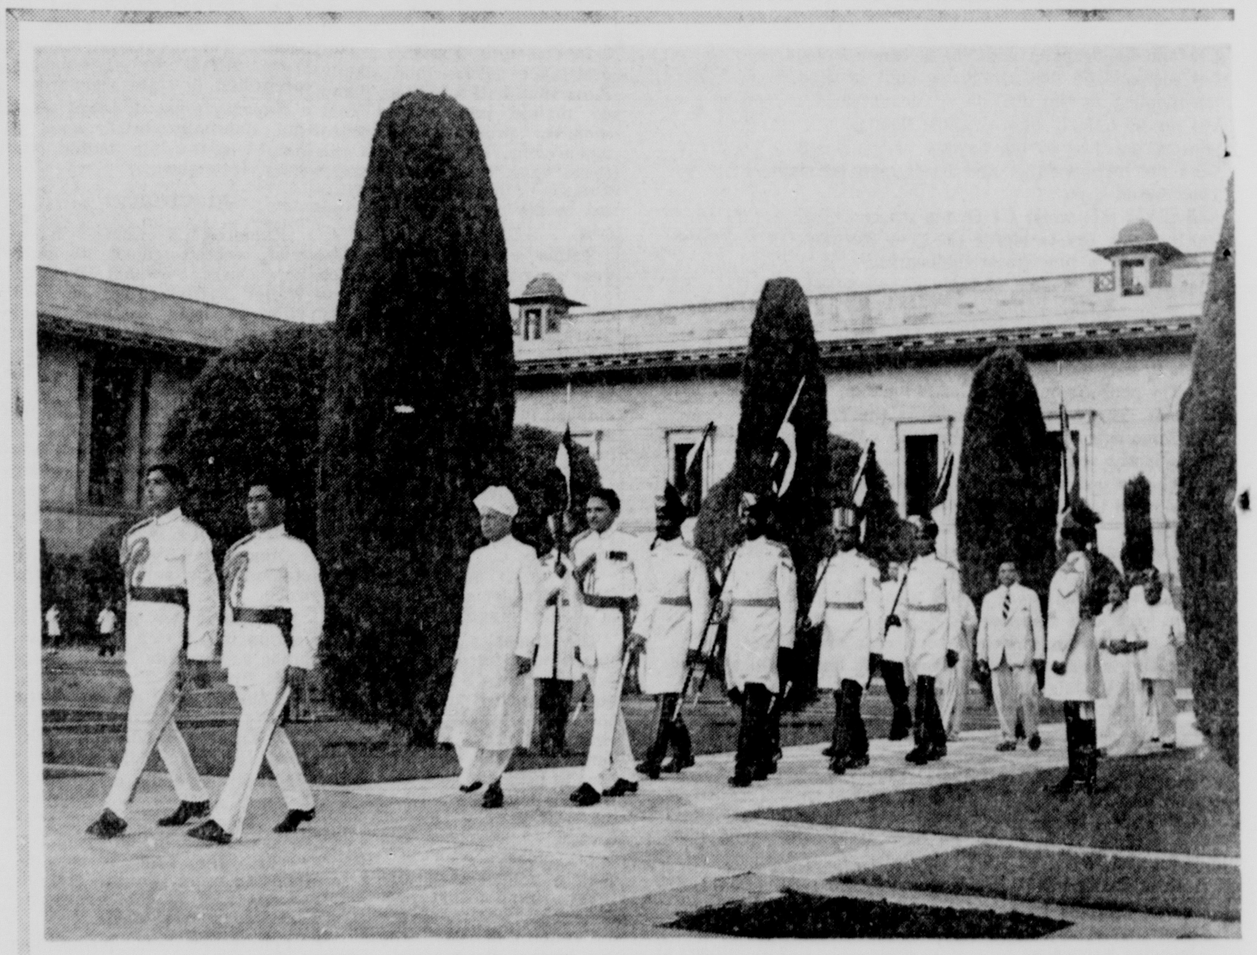
He produced documents showing he had bought Johnson a $585 stereophonic record player in 1959 after having shelled out $1,208 in 1957 for advertising time — time he couldn't use — on an Austin, Tex., television station owned by the Johnson family. Republicans called these things kickbacks from Reynolds' commissions on the sale of two $100,000 insurance policies on Johnson's life.

Johnson was a senator from Texas at that time. He has stated he was unaware the stereo gift had come from Reynolds. He said he thought it had come from Baker, with whom he said he had often exchanged gifts

All this came out in the first round of hearings, which traced a web of complex outside business deals in which Baker had claimed to have run up a $2-million fortune.

Testimony showed he had borrowed heavily from banks controlled by the late Sen. Robert Kerr, D-Okla., and was helped by Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., in a profitable land investment. But no one suggested that the senators had more than a friendly interest in helping a relatively young man to get ahead. Baker's business associates included influential House members, but again there was no testimony that the legislators had done anything wrong.

In what it then believed would be its final report, the committee's Democratic majority in July accused Baker of "many gross improprieties" in his outside business dealings but said it had found no evidence he had violated laws.



COLORFUL CEREMONIES and visiting heads of state are top responsibilities of India's president by tradition and constitution. President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan has reduced them to minor roles while he occupies himself with leading the country since Nehru's death last May. Indian Leadership Change Is Wrought

Presidential Duties

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — The young army aide clocked his highly polished heels together and barked through his bristling moustache: "The president will see you."

Striding down a corridor, he pushed open a door leading into a room filled with hundreds of books and documents, newspapers, tea cups, several clocks and a large bed.

And there, solidly ensconced in the middle of the bed, was president Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan of India, one of those rare men who look majestic even while sitting in bed at 5:30 in the afternoon.

It was a typically busy afternoon for the 76-year-old "grand old man" of India and he was receiving visitors at bedside as usual, a brown shawl around his shoulders and neglected tufts of silvery hair spilling down over his ears.

This bed is President Radhakrishnan's work table and when not touring India or appearing at official functions, he normally is in it — surrounded by his beloved books and, with increasing frequency these days, anxious politicians.

For at an age when most men are content idly to watch the passing parade, President Radhakrishnan is bringing a new dimension, a new importance to his office.

Constitutionally and traditionally, the president of India is a figurehead official who dedicates bridges and has tea with visiting heads of state while the prime minister runs the country.

But President Radhakrishnan unmistakably changed that when Prime Minister Nehru died last May 27. In an unprecedented move, the president jumped into politics to control the succession battle that soon erupted.

He called India's top politicians to his bedside and declared a quick, smooth transition to new leadership was necessary if India's internal stability was to be preserved. He also threw his considerable prestige behind the leading and eventually successful contender: Lal Bahadur Shastri.

In the tumultuous months since then, President Radhakrishnan has greatly increased his appearances throughout the nation, giving India's millions visible proof of the government's presence in what is a time of great political unrest and economic hardship.

He speaks at medical colleges, before massed regiments of the army — anywhere that provides a forum for his message: believing in God and working together, Indians will survive this period of torment.

And in the quiet of his bedroom, the nation's leaders gather to ask his counsel. Shastri himself comes to sit at the president's bedside.

The result is a strange mixture of stirring, philosophical calls to battle, and no-nonsense political shop talk.

To the army's proud-grenadiers regiment the president declared: "I want you to do one thing in the years to come. Bring glory to yourself, to your country and to the capacity of man for taking risks and sacrifice."

To India's new leaders in the privacy of his bedroom: never mind cheap stunts to build images for yourselves. Just settle down and to the job.

President Radhakrishnan is newer to politics by far than he is to philosophy. His reputation as a writer and philosopher is international.

He has scores of books to his credit, and has lectured in famous universities throughout the world. In 1931, the British colonial rulers of India knighted him Sir Sarvepalli for academic achievement.

But "Sir Sarvepalli" it was not to be and he never used the title, preferring the quiet, unassuming life of a teacher. He headed three universities in India and was Spalding professor of Eastern religions and ethics at Oxford.

Nehru pulled him into the mainstream of political life in independent India, naming him ambassador to the Soviet Union in 1949. In 1952, he was elected vice president and in 1962, president.

Rookie Pro Surprises; Gets Crosby Open Lead

Tony Lema Soars To Eight Over Par

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Rocky Thompson, a rookie-pro, surprised everyone at the storm-battered Bing Crosby Golf Tournament Saturday and took the third round lead with three-under-par 68 and a 54-hole total of 212.

Thompson played in near privacy at the more sheltered Monterey Peninsula Country Club as defending champion Tony Lema soared to a 79 and Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus carded 77s at the Pebble Beach course.

The 25-year-old Wichita Falls, Tex. pro, who financed his chance on the pro tour last summer by selling shares of stock in himself, holed five birdies on putts ranging from two feet to one of 66, which pleased him so much he stepped off the distance to make sure of the length.

A raw wind, with gusts up to 60 miles per hour, whipped up after Thompson had finished 11 holes and he lost two strokes to par after that. Still, his early start was a big break as those who began later had to battle the elements the full distance, including rain in the late afternoon.

Storm warnings were posted for today when the low 70 pros and 40 pro-amateur teams play the final 18 holes at Pebble Beach. The forecast was for clearing later in the day.

Two strokes back of Thompson at 214 were Harold Kneece of Aiken, S.C., and Bobby Harris of Winnetka, Ill.

Neither played Pebble Beach. Kneece carded a 69 at Cypress Point and Harris a 73 at Monterey Peninsula.

Under the Crosby format, each player tours each of the three courses during the first three rounds of the $84,500 tourney.

Nicklaus had a 217 total for the three rounds and Palmer 222. U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi, also with a 77, had 233 and was cut from further individual pro competition.

Bill Collins and Charley Sifford, tied for second behind British Open champ Lema after the second round, also soared Saturday. Collins had a 78 for a 217 total and Sifford 83 for 222. Both played the 6,747-yard Pebble Beach course bordering the ocean.

It was so windy that long-hitting Paul Harney hit two wood shots, both with his driver, on the 367-yard 17th hole at Cypress Point and still wound up 30 yards short of the green.

Eddie Merrick of Los Angeles sank a hole-in-one at the 100-yard 17th hole at Pebble Beach yet finished with an 80. Great Britain's Tony Grubb had a 90.

Venturi and his amateur partner, Jim Lange, leaders of the team competition after 36 holes, sagged to a best-ball score of even par 72 and slipped to 198.

George Bayer and Morgan Barofsky of Walnut Creek Calif., carded a 61 for a 193 total. The pro on the winning pro-amateur team collects $4,000 compared with $7,000 for the individual pro champion.

At 215 even par with Lema were Texan Jacky Cupit and Australia's Bruce Crampton. Billy Casper shot a creditable 76 at Pebble Beach for a 216.

It took a score of 224 or better for a pro to qualify for the finals.

Failing to make the grade were Ed Furgol, 226, Dow Finsterwald, Jack Burke, and Bob Rosburg at 227, Don January, 228, Merrins and Canadian George Knudson, 230, PGA champion Bobby Nichols at 231 with a 90 third round at Pebble, Hawaii's Ted Makalena, 232 with 85 at Pebble, Jimmy Demaret, 235, and Britain's Grubb at 241.

Team scores of 203 or better were needed to stay in play.

Swaffar Back On Feet After Arm Operation

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Showing the vitality which made him a top flight athlete, Bob Swaffar is back on his feet after a second operation on his injured right arm.

The 6-foot-9 former Oklahoma State basketball ace's right arm was torn off above the elbow in a laundry machine at Stillwater, the arm was re-implanted in a six-hour operation Nov.2.

The second operation Thursday was to rejoin major nerves severed in the accident. Swaffar was up and about Friday, said a hospital spokesman and doctors said the arm looked fine and circulation was excellent.

OVER WEST MONROE

Ouachita Takes Baskin Tourney

BASKIN (Special) — Ouachita's Lions took another step forward here Saturday night by downing West Monroe, 75-58, in the finals of the Baskin Invitational basketball tournament.

The Lions, who have been on a hot streak for the past several days, turned in good offensive and defensive efforts during the tourney to cop the title.

In the title game Joe Bryant, center and top tipster for the L. J. Fontenot coached squad, sank 27 points to lead the victory. Bryant, named to the all-tourney team, was aided by Wally Rugg with 21 points and Don Corbin with 14 others.

Gary Armstrong, with a keen sense of defensive play, aided the Lions throughout the tourney and was named to the all-tourney team in the process.

West Monroe's Sammy Brewster led the Rebels with 22 points. Floyd Reeves was the only other Rebel in double figures with 10 markers. Brewster, the Rebels' shooting - scholar was also named to the all-tourney team.

The Lions took two impressive wins in other rounds and looked the best they have all season.

After a nip-and-tuck first half, the Lions took full charge of the contest and continued to pull away from West Monroe.

The score was knotted at 16-16 at the end of the first quarter and was 32-31 at the end of the first half.

Ouachita went on to tally 19 points in the third and 24 in the fourth quarters while West Monroe was limited to 13 and 14 in the same periods.

Ouachita got the best of West Monroe also on the backboards, picking off 42 rebounds to 20. Percentage-wise the Lions continued to show improvement hitting on 27 of 47 from the field for 57 per cent. Bryant hit on 13 of 20 attempts from the field.

Ogden's Pace hit 35 points in both the semi-final and title game to lead her team to the girls division title. The Ogden sextet topped Ouachita in the finals, 67-49 with Leslie Leath sinking 19 for Ouachita.

Ogden downed West Monroe, 58-51 in a semi-final game with Linda Smith getting 29 for the Rebel lasses. Ouachita entered the finals with a 46-37 victory over Baskin. Debbie Guinn hit 24 for Ouachita and Sandra Zumbro 25 for Baskin.

The Rebels advanced to the finals against Ouachita with a 87-64 victory over Epps and the Lions used a far superior defense to down Ogden 75-24 in the other semifinal match.

Brewster led the Rebel attack with 30 points with Wiggins adding another 18 and Alexander 11.

Ouachita put four in double figures, Bryant with 17, Armstrong with 16, Smith with 15 and Corbin with 11.

Joseph Eubanks hit 12 markers to lead Ogden with the Ogden team unable to hit more than three from the field in the second half against Ouachita.

Wayne Lanner got 19, David Johnston 15 and Pete Jackson 10 for Epps against the Rebs.

Bossier Romps By Byrd To Win Own Tourney

BOSSIER CITY (Special) — Behind Dwight Reden's 17 points, Bossier rocked Byrd, 65-54, to win its own invitational basketball tournament Saturday night.

The 'Kats posted their 24th victory in easy fashion, rolling to a 20 point lead in the third quarter. At halftime, the Bossierites were out in front, 49-26.

Tommy Glass, Byrd guard, led his side with 19 markers.

Marthaville captures third place by downing Airline, 74-63. Delbert Thompson 23 points were high in the contest. Freshman Charles DeVille led Airline with 15.

The afternoon session produced a cliff-hanging 63-58 verdict for Byrd over Marthaville. That came in overtime, after Jimmy Boyd pushed through a fielder to tie the count in the game's final second.

A foul at the end of overtime and a technical allowed Byrd to shoot three charities after time was out in the overtime.

Gregg Moore had 17 to lead Byrd's scoring.

Bossier, using Bob Hamlett's 23 points, closed out Airline, 69-55 in the other half of the semi-finals.

The Cincinnati Reds will meet the Chicago White Sox in a night exhibition game at Jacksonville, Fla., on Friday, April 2.

SATURDAY'S NBA ACTION

Boston Celtics Streak Stopped

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers, stiffling a late Boston rally, stopped the Celtics' 16-game winning streak 104-100 Saturday night in the National Basketball Association.

The loss kept the Celtics from tying an NBA record of 17 consecutive victories, set by the Washington Capitols in 1946 and tied by the Celtics in 1959. Red Auerbach, the Celtics' present coach, coached both teams at the time they won 17 straight.

Against the 76ers, though, he only could sit by the watch a desperate Boston rally, sparked by Sam Jones, fall short.

Down 90-82 in the fourth quarter, the Celtics got three jump shots from Jones and two free throws from John Havlicek, cutting the 76ers' margin to 93-90 with 5:18 to play.

But Lucious Jackson's four free throws and Wilt Chamberlain's jumper off set two more field goals by Jones and put Philadelphia ahead 99-94. The Celtics got no closer than three points the rest of the way.

Chamberlain, playing in his third game for the 76ers since they acquired him from San Francisco, was more of a passer and rebounder than a scorer. Philadelphia has won all three games with the 7-foot-1 ace.

He scored only 16 points but grabbed 26 rebounds and held Bill Russell without a field goal in the game. Russell scored on only four free throws and snared 17 rebounds.

Jackson paced the 76ers with 26 points while Hal Greer had 22. Jones led all scorers with 35 points.

Boston jumped to a 22-10 lead in the first nine minutes but quickly cooled off and led by only one 23-22 at the end of the quarter.

Larry Costello put Philadelphia ahead 30-28 with two free throws early in the second period, and the 76ers never relinquished the lead.

CHARLEY HENNIGAN, one of the American Football League's premier pass receivers, will be the guest speaker for Jonesboro-Hodge's annual football banquet this Thursday night. The Houston Oilers star, who played his collegiate ball at Northwestern, was a teacher at Jonesboro before trying his hand at pro football.

AT J-H BANQUET

Hennigan To Be Guest Speaker

JONESBORO (Special) — Charles Hennigan, record-breaking pro football pass receiver of the American Football League Houston Oilers, will be the speaker at the annual Jonesboro-Hodge High School football banquet this Thursday.

The banquet, sponsored by the Jonesboro - Hodge Lions Club, will be held at the Jonesboro Elementary School Cafeteria at 6:15 p.m.

Hennigan, a former assistant football coach at JHHS before entering the play-for-pay grid ranks, set a new AFL record the past season with 101 pass receptions, topping by one the all-pro mark set by Denver's Lionel Taylor three years ago. He already possessed league records for most yardage in a season receiving passes (1,746 on 82 catches in 1961), number of catches (13) and yards (272) in a single game.

Selected three times as an All-Pro flanker, Charlie is one of the most feared long bomb receivers in the AFL. He was noted as a track man at Northwestern Louisiana and, in football, was the "blocking" halfback in same backfield with Charley Tolar. He was teaching biology and coaching ends and backs at JHHS before the AFL started, and wrote Oilers for a trial. He and former Oiler guard Hogan Warton operate a boys' camp, Camp Touchdown, at Bryceland during the summer months. Hennigan is 29 years old, 6'1", 187 lbs., married, with two sons.

The Jonesboro-Hodge High School football team which will be honored at the banquet had one of its best seasons in history in '64, with a 9-3 record. Coach Bobby Stone led the Tigers to their second District 2-AA championship in two years as head coach, with a 3-0 district mark. J-H then defeated Minden and Eunice in playoff games, before losing to state champion Assumption at Napoleonville in the semi-finals.

The Lions Club will present trophies to the Best Back and Best Lineman on the squad, as selected by their teammates. Jonesboro-Hodge High School will present a trophy to the player with the best scholastic record.

Florida Ends Long Drought; Tops Wildcats

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A giant-sized Florida basketball team ended 31 years of frustration Saturday by whipping Kentucky 84-68 and became a contender for the Southeastern Conference title.

The Florida Gators, who had not beaten Kentucky since 1934, powered over the undersized Wildcats with 6-foot-9 Gary Keller and 6-10 Jeff Ramsey and forfed Kentucky to scrap.

This brought the decision to the foul lines where Florida canned 34 points to Kentucky's 22.

Dick Tomlinson, a 6-5 companion to Keller and Ramsey in the Florida front line, hit 19 points and Brooks Henderson scored 20 to lead scoring. Keller scored 20 and Ramsey 10.

Trying to use aggressive play to make up for lack of size, Kentucky stayed in contention until the last five minutes although four of its regulars got into early foul trouble.

By halftime, Tommy Kron had four personals. Pat Riley, John Adams and Terry Mobley each had three.

Mississippi State Wins From Rebs

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State, connecting with torrid 56 per cent accuracy from the floor, scored a decisive 101-72 Southeastern Conference victory over state rival Mississippi Saturday night.

It was a see-saw struggle for the first 10 minutes. But State started moving away after Charles Crews dropped in a pair of free throws to put the Maroons ahead 23-21 with 9:03 left in the opening half.

Richie Williams made 17 points to lead the winners. Ole Miss tackle Joe Dean came off the bench to pace the losers with 16 points.

Bullets Top Hawks

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets defeated the St. Louis Hawks 106-97 Saturday night to move with one game of second place in the National Basketball Association's Western Division.

The Bullets, downing the second-place Hawks for the second night in a row, were paced by Walt Bellamy, who scored 31 points and grabbed 22 rebounds.

Baltimore took a 10-4 lead in the first quarter and was never less than two points ahead the rest of the way as Bellamy, Don Ohl, Bailey Howell and Gus Johnson got through a sloppy St. Louis defense.

Howell had 22 points, Ohl 18 and Johnson 17.

Bob Pettit was high for St. Louis with 27 points. Len Wilkens got 17.

Detroit Win

CINCINNATI (AP) — Terry Dischinger sank three free throws with 1:23 left Saturday night to help Detroit win a 105-102 National Basketball Association victory over Cincinnati.

It was close all the way even though Detroit managed to pull to an 11-point lead late in the third period. But that vanished quickly and Cincinnati went ahead 100-98 on Oscar Robertson's driving shot with 1:58 left.

Dischinger tied the score with a jump shot and moments later he was fouled by Adrian Smith. The referee then called a technical foul on Jerry Lucas, and Dischinger hit with all three shots.

Robertson sank two free throws with 19 seconds left, but Eddie Miles clinched the game for Detroit with two other shots from the foul line.

Dischinger paced the winners with 30 points. Robertson scored 35 for Cincinnati and Lucas came through with 23 points and 25 rebounds.

Detroit connected with 44 of 98 field goal attempts. The Royals scored on 41 of 90 shots from the court.

Frazier Sparks Grambling Win Over Alabama

GRAMBLING (Special) —Big Wilbur Frazier poured in 46 points here Saturday night to spark the Grambling Tigers past Alabama State, 106-87, in a nonconference cage game.

Grambling led the visitors from Montgomery, Ala. 53-49 at halftime and widened the gap during the last 20 minutes.

Johnny Comeaux followed Frazier's production with 29 points and Howie Davis had 14.

Larry Simon led Alabama with 23 points and Eric Bain added 22.

Grambling is now 12-4 and plays Arkansas State in a league game next Saturday at Grambling in their next contest.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE

Causey Prepared For New Career

Already a famous success in one career, Wayne Causey — the hard-hitting shortstop of the Kansas City Athletics — completes his preparations for another here Jan. 26 when he receives the bachelor of science degree in accounting from Northeast Louisiana State College.

Causey's graduation next Tuesday climaxes a nine-year stint as a scholar-athlete. He entered Northeast in the fall of 1956 and has attended each fall semester ever since.

His professional athletic career began a little over a year earlier, in June of 1955, when he signed a fat, five-figure bonus contract with the Baltimore Orioles after graduating from Neville High School.

The previous summer he had led Monroe's American Legion Junior Baseball team to the state and regional championships and attracted the attention of dozens of major league scouts with his consistent hitting and spectacular defensive play.

Under the bonus restrictions of that time, Causey had to remain on the Baltimore roster for two years before he could be sent to the minors for seasoning.

He played little during the 1955 and 1956 seasons at Baltimore. When the two years were up, he was sent to San Antonio of the Texas League, where he batted .248, in 1957 and improved his average each year at Louisville of the American Association in 1958 and Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League in 1959 and 1960.

In 1960 he received what turned out to be a very good break. Baltimore traded him to Kansas City and instead of having to battle the established Luis Aparicio for the shortstop post at Baltimore he became the top candidate for the regular's job with the A's.

TRYING ON a new hat is Wayne Causey, star Kansas City A's shortstop, who receives his degree at Northeast Louisiana State College Tuesday. Causey, who was recently named the captain of the A's, has been an honor student at Northeast, maintaining a "B" average in accounting.

The deal was a good break for the A's, too. They gave up Whitey Herzog and Russ Snyder for Causey, Jim Archer and Bob Boyd. Snyder is now the only man involved in the deal besides Causey still in the majors and he is now a part-time player.

Causey celebrated his return to the majors with a .276 batting average in 1961 — the best of his career.

He dipped to .252 the following year but in 1963 established himself as one of the best shortstops in the American League, batting over .400 and leading the league for several weeks early in the season before leveling off to .280.

Last season was another good one as he batted over .300 most of the year before a slump in the last two weeks dropped his average to .281 — the second highest average among American League shortstops.

He has already signed his 1965 contract for a "good" raise and a few weeks ago received word from A's owner Charles Finley that he has been appointed the team's captain, an honor that means an extra $500 in his paycheck.

Causey has been a star in the classroom, too.

"Wayne has been a real good student," says Dwight D. Vines, dean of Northeast's School of Business Administration. "He has maintained a "B" average, which is particularly impressive when you consider that he has had to report for classes late each year because of baseball season and is in accounting, not one of our easier programs."

Last year he was named to Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges.

Causey's graduation may signal the end of his residence in Monroe. He has sold his home here and will try to find a job in Kansas City next fall. If he can find the "right job" he'll stay in Monroe, where he has lived all his life. During this fall semester he had a part-time job here as a sporting good salesman.

His wife, the former Patsy Jean Dean, is also a Monroyan. The Causeys have two children, a seven-year-old girl, Debbie, and a son, Larry, 4.

As for his after-baseball career, Causey has no set plans.

"I just want an 8-5 job that will let me stay in one place," he says. "I'm tired of traveling."

However, at 28, he has quite a few more years of touring American League cities ahead of him.

FISHING CONTINUES to be fine at Bussey near Bastrop and the latest proof of the matter comes in the form of these 16 bass that average a little better than four pounds. Bill Husted Jr. (left) and Mike Solomon, both of Monroe, hauled in this mess Saturday. The biggest weighed seven pounds, one weighed six pounds and seven were five pounders. They were trolling with bombers. (Staff photo by Stuart Hill)

OHIO STATE COACH

Snyder Retiring, But Isn't Quitting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Larry Snyder, Ohio State's track coach, retires Oct. 1 — but he isn't quitting.

At 69, he plans to start at the bottom of his profession after four decades at the top.

He coached the U.S. Olympic team in Rome in 1960; his Buckeye proteges have won 20 Olympic gold medals — more than some countries have captured; he coached athletes to eight world records, and took America's first team to Russia, in 1958.

Now, Snyder intends to coach track "without salary and just for the fun of it" in some high school. He'll do it here, in Mexico, or Hawaii.

He has never coached a high school team. The Canton native attended Ohio State, captained the track team twice and won the Big Ten's medal for scholastic-athletic excellence, then became assistant track coach in 1925.

He took the top job in 1932. Early glory came in 1935 when Jesse Owens set three world records and tied another one afternoon at Ann Arbor, Mich., before going on to 1936 Olympic fame.

Snyder later contributed Olympic gold medal winners Mal Whitfield in 1948 and 1952, and Glenn Davis in 1956 and 1960.

Snyder and his wife plan to visit Mexico and Hawaii before settling down.

"I could have stayed on here another year," he said, "but I figured that after 40 years it is time to give someone else a chance.

"I've never cared much about this new trend of recruiting athletes. I feel we had better luck and more fun in the days when we just took the boys who came to us naturally.

"Big-time coaching in track has become a young man's job. It is getting more scientific all the time.

"There's no limit to how fast the modern athlete can run or jump — just look at how the records are falling.

"But youngsters have to get started right. A wrong beginning takes years to correct. That's why I'd like to find some high school, with a few eager kids and no track coach, and try my hand at getting them off on the right foot.

"I wouldn't want any salary. I'll do it just for fun, and to make a contribution of some sort to the game which has been so good to me."

Army Expulsion Is Recalled

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Disclosure that about 30 football players were among approximately 100 Air Force Academy cadets involved in classroom cheating, recalled the 1951 cribbing scandal at the U. S. Military Academy which resulted in the expulsion of some 90 cadets and wrecked the Army football team.

Nearly half the West Pointers involved were football players, among them quarterback Bob Blaik, son of the Army coach, Earl H. (Red) Blaik, and Harold Loehlein, captain-elect of the 1951 team.

The situations which gave rise to exchanging forbidden information was the same. The same examination was given to different groups of cadets at different times. Under the West Point honor system, cadets were not permitted to discuss the subject matter of an examination within hearing of another who had not yet taken the exam.

The investigation revealed that Army athletes not only engaged in such discussions, but on some occasions gave direct information on the subject matter of examinations or on what sections of a course called for special study.

A number of the expulsions resulted from violations of the honor code by cadets who did no cribbing themselves but failed to report cases of cribbing they had observed.

The West Point scandal broke in August 1951. In addition to Bob Blaik and Loehlein, others who identified themselves included Gil Reich, a back; J.D. Kimmel, a star tackle and Al Conway, an end.

Kimmel later entered the University of Houston, where he became an All-America tackle. A number of other former Army players later played with some distinction for other colleges, among them Gene Filipski, Bill Rowekamp, Elmer Stout, Bob Volonino, Ray Malavasi and Conway.

Drake Captures First MVC Win; Tops Cincinnati

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Drake won its first Missouri Valley Conference basketball game of the season Saturday, whipping Cincinnati 89-80.

The Bulldogs, conference co-champions a year ago, pulled ahead in the first five minutes and were never overtaken. By halftime, their lead was 37-27.

Leading Drake, which had lost its first four conference games, was Gene West, who scored 20 points.

Ken Cunningham and Ron Krick each scored 16 for the Bearcats, who suffered their fourth conference loss against a single victory.

The Bulldogs' lead was 12 points in the second half. Cincinnati cut the margin to six with five minutes left, but two long jump shots by Cox and two baskets by West sent the Bulldogs safely in front.

Pioneer Wins Cage Tourney At Holly Ridge

RAYVILLE (Special) — Delhi girls and Pioneer boys took first place trophies in the annual Holly Ridge Invitational Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Wanda Hutchinson and Bennie Wilkes each popped in 15 points to pace the Delhi sextet by Bastrop, 37-29. Carol Brown connected on 11 for Bastrop.

Billy Spann, a 6-2 forward, netted 37 points in guiding Pioneer past Start, 71-57. Jerry Smith was high man for Start, with 17 points.

Making the girls all-tournament team were Wanda Hutchinson, Delhi, Jean Ellington, Rayville; Sally Laing, Bastrop; Dorothy Nichols, Delhi; Linda Brooks, Bastrop; and Janie Reed, Holly Ridge.

Selected for the boys all-tournament quintet were Billy Spann, Pioneer; Charles Germany, Rayville; Terry Smith, Start; Mike Creech, Collinston; and Gentry Eaton, Pioneer.

Charlie Hardnett Is Persuaded To Join Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — Charlie Hardnett a forward from Grambling College who retired at the end of last season after two years in the National Basketball Association, has been persuaded to return to the Baltimore Bullets, the club announced Saturday.

The Bullets said a player would be put on waivers before Saturday night's game here with St. Louis.

Hardnett, 6-foot-8 and 225 pounds, kown as a good rebounder and tough defensive player, is expected to give the Bullets more bench strength in the team's drive for the Western Division title.

Hardnett has been playing with the Grand Rapids, Mich., team in the Midwest Basketball League this season.

AWARDS BANQUET

Touchdown Club To Induct Five In Mississippi 'Hall'

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Five outstanding state atheletes will be inducted into the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame at the 1965 awards banquet here Feb. 8.

Those elected to the Hall of Fame, sponsored by the Jackson Touchdown Club, are Dr. J. C. Knox of Vicksburg; Jim (Buster) Poole of Oxford; David Ferris of Cleveland; Claude Passeau of Lucedale and the late Jess Fatheree, of Jackson.

Induction of the five will make a total of 14 now in the Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame.

Fatheree, a native of Jackson, starred in football and baseball at Jackson Central High School from 1929-32. He contributed to the Louisiana State University football success in 1932-36 as a wingback.

He won All-Southeastern Conference honors in 1935 and was ranked as one of the outstanding defensive backs of the conference.

Fatheree was elected to the Louisiana State University Hall of Fame after winning nine athletic letters with the Tigers as a back in football, a guard in basketball and a pitcher in baseball.

David "Boo" Ferriss, a native of Shaw, lettered in baseball at Mississippi State University from 1939-42. He was signed by the Boston Red Sox, where he compiled a record of 65 wins and 30 defeats.

In 1946, he was the American League's No. 11 pitcher with a 25-6 record.

Ferriss now serves as director of athletics and baseball coach at Delta State College at Cleveland.

Dr. Isaac Knox of Pontotoc lettered in football at Ole Miss from 1907-08. He also lettered in basketball in 1909 and baseball from 1905-08.

He was named to All-Southern honors in 1908.

Claude Passeau of Waynesboro won 12 letters at Millsaps College. His playing years were from 1928-31.

He went on to pitch baseball for the Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and the Philadelphia Phillies. His major league career was 162 wins against 150 defeats.

James (Buster) Poole, of Gloster, lettered in football, basketball and baseball with the University of Mississippi from 1934-36.

He played professional football with the New York Giants where he was named All-AFL in 1938, 39, 40, and 46.

Poole has been a member of the Ole Miss staff since 1947, serving as defensive line coach.

Rebels Finish In Third Place At Bolton Race

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — Lake Charles High School edged LaGrange of Lake Charles by two points here Saturday afternoon to take the Bolton Invitational cross country meet.

Lake Charles scored 56 points in spite of the fact that its highest runner finished in fifth place and LaGrange had the top two finishers.

West Monroe finished in third place with 71 points behind LaGrange's 58.

The Rebel's Larry Beebe, a top runner for the West Monroe based countrymen all season, and one of the reasons for the Rebel's current 5-4 record, finished in fourth place in Saturday's running.

Paul Peoples grabbed the ninth spot for West Monroe.

Others entered in the meet were Pineville with 98, Natchitoches with 114, Bolton at 118 and Buckeye which failed to qualify.

In order of finish were:

1. Addison, LC; 2. Pelafigue, LC; 3. Courvillion, Bolton; 4. Beebe, WM; 5. Korbisch, LC; 6. Burnheroff, Bolton; 7. Lankin, LC; 8. Malone, Pineville; 9. Peoples, WM; 10 McClemore, Nat.11. McKay, Pineville; 12. Sollars, LC; 13. Collins, LC; 14. Frost, Pineville; 15 Mayfield, Nat.

Oak Grove Gets First Place In Panthers' Meet

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Kilbourne girls outlasted Forest, 50-48, to take first place in the Lake Providence Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Oak Grove won the boys first place trophy by defeating Tallulah, 53-37.

Betty Van Meter took high game honors in a losing effort with 33. Diane Edwards led the winning sextet with 24 points.

Mike Gammill was instrumental in the Oak Grove victory, netting 22 points. Dennie Ater was high for Tallulah with 14.

Monticello girls and Lake Providence boys took the sportsmanship awards.

Optimist Club Baseball Clinic Nearing Final Planning Stages

Plans are nearing completion on the third annual Optimist Club Boys Baseball Clinic here next weekend, according to Clinic Chairman Bobby Bruce.

Bruce announced that three more instructors have notified him they will be here for the clinic.

They are former Boston Red Sox infield star Milt Bolling, Los Angeles Angels Coach Salty Parker and Gerald Moses, who recently signed a $60,000 bonus contract with the Boston Red Sox.

Bolling was a star for the Red Sox during the late 1940's and during the 1950's. He's from Mobile, Ala., and is the older brother of Frank Bolling, second sacker with the Milwaukee Braves.

Parker has been a coach in the major leagues for many years. He's from Shreveport and was a coach under his good friend Alvin Dark with the San Francisco Giants for several seasons before joining Manager Bill Rigney at Los Angeles.

Moses, rated by Red Sox officials as one of the finest prospects they have signed in many years, is from Yazoo City, Miss.

Bruce said he expected confirmation from several other potential instructors this week.

The clinic will be held Saturday and Sunday at American Legion Park and the nearby Little League park in south Monroe near Bernstein Park.

The first clinic session will be held Saturday morning from 10:30 to 12:30 with boys 14 and older to be instructed in Legion Stadium and boys 13 and under in the Little League park.

FORMER STAR Red Sox shortstop Milt Bolling has accepted an invitation to attend the upcoming Optimist Club Boys Baseball Clinic next weekend. Bolling is still with the Boston club in the capacity of a scout. He covers Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and the area around Memphis, Tenn.

The final session on Sunday will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 in Legion Stadium and will end with a batting and fielding demonstration by the instructors.

No admission will be charged for the clinic and boys are asked only to bring a glove.

Bruce said that two instructors who had previously agreed to be at the clinic had been forced to change their plans. He said Mel Parnell, the former Red Sox pitching star, has been notified by the Red Sox that he will do public relations work in Boston next week and will not be able to make the clinic. Parnell will be part of the Red Sox broadcasting team this season.

Also sending his regrets was Max Alvis, star third baseman of the Cleveland Indians. Alvis' sister was recently injured in an automobile accident and the third baseman will not be able to instruct in the clinic, Bruce said.

Around 40 instructors are expected for the clinic, among them star shortstop Wayne Causey of the Kansas City Athletics, former Yankee, Red Sox and Cardinal pitcher Billy Muffett, third baseman Gene Freese of the Pittsburg Pirates and Los Angeles Dodger farmhand Dickie Crowe.

Quail Change With Trends

With Sam Hanna

Rabbit Habitat Same

Only the foolhardy hunt quail.

Most of today's hunters, who like their sport fast, can't put up with bird hunting. It entails too much walking, not enough shooting.

Bird hunting is not for the man who likes to come by his game easily. Bird hunting is for the man who appreciates a dog working regardless of the price.

The price is high.

You've got to bog through muddy fields or wade through briars, sloughs or canals to get to the birds. When you find them, more than likely they'll flush ahead of the dog, then fly away to the next parish.

If they don't light in trees.

They haven't declined by modern standards, though they're not as plentiful as they were in the days when there were less barbwire fences, bird hunters and birddogs.

They're out there in the jungles, and if you don't believe it just wait until spring and you can hear them everywhere. They'll come out of the thickets to enjoy the safety of spring and summer.

Why are they so darn smart?

"We used to find a lot of birds, especially in the '30s," explained Fred (Bubba) Nielsen, a Winnsboro bird hunter who has hunted quail since 1928. "But that was before they cleaned up the country. That drove the birds into the woods. You can find birds now in the middle of the swamp, but it won't do you any good."

Bubba says the season this year hasn't been so good. And he should know because he hunts four dogs and shoots with the accuracy that puts most of us to shame.

"We've found birds this year, but they're wild," he said. "They fly out of the country. You can't find the singles. For some reason the birds are just wilder."

What Bubba said about finding birds in the middle of the swamps can be applied to the hills as well. The hills are full of quail, but killing them is another thing.

Why?

Raymond McDuff, a bird hunter of many years standing and also county agent of Morehouse Parish, has the answer.

"From a county agent's standpoint, the change in bird hunting is due to the change in farming," explained Raymond, who used to hunt quail on horseback when you shot just the coveys and kept on getting up covey after covey.

"For example, 15 years ago, Morehouse Parish had not over 500 acres in soybeans," Duff pointed out. "In 1964, the parish had 60,000 acres of soybeans and by 1967 there'll be 40,000 more acres of woodlands cleared up and planted in soybeans. We'll have 100,000 acres in soybeans. This is removing cover for birds and rabbits too."

He added, "It's happening all over Northeast Louisiana in some degree or less."

Raymond explained that the individual farmer could help by leaving fence rows and thickets, by planting by - color lespedeza and by leaving the beans and stalks in the cornfields.

At Tallulah, Don Richardson, area conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, pointed out that his department recommended to farmers that Mr. Bobwhite and the rabbit could be cared for with little trouble.

"If we see where a man can devote an area to quail or rabbits or doves, we make that suggestion," Don said. "It's up to them to say 'yes' or 'no. That's one of the main things we try to do."

So the farmer can play an important role.

Raymond McDuff also said reports were coming to him that bobcats are becoming more plentiful, explaining that the wildcat is one of the worst predators on quail.

But the basic reason for the changing bobwhite, he said, was the change in farming.

Duff says bird hunting is going to get rougher, even though the soil bank program helped some.

Since tougher days are ahead, most of you other bird hunters might consider quitting.

That would make it nicer for the foolhardy.

Waterfowl, Woodcock, Snipe

Migratory birds are marvels of nature. They come and go as though they have a built-in weatherman. In fact, they sometimes move a step ahead of the weatherman.

Take woodcocks and snipes, for instance.

If you've been quail hunting lately, chances are you jumped some woodcocks and snipes. The Louisiana season on them ended January 14th.

Woodcocks breed in the southern part of Canada, Newfoundland, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and even in Louisiana and Central Florida. Most of them, however, breed in the north.

The snipe covers about the same territory.

But along about October and November, they pick up and head South. Most snipes find their way to the marsh country of Louisiana. Most woodcocks winter in Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

They'll stick around long enough to interest your birddog and perhaps an extra flavor to your bag, but when the early spring days roll around they're up and gone again. Most of them do.

A lot of our natives never have seen a woodcock, but they don't quail hunt.

Most of us are more familiar with the migratory habits of waterfowl, so there's no need to go into that. But the December 18-22nd inventory of waterfowl in Louisiana conducted by the Wild Life & Fisheries Commission produced an interesting comparsion.

As always South Louisiana had most of the ducks. Southwest Louisiana had 2½ million and Southeast Louisiana had 1.7 million. In fact, Southwest Louisiana had 387,000 mallards.

And Northeast Louisiana, for a comparsion, had 12,000 and Northwest Louisiana had only 6,000. Remember that December 18-22nd should have been the best part of our hunting season.

Yet the inventory showed that we didn't have any ducks to speak of. The total for this area came to 49,500.

A new inventory will be out in a few days. We'll see the figures rise in January when we should have a duck season.

Little Man's Corner

The birds and rabbits were acting awfully smart, but the fish were biting and the little men made news afield.

Bussey Brake was producing the biggest bass, but Black Bayou was holding its own. For example, James Doss of Monroe landed the limit that weighed 55 pounds. Henry Cohen of West Monroe got eight that went 20 pounds.

Other bass catches at Black Bayou included J. C. Zagone, Monroe, 12 bass that averaged two pounds each, Charlie Marx, Monroe, one that weighed 6-lb., 9-oz., and Joe White, six bass, including two four-pounders, a three - pounder and a two-pounder.

Horace Buckley of Swartz caught 27 catfish in Black Bayou. One weighed 5-lb., 14-oz.

In the Lake Providence area, Sam Foutz landed five bass in Fleeman's barpit. Alvie Lambert got six while Mrs. Morris Coleman landed 16 white perch and Mrs. Sam Foutz got 10.

And you saw the picture in the paper of Frank Parrino's catch at Bussey. The bass weighed 10 pounds. That's the second 10 pounder that we know of from Bussey lately. Frank landed the bass on a Water Dog.

From Bastrop, C. L. Harper left Bussey behind and landed the limit of bass in Lake St. John. Jeff Kimbel and George Dodd of Monroe got the limit of white perch in Old River Lake.

St. John also produced a limit catch of white perch for Don Sortis of Vidalia.

From Jonesboro, Mr. and Mrs. Black Odom got the limit of white perch in Kitterlin Creek Bay near Jena. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Holstead of Winnfield landed the limit in Big Bayou.

In the bird hunting category, Johnny King of Sterlington has had a good hunt or two. But he hasn't been often. At Winnsboro, Orville Elkin has had some good shooting on birds left behind by James McGraw and George Mack Scott.

McGraw and Scott are great believers in leaving seed for next year.

And for those interested in wildlife and politics, a story came down this week on the recent gubernatorial campaign in South Dakota. Since the pheasant population in South Dakota dropped about 50 per cent from last year, a big campaign issue developed around the need to get rid of predators, mainly the fox.

The campaigners had a big time going after the fox and we doubt seriously that anyone mentioned that the real reason in the decline of the pheasant was a drought.

Louisiana is not so unique in its politics.

3rd Hole-In-One

BORGER, Tex. (AP) — Russell Beckwith of Borger shot his third hole in one at Huber Golf Course Saturday — at the same hole, with the same club and the same brand of ball.

A BIRDDOG pointing a covey of quail provides beauty with excitement, or enough to keep bird hunters going back even though quail hunting has developed into a mighty tough proposition. In this photo, "Sam," owned by Raymond McDuff of Bastrop, sets a bird, giving you an example of what iti's like to be afield on a cold's winter day with partridges underfoot. "Sam," a three-year-old setter, is out of a line of champion setters that descended from the great Hall of Game setter, "Sports Peerless." He's a fast-acting, aggressive performer, fully capable of handling today's smarter quail. (Photo by John Blanchard)

WHAT'S IT ABOUT

Questions, Answers About NCAA, AAU Arguments

NEW YORK (AP) — "We will put aside the Einstein Theory today," the professor said, "and delve into a more complicated subject, the AAU-NCAA feud.

"Any questions?"

Q. Yes, sir, what is the feud all about?

A. It's quite simple. The Amateur Athletic Union controls track and field in the United States. The colleges— collectively they're the NCAA—think the AAU is doing a bad job. They want to take over.

Q. Why can't they?

A. That's a long story. It started back in 1912. That's when the AAU was formed and became a member of the International Amateur Athletics Federation—IAAF—with the right to sanction both domestic and international meets in this country.

Q. That word "sanction"—I've heard a lot about it lately. What does it mean?

A. It's just another word for "okay" or "approval." Somebody has to see that meets are run in accordance with the rules. That's the job of the AAU.

Q. Good. What do the colleges care? Why do they want all this responsibility?

A. The colleges contend that they provide the bulk of the athletes for these big meets and so they, the colleges, not some other agency should see to it that these athletes get fair treatment.

Q. Is it true that the colleges feed most of the talent into these meets?

A. Not exactly; that's a debatable point. In the Olympic Games at Tokyo last year, for instance, there were 69 men on the track and field team of the United States. Twenty of these were college men, eight were from the armed services and the other 41 were in what you call the "open class"— that is, they were schoolboys or working men.

Q. Somebody said the college boys won the Olympics for us — is that right?

A. That's an exaggeration. Sure, the colleges made a great contribution with medal winners such as Bob Hayes, Henry Carr and Bob Schul, but you have to remember there was a great show by veterans such as Al Oerter, Dallas Long, Billy Mills and Mike Larrabee.

Q. Then this really is a unified effort of schoolboys, collegians, military and professional men. Why isn't there an organization covering all of them?

A. There is—at least, supposedly. It's the AAU, which is supposed to blanket all amateurs.

Q. Then, again, what is the college beef?

A. Well, the colleges figure they aren't given enough voice for their contribution. They want more control.

Q. Even over athletes who are not undergraduates?

A. Yes, actually. The colleges would like to set up an organization in direct competition to the AAU and get recognition from the IAAF, such as the AAU has. That's why the USTFF—or the U.S. Track and Field Federation—was formed right after the Olympics in 1960.

Q. The NCAA, USTFF, AAU—all these alphabet things confuse me. Can you straighten them out?

A. It's tough, but I can try. The NCAA is the policy- making body of most of the colleges, some 600 of them. The USTFF is a separate arm. The AAU says the USTFF is just a puppet of the NCAA but the NCAA says the USTFF is an autonomous body of which the NCAA is just a member.

Q. Who's right?

A. You pays your money and you takes your choice. This is a source of some of the trouble.

Q. As I remember the controversy came to a head in the winter of 1962-63. Can you explain what happened?

A. Yes, the colleges at their annual convention adopted a four-point policy that: 1, No NCAA man could serve on an AAU committee. 2, No college facilities could be used for AAU meets. 3, No NCAA members could be a member of the AAU. 4, No NCAA athletes could compete in AAU meets without USTFF sanction.

Q. What was the AAU reaction?

A. The reaction was announcement that any athlete who competed in a meet not sanctioned by the AAU would be automatically suspended.

Q. You mean that these athletes couldn't even try out for the Olympic team?

A. That's correct. As the certified sanctioning agent of the IAAF, the AAU—and only the AAU—had the right to approve athletes for international competition, including the Olympics.

Q. This must have been where the late President Kennedy and the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur got into the act.

A. Right. Fearing that the U.S. Olympic team might be damaged, General MacArthur banged the heads of the two factions together and got an uneasy peace Jan. 19, 1963.

Q. What was that?

A. The colleges were asked to throw out their four-point program and the AAU was asked to give amnesty to any athlete that might have been suspended as a result of the feud. Also the AAU was recognized as the sole sanctioning agent for open and international meets while the USTFF, or NCAA, could control strictly college events.

Q. Weren't the colleges satisfied with that?

A. No, they wanted at least a system of joint sanctions and they were still intent on getting recognition of the USTFF, but they agreed to MacArthur's terms until after the 1964 Olympics.

Q. Then what?

A. On last Nov. 14, the NCAA Council—that's the colleges' tough enforcement body—ruled that the close of the cross-country season any athlete competing in a meet not sanctioned by the USTFF would be subject to penalty. The exact date was later fixed at March 1.

Q. In other words, the NCAA demanded at least dual sanctions. Did the AAU yield?

A. Not at all. The AAU insisted that, under its affiliation with the IAAF, only the AAU could sanction open meets.

Q. Carried to its conclusion, what could this mean?

A. Compete chaos. The best college athletes wouldn't be permitted to compete in the major meets. Wholesale suspensions would result on both ends. The athletes themselves would suffer most.

Q. Did the colleges back this policy all the way?

A. No, there was rebellion on the East Coast and among a group of coaches on the West Coast. The Ivy League members said they wouldn't be dictated to by the NCAA. West Coast coaches voted 5-3 to compete in AAU meets against the NCAA will.

YMCA Basketball

Ten games were played in the YMCA basketball's Gra - Y Leagues Saturday.

In the Green division, the Hawks blanked the Lakers, 2-0. Mike Husted had the two points for the Hawks.

The Broncs edged the Bandits, 6-5. West Loflin had six points for the winners while Young Kilpatrick and Paul Gentry had two each for the Bandits.

In Red division, the Packers romped to a 13-5 victory from the Giants. Doug Brown netted six points for the winners with Al Bartlett getting four for the Giants.

The Cardinals blasted the Cowboys, 31-5, with Bob Sales and Rowe hitting six points each for the winning quint. Forrest Seale had four points for the losing Cowboys.

Tom Whatley's eight points gave the Indians a 15-12 decision from the Bears. Pat McConathy and Ray Kelly had five each for the Bears.

In the Blue division, the Tigers shellacked the Eagles, 15-0. Beau Wicker had six for the Tigers.

The Redskins took a 13-1 victory from the Colts with Wally McMakm getting eight for the winners. Jan Beaver had one for the losers.

The Panthers romped past the Lions, 27-7, behind the 13 point scoring touch of David Salley. Mike Johnson had three for the losers.

In the White division, the Vikings came out on the long end of a 15-11 score from the Bengals. Blake McDougald had six for the winners but John Herrington took high game honors with eight.

The Rams defeated the Royals, 12-9. Dennis Surratt had eight for the winners with Jeff Spooner hitting four for the losers.

Yale Interested In Joe Paterno

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — The rumor circulating the Penn State University campus Saturday is that Yale wants the Nittany Lions' Joe Paterno as its next head football coach.

The Ivy Leaguers lost John Pont to Indiana Friday. Immediately, the name of Paterno, was mentioned as a possible Pont successor.

Major League Briefs

O'Doul Honored

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lefty O'Doul, owner of the sixth best all-time major league lifetime batting average, is the winner of the Walter Judge Memorial Award for outstanding service to baseball.

He was chosen for the award by the San Francisco baseball writers, and will be honored at their banquet Feb. 14.

O'Doul had a .349 batting average in a career with several big league clubs, from 1919 to 1934.

Tresh, Stafford

NEW YORK (AP) — Outfielder Tom Tresh and pitcher Bill Stafford have signed their 1965 baseball contracts, the New York Yankees announced Saturday.

The club said that Tresh received a modest increase while Stafford will receive the same salary as in 1964. Tresh batted .246 with 16 homers and Stafford's record was 5-0 last season.

2 More Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Infielder Bill Mazeroski and relief pitcher ElRoy Face have signed for the 1965 season, the Pittsburgh Pirates announced Saturday.

The 28-year-old Mazeroski hit .268 last year and was the only Pirate to appear in all 162 games. This will be his ninth season with the club.

Face, 33-year-old right-hander, was 3-3 last year and had a 5.18 earned run average. This will be his 11th season as a Pirate.

Six Met Pacts

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Cowan, centerfielder obtained from the Chicago Cubs nine days ago in a trade for George Altman, and five young pitchers returned their signed contracts to the New York Mets Saturday.

The pitchers, whose average age is 21½ years, are: Darrell Sutherland, Dick Selma, Jerry Hinsley, Frank McGraw and Tommy Parsons. All are right-handed. They had a combined total of 39 victories and 25 defeats in the minors last season.

Three Side Games

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles will make three side trips during the 1965 season to play exhibition baseball games in Rochester, N.Y., Philadelphia and Elmira, N.Y.

The Orioles will visit Rochester on June 21 to play their International League affiliate, play the Philadelphia Phillies in their annual benefit game on July 14, and play the Elmira Pioneers of the Eastern League on Aug. 9.

Cepeda Pay Boost

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Orlando Cepeda, whose .304 led San Francisco Giants batting averages last season, has signed for 1965 for about a $2,000 a year raise to $55,000, second highest salary of the club.

Willie Mays is the highest paid Giant, and major leaguer, at $105,000.

The National League club said Saturday the Puerto Rican first baseman had signed readily. Two years ago he was a holdout until March 12. He also fought for a raise the year before that.

The 27-year-old right-handed slugger underwent surgery in New York last month to remove a small piece of cartilage from his right knee.

Cepeda reports the knee, which gave him trouble in 1964, is sound.

He hit 31 homers and batted in 97 runs last year.

Cardinal Scouts

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two more men have added to the scouting staff of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, General Manager Bob Howsam announced Saturday.

They are Charles L. Thompson of Lewiston, Pa. and Coburn Jones of Denver. Thompson is a former major league catcher. Jones once played shortstop for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Thompson will be scouting supervisor for Pennsylvania, New York, Delaware, and parts of Virginia and West Virginia. Jones will be supervisor of scouting for Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, North Dakota, South Dakota, Iowa and Kansas.

Ty Cline Signs

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves announced the signing of outfielder Ty Cline Saturday, bringing to 18 the number of players in the fold for 1965.

The 25-year-old Cline batted .302 in 101 games for the Braves last season.

Aillet Scheduled To Get Award At Shreveport Fete

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Louisiana Tech coach, Joe Aillet, one of the most successful coaches in Louisiana, will receive a special award at the eighth annual Ark-La-Tex Sports Award Dinner, Feb. 15.

According to Joe Segers, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Sports Activities Committee here, Aillet will be honored for the recognition he has bestowed upon the Ark-La-Tex area.

For 25 years Aillet has served as head grid coach, golf coach, and athletic director at Tech. His 1964 football eleven was one of his finest ever, posting a 9-1 slate, losing only to Southern Mississippi, 14-7.

In GSC action, Tech won the conference crown with a 5-0 mark. In the 25 years of Aillet teams at Tech, the Bulldogs have won 146 games while losing 73 and typing eight times. In GSC play, his teams have placed second seven times, third twice and fourth twice.

Aillet, a 1927 graduate of Southwestern La. Institute, now USL, has also done a tremendous job in the field of golf. In the last 12 years, his golfing teams have captured 10 league titles, including the last four in succession.

New Contract

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Ben Schwartzwalder, veteran football coach at Syracuse University, has been awarded a new, five year contract, Athletic Director James H. Decker announced Saturday.

Decker said the 55-year-old Schwartzwalder, winningest coach in Orange Football history, will begin his new pact July 1, when his current five-year contract expires.

Meeting Slated By Wildlife Unit Tuesday At 7:30

The Ouachita Wildlife Unit will hold its first meeting of the new year Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Virginia Hotel featuring a discussion on resolutions to be considered at the state convention.

W. H. (Andy) Anders Jr., club president, also announced that the program would include a demonstration by "Trooper," the Monroe Police Department's trained dog.

The meeting will be open to the public.

With the Louisiana Wildlife Federation convention to be held in March at Baton Rouge, Anders explained that resolutions would be passed by the local club for presentation at the convention.

"Anyone interested in bringing a resolution before the convention from this club should attend our meeting Tuesday night," Anders said. "We encourage all sportsmen to come."

He noted also that a discussion of projects to be sponsored by the club this year would be held.

"We also would like to hear from anyone who has a project that might be of interest," Anders said. "Now's the time to get started on projects for the months ahead."

The local club is sponsoring a membership drive at present. Membership costs $2 per person.

Lakeshore Gets Boys Division In Kiroli Meet

Lakeshore's boys and the A. L. Smith girls won first place trophies in the Kiroli Elementary School basketball tourney at West Monroe Junior High Saturday.

Taking high game honors for the winning girls was Cook with nine while Lenard had four for the losing Pinecrest sextet. The score was 17-6.

Valetine guided Lakeshore to its 36-17 triumph over Pinecrest with 12 points but Harper netted 13 for the losers.

Crosley's boys copped third place honors while Ouachita won the girls.

Making the all - tournament team in the girls division were Boudreaux, Ouachita; Murphy, Pinecrest; Oxford, Kiroli; Meredith, Pinecrest; Nugent, Swartz; and Fresby from A. L. Smith. Gregg was named Most Valuable Tournament from Smith.

Boys selections for all tourney were Tucker, Shady Grove, McDowell, Crosley, Carlton, Lakeshore, McKnight, Linwill; and Harper, Pinecrest. Sisson of Lakeshore was named the Most Valuable boy.

Providence Wins

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Sixth-ranked Providence, clinging to its status as the nation's only major unbeaten basketball power, stretched its string of victories to 12 Saturday night by defeating Seton Hall 88-81.

BABE CRANFIELD

Pocket Billards Champ Articulate Corporation

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Arthur (Babe) Cranfield plays pocket billiards with a capital "P," and that means pool from Owatonna, Minn., to New York — two places that shaped the career of the world pocket billiard champion.

Cranfield is a study in contrast and concentration. He is an articulate corporation executive and southpaw cue artist whose penchant for sportsmanship and antics around the table have endeared him to the game's Runyonesque following.

The Babe, a nickname he earned as a child in his father's billiard hall frequented by Babe Ruth and other New York Yankee baseball players, is more than a champion. He is a symbol of a game whose popularity reached an all-time low in the drab pool halls of the 1920s and 1930s, was reborn during World War II, and is riding a new wave of enthusiasm into thousands of homes.

Cranfield, now in the background music business, will defend his title in March in New York against Luther Lassiter, the man he dethroned last Sept. 24 on his 47th birthday. He is the first left-handed champion since Alfredo de Oro in 1913.

Cranfield, who started playing at the age of seven, was not always left-handed. When he was nine, he fell—"I think it was off a pool table" — and broke both wrists.

"The right one healed slower than the left so I turned around and played left-handed," he said.

At 13, he won the national junior title and at 19 began a three-year reign as national amateur champ.

After two years at Cornell University, the Babe was lured by the professional pool circuit. He learned it was long, lonely and unprofitable.

Cranfield toured for six years "and doing three or four exhibitions a day was tough."

It was tougher on his wife, Ruth.

"One night in Minnesota, she spent three hours in the car waiting for me to finish a match. It was 31 below zero outside and there wasn't a hotel in town. That's when I started to think of giving it up."

In 1952, after winning five of six tourneys, Cranfield "added it up and found out we only had $1,700 to live on the rest of the year."

So into the attic went the cue stick — the one he received in a swap in 1937 with the famed Willie Mosconi. There it remained until last year when he found himself "caught in a squeeze."

The slight, balding Cranfield does not have a billiard table in his home because there isn't room and because they are expensive. His sons, Larry and Garry, are not especially fond of the game.

It was for his sons that Cranfield came out of retirement. With Larry at Syracuse University and Garry due for college in a couple of years, "we found we were short about $1,500 a year for their education," he said.

Visualizing the championship as a means of picking up some money, the Babe, who suffers arthritis in his hands, returned to competition.

He was a 3-1 underdog against Lassiter last year, but scored an upset.

Of his antics around the table, Cranfield says, "I give it the body English all the time."

The champion thinks pocket billiards is a lot like golf in that "you can compete actively to 65 or so." The sport, now played by about 15 million persons, provides a wealth of exercises, he says.

Cranfield estimates that he walks about three miles during a practice round "and the body bends many times and the eyes and arms are always in play."

"It's a game where you have to plan ahead, exercising the mind."

The game has become increasingly popular with women, says Cranfield, who believes women would make finer players than men "if they could approach the game from a more competitive point of view."

"All things being equal," he says, "they are more graceful and not as musclebound as men."

GOING RATES

Colleges May Not Afford Signal Callers Of Future

NEW YORK (AP) — The current joke in sports circles is that Sonny Werblin, who owns the New York Jets, is driving the price of quarterbacks up so high that soon no college will be able to afford one.

Of course, the colleges don't advertise their going rates for quarterbacks.

But Werblin sure does. In fact, he may have added a zero here and there to the price tags.

Anyway, well publicized accounts say that the American Football League team signed Alabama's Joe Namath to a $400,000 contract, and go the name of Notre Dame's John Huarte on another for $200,000.

And the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League split the difference, with $300,000 for Jerry Rhome of Tulsa.

The result is fathers all over the land are telling their offspring to put away those books and get outside and play.

Naturally, it is not news that some athletes get a lot of money for playing at fun and games.

Nearly 40 years ago Gene Tunney wrote out a check to promoter Tex Rickard for $10,000 and got one back for an even million.

The wage for Tunney's title defense against Dempsey came to $990,000 and Tunney thought an even million sounded better. He worked 10 rounds for it, though.

Eddie Arcaro, the banana-nosed jockey, rode winners who collected more than $30 million, and the jockey's cut of that is 10 per cent.

Babe Ruth made $80,000 a season at a time when the President of the United States got only $75,000 for a full year.

Those pay-offs would stack up with anything going today, but never before have so many muscular young men cashed in as these days.

Take Arnold Palmer. He is no different from any other 35-year-old golfer who flies his own twin-engine plane and has outside companies that earn him half a million a year.

Or Jack Nicklaus, at 24 already closing in at the bank with old Sam Snead, who has been playing since the gutta percha ball was legal and still has the first divot he ever dug.

Mark McCormack, the bright young Chicago lawyer who gave up his torts to take on the task of managing golfers, estimates that victory in the Masters tournament in Augusta every April is worth $500,000.

McCormack should know. His three tigers—Palmer, Nicklaus and Gary Player of South Africa —have won it six of the last seven years.

Irish Continue Torrid Hitting; Get 113-65 Win

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame took the rebounds away from Toledo and overwhelmed the Rockets 113-65 in a continuation of Irish home floor basketball invincibility Saturday.

The Irish did the rebound job, 63-36, in spite of the absence of their top rebounder, 6-foot-10 Walt Sahm, who stayed on the bench. Coach Johnny Dee said he kept Sahm out in order to get more speed in the line-up after the Irish loss to Purdue.

Ron Reed moved into the pivot for Notre Dame and grabbed 20 rebounds. He also had 27 points, matching teammate Larry Sheffield.

Notre Dame, unbeaten in seven games at home, jumped out to a 27-11 lead in the first 10 minutes, and the game never was close.

Reed hit 11 of 16 from the field and Sheffield 13 of 20.

Lowest daily double payoff during Yonkers, N. Y., harness racing in 1964 was $8 last June 16 when horses ruturning $2.80 and $4.80 won the first two races.

MRS. JAMES C. BOND JR.

Bond-Traxler Vows Read In Candlelight Setting

Miss Rita Ann Traxler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vernon Traxler Sr., of Ferriday, became the bride of James Clifton Bond Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Bond, 511 Drago Street, West Monroe, Friday, January 22. Rev. M. H. Fields performed the ceremony at 7 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Ferriday.

Mass arrangements of white stock and gladioli were alternated along the altar by seven branch candelabra holding tall white tapers, with candle trees at each end. Pews were marked with white satin bows and white pompons.

Miss Katherine Yates of Bastrop, was organist and soloist was Darwin White, professor of music at Louisiana College, Pineville.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie, featuring long tapered sleeves. The high neckline was accented by a round collar, edged with scalloped lace. A straight front panel of the skirt was defined by side fullness which swept to the back in a chapel train. Her shoulder length veil was held in place by a double crown of pearls and crystals and she carried a cascade of white roses and tulle with pearl accents.

Miss Sherry Bond, West Monroe, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Dawn Briggs, Ferriday, Miss Sondra Garcin, Winnsboro, both students at Louisiana College; Miss Kay Cross, Ferriday, student at Northeast in Monroe and Mrs. Carol Burley Webber of Ferriday. They were identically gowned in slim floor length skirts of gold velveteen with overblouses of gold brocade, and matching hats of gold brocade in flower petal shape, with veils falling to their shoulders. They wore dyed to match slippers and carried cascade bouquets of white chrysanthemums accented with velvet tubing and pearls.

Flower girl was Miss Jan Houghton of Clayton, who wore a floor length frock of gold velveteen with matching hat and carried a flower petal basket. Charles Len Traxler, brother of the bride, acted as ring bearer.

Ronald M. Sconyers, West Monroe, attended his brother-in-law as best man and groomsmen were Robert Brian, Montgomery, Ala., Ray Ford, Epps; Grady Snider, Shreveport and Larry Parks, Glenmora, all students at Louisiana College.

Ushers included Gary Lanier, Lancaster, Texas; Richard Beeman, New Orleans; Ronnie Laughlin, Bridge City, Texas; Vernon Traxler, and David Traxler, both brothers of the bride of Ferriday.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore an evening suit of cranberry velveteen with cranberry shoes and pink elbow length gloves. Her blouse and hat were of pink and gold brocade. Mrs. Bond, mother of the groom, wore a green velveteen ensemble with matching shoes and bag, complemented with a white hat and gloves.

A reception followed in Fellowship Hall of the church where Mrs. Ronald M. Sconyers, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book. Baskets of white stock, chrysanthemums and gladioli formed a background setting and centering the table was an arrangement of white roses, carnations and chrysanthemums with candles.

Tea girls were Miss Lynda Fields, Miss Peggy Davis, Miss Gail Watkins and Miss Vicki Overton, all of Ferriday and Miss Goldie Lay of Monroe. Floating hostesses were Mrs. Woodie Davis, Mrs. Jack Morris, Mrs. Nelson Summerell, Mrs. Douglas Watkins, Mrs. Johnnie Crawford and Mrs. C. L. Jones.

For a traveling costume the bride changed into a white wool coat ensemble with dusk brown kid gloves, lizard shoes and bag and hat to match. Mrs. Bond was graduated this month from Louisiana College with a B. S. in business education and secretarial science. Mr. Bond is scheduled to graduate in May from Louisiana College with a degree in church music. He is also at present music director at Hodge Baptist Church.

The couple will reside in Pineville where Mr. Bond will continue his studies.

Kathleen Norris Bride Of Robert Lewis Wroten

Myriad white tapers in candle trees and two mass arrangements of all white gladioli, stock and candytuft formed a background setting for the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Kathleen Norris and Robert Lewis Wroten, which was solemnized Saturday, January 23 in Claiborne Methodist Church, West Monroe.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Norris Jr., 701 Norris Lane, West Monroe and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Wroten, 206 Egan St., Monroe.

Rev. Joe H. Robinson performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. following a program of wedding music by Miss Biddy Dupree, organist. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Raburn Wroten and Dave Norris.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie, styled with long tapered sleeves and belled skirt, terminating in a short train. Appliques of Chantilly lace re-embroidered with seed pearls embellished the front panel. Her bouffant veil of illusion fell elbow length from a queen's crown of pearls and iridescent sequins. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley with miniature ivy in a cascade design, atop a white Bible.

Miss Ellen Norris served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Donna Parker, Miss Sara Johnston and Miss Linda Bradley. They wore belled gowns of moss green peau de soie, accented at the back waistline with self-fabric roses, and matching shoes. Flat bows of moss green formed their headdresses and they carried cascade bouquets of white glamellias with camellia foliage and spears of white wheat.

Serving as best man was Jim Wroten and groomsmen were William Norris III, Robert Smith and John Varner. Ushers, who also served as candlelighters, were Frank Shaughnessy and Douglas Stedman. Ring bearer was William Clayton Norris.

For the occasion Mrs. Norris, mother of the bride, wore a beige wool knit suit with matching accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige silk suit with matching mohair jacket and beige accessories. Her corsage was also a cymbidium orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church reception room where the bride's cake was centered on a round table, draped with a white net cloth. An arrangement of white and green pompons and candytuft flanked by white tapers in silver candelabra formed the central decor for the refreshment table with crystal punch bowls at each end.

Mrs. William Norris III served the wedding cake and presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Jim Wroten and Mrs. J. D. Purvis.

Presiding at the guest book placed on a table with the memory candle was Mrs. Thais Tannehill.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride changed into a three piece white wool suit with gold hat and accessories. Her corsage was of white roses from her bouquet. The bride is a graduate of West Monroe high school and Mr. Wroten graduated from Neville. Both are attending Northeast Louisiana State College where she is a junior and he a senior student.

O'Connor-Hemphill Vows Read In Rayville Church

Vows uniting Miss Dorothy Anne Hemphill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Nathaniel Hemphill, 1302 Emerson, Monroe, and John McNeil O'Connor, son of Mrs. Robert Edwin O'Connor Sr., and the late Mr. O'Connor of Rayville, were solemnized Saturday, January 23 in the Chapel of Rayville Methodist Church.

The Rev. Richard E. Walton performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. in the presence of the immediate families.

Two arrangements of yellow chrysanthemums and pompons with two single yellow cathedral tapers were used on the altar. Mrs. William Allen Turpin of Monroe, provided traditional music at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a three-piece suit of heaven blue silk peau de soie, featuring a box jacket with shawl collar and three quarter length sleeves over a shell blouse and slim skirt. A softly pleated brimmed cloche of matching fabric, blue shoes and white elbow length gloves completed her ensemble. She carried a colonial nosegay of frenched blue carnations and cymbidium orchids in tones of blue.

Serving as matron of honor and only attendant for the bride was Mrs. Ralph Talbot Troy of Slidell, who wore a pale yellow ensemble identical to that worn by the bride. Her nosegay was of yellow carnations and cymbidium orchids.

Levi Redden of Monroe attended Mr. O'Connor as best man. Candles were lighted preceding the ceremony by Robert Edwin O'Connor Jr., of Bastrop, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Hemphill was wearing for the occasion a white wool sheath, with embroidered wheat motifs in gold and white. Her accessories were white satin and she wore a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. O'Connor, mother of the groom, wore a toast sheath of Venetian lace with matching accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in Fellowship Hall of the church. Guests were greeted by Mrs. J. C. Ellington of Rayville and Mrs. J. Floyd Stone Jr., of Monroe.

A silver basket of yellow carnations and miniature chrysanthemums, flanked by lighted yellow tapers formed the centerpiece for the linen covered bride's table. Mrs. Bailey Grant of Monroe, served the tiered wedding cake and Mrs. Mark D. Freeman Jr., Jackson, Miss., aunt of the bride, served punch.

A memory candle, encircled with small yellow flowers, centered the guest book table which was presided over by Mrs. Levi Redden of Monroe.

The couple will be at home at 1410 North Fifth in Monroe. A graduate of Neville high school the bride is now attending Northeast Louisiana State College, where she is a chemistry major. Mr. O'Connor was graduated from Rayville high school and attended Northeast. He is presently employed by a Rayville firm.

Blouse Look Glamorizes Under Slip

The conventional slip has turned into the surprise package of new lingerie collections — by adding a blouse front for wear with suits. The lace, Brocade, or sequin top, designed with camisole neckline hangs loose at the botton to cover the waistband of a skirt and simulate a separate garment.

All three versions of this nylon tricot slip may be handwashed in warm soap or detergent suds. The only special caution is to dip the sequins gently up and down without rubbing or squeezing.

MISS JEAN LAQUETTA JACKSON

Jean Jackson Engagement Revealed At Saturday Tea

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Jackson of Sterlington, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Laquetta to Reverend Michael Layne Moore. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Moore Jr., also of Sterlington. The wedding will be an event of March 12 in the First Baptist Church, Sterlington.

The engagement was revealed at an announcement tea given Saturday, January 23 in Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist church in Sterlington. Hostesses were Mrs. Gilbert Brown Jr. and Mrs. R. L. Moore III.

Covered with a lace cloth over yellow, the refreshment table featured a center decor of gladioli in a sunburst arrangement. Mrs. J. P. Zoll, Mrs. C. C. Lee and Mrs. J. W. Moore, aunts of the prospective bridegroom, alternated at the coffee service and punch bowl.

Floating hostesses were Mrs. Ray Paul Raddin, Mrs. A. J. Welch and Mrs. W. H. Ladshaw Jr. and tea girls included Paula, Genny, Becky Moore and Jeanette Jackson, sister of the bride-elect. Miss Margaret Ann Jackson, also a sister of the bride-elect, registered the approximately 200 guests who called between the hours of 2 until 5 p.m.

Miss Jackson is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College, where Mr. Moore is a junior student.

Top Designers Predict '65 Fashion Trends

Top designers in the world of fashion predict the following trends for '65:

1. The natural look in make-up will be bigger than ever with more emphasis on intense lip colors.

2. Hats will be softer and smoother with concentration on sheers, silks and felts.

3. The newest place to wear jeweled charms will be to attach them to the zipper closing of your bag.

4. Legs will continue to be a focal point, hemlines higher than ever. Frosty pastel stockings will be a leader of the "fancy stocking" group.

5. More and more emphasis on costume jewelry made to look like real jewelry. A big favorite will be exaggerated gypsy-like loop earrings.

Fruited Chops With Rice Dish

Fruited pork chops with rice take about an hour to prepare. Brown 4 chops weighing a total of about 1 pound in a skillet. Pour off fat. Add 1 (10½ ounce) can of giblet gravy, liquid from an 8½-ounce can of apricot halves, 1 teaspoon of lemon juice, ½ cup of sliced onion, 1 large clove of garlic, minced, and ½ teaspoon of prepared mustard. Cook, covered, over low heat 45 minutes or until tender. Stir occasionally. Add drained apricot halves for last five minutes of cooking time. Serve with rice. Serves 4.

Colonial Dames Elect New Officers, Delegates

Election of officers for the two year term 1965-67, highlighted a meeting of the Edward Doty Chapter of the Colonial Dames of the XVII Century held Saturday, January 16 in the home of Mrs. William L. Mattison on Courtney Drive. Mrs. C. P. Gray and Mrs. Harry Lemert were co-hostesses.

Mrs. Emma Alexander, president, conducted the meeting which opened with the Pledge of Allegiance and reading of the Objects of the Society by Mrs. N. R. Spencer. Mrs. David I. Garrett Sr., introduced the speaker, Mrs. Flood Madison Jr., whose topic was "Jamestown." Mrs. Madison traced its history from its founding 1607 as the first permanent English settlement in the United States to its destruction following Bacon's Rebellion in 1676.

Preceding the business session Mrs. Lucile Turpin made the presentation of gifts to Mrs. Edward Lee Gladney Jr., in appreciation of her outstanding work as state president of the Colonial Dames of the XVII Century for the past two years and to Mrs. Emma Alexander, president of Edward Doty Chapter for the same period.

Election of officers followed and those chosen for the ensuing two year period include Mrs. Joseph Davenport, president; Mrs. David I. Garrett Sr., vice-president; Mrs. J. R. Ludlum, secretary; Mrs. L. V. Jones, treasurer; Mrs. R. B. Rawlinson Sr., chaplain; Mrs. Emma Alexander, historical curator and Mrs. James Madison, librarian.

State Convention of the Society will be held in Monroe February 9, 10 and 11 and delegates from the Edward Doty Chapter will be Mrs. Gladney, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Allen Turpin Sr., Mrs. Davenport, Mrs. James Madison and Mrs. Fred Amman. Mrs. Flood Madison, Mrs. Faye Walker and Mrs. W. V. Garnier will serve as alternates.

Delegates to the National Convention to be held in Washington, D.C. April 15, 16, and 17 were also elected. Mrs. Emma Alexander, Mrs. J. V. Jones and Mrs. Joseph Davenport will represent Edward Doty chapter as delegates and their alternates will be Mrs. J. R. Ludlum, Mrs. Hadley Leavell and Mrs. W. V. Garnier. Mrs. Edward Lee Gladney Jr. will attend as Louisiana state president and Mrs. Lucile Turpin as national honorary president general and member of the national publications committee of the society.

At conclusion of the meeting members were invited into the dining room where dessert was served by the hostesses. Yellow and white spider chrysanthemums arranged in a footed silver bowl formed the centerpiece for the dining table.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. H. Flood Madison Jr., Mrs. Allen Turpin Sr., Mrs. W. T. Barham, Mrs. Hadley Leavell, Mrs. Emma Alexander, Mrs. E. L. Gladney Jr., Mrs. W. V. Garnier, Mrs. J. B. Rawlinson Sr., Mrs. W. T. Smith, Mrs. N. R. Spencer, Mrs. David I. Garrett Sr., Mrs. Faye Bennett Walker, Mrs. James Madison, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Donald Quinn Jr., Mrs. Harry Lemert and Mrs. William Mattison.

Low Calorie Punch Is Tasty

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cranberry fruit fizz is a low-calorie punch. Combine 2 cups of dietetic cranberry juice cocktail with 1 cup each of strong tea and unsweetened orange juice, ½ cup of unsweetened grapefruit juice, 1 (16-ounce) bottle of club soda and liquid artificial sweetener to taste. All ingredients except sweetener should be pre-chilled. Serve over ice cubes with fresh cranberries as garnish. Makes 6 8-ounce servings of about 31 calories each.

Carolyn Jo Smith Weds Ronald Lee Richardson

In a double ring ceremony Friday, January 22 in Emmanual Baptist Church, Miss Carolyn Jo Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Smith, 710 Hilton, became the bride of Ronald Lee Richardson, 510 Glenmar, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Richardson of Golden, Colorado.

A large white cross centering the altar was flanked by branched candelabra holding white candles and two large bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums to form a background setting for the exchange of vows. Rev. Fred Doolittle performed the ceremony at 7:30 p.m. following a program of wedding music by Mrs. Marie Moncrief, organist and Miss Carolyn Brooks, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was wearing a gown of white peau de soie, fashioned with scoop neckline, above the elbow sleeves and pleated skirt falling into a chapel train. Alencon lace appliques encircled the neckline and sleeves and were scattered over the front skirt panel accented by tiny seed pearls. Her tiered veil of illusion fell from a double crown of pearls. She carried a white Bible crested with a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis, showered with streamers.

Attending the bride were Miss Saundra Fitzgerald, as maid of honor and Miss Judy Smith and Miss Joy Ann Albritton, bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of antique gold peau de soie, styled with bateau necklines and belled skirts. Matching Dior bows with circular veils and gold slippers completed their costumes and they carried gold velveteen muffs to which were attached clusters of yellow chrysanthemums with gold ribbon streamers.

Lisa Ann Watson, flower girl, wore an antique gold peau de soie frock with matching Dior bow and carried a basket of white and yellow chrysanthemums.

DeWayne Richardson served as best man for the bridegroom and groomsmen were Jim Brooks and Mike Davis. Ushers were Jim Davis and Fred Young.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Smith wore a champagne crepe sheath with matching lace jacket, and velveteen pillbox and accessories of matching hue. Mrs. Richardson, mother of the groom, wore a pink wool sheath with jacket and matching accessories. Both mothers wore glamellia corsages.

A reception followed in the social room of the church where the bride's table, covered with a white linen cloth overlaid with tulle, was centered with a silver candelabra, garlanded with fresh flowers. Miss Barbara Walker served the tiered wedding cake and Miss Linda Waalk presided at the crystal punch bowl at opposite end of the table. Seated at the bride's book table was Miss Linda Skipper and tea girls were Miss Karen Richardson, Miss Linda Williams and Miss Charlotte Wiggins.

After a wedding trip to the Gulf Coast the couple will be at home at 510 Glenmar. For travel the bride wore a light beige wool suit with matching velveteen headband, and brown leather accessories. Mrs. Richardson is a graduate of Neville high school and of Northeast Louisiana State College in elementary education. She is presently employed by Monroe City School system. Mr. Richardson finished West Monroe high school and will graduate January 26 in speech education from Northeast Louisiana State college. He is youth director at the First Christian Church and also employed by a local firm.

New Flavor For Gravy

Tarragon giblet gravy is good with roast chicken. Cook ¼ cup of minced onion, 1 small clove of garlic, minced, and a generous dash of dried, crushed tarragon, in 2 tablespoons of butter or margarine until onion is tender. Add 2 (10½ ounce) cans of giblet gravy, ¼ cup of light cream, 2 tablespoons of drippings from the roasted chicken, and a generous dash of cayenne pepper. Heat, stirring occasionally. Makes enough for 5 or 6 servings with 5 to 6 pound roasting chicken.

Nancye Zimmer Betrothed To William A. Caldwell

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Walton Harvey of Bastrop, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Nancye Zimmer to William Andrew Caldwell. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Caldwell of Collinston.

The wedding will be an event of Saturday, February 20 at 10 a.m. in St. Joseph Catholic Church in Bastrop with the Rev. Remy L. Stiglitz, O. F. M. officiating.

Both are graduates of Bastrop high school. Miss Zimmer is presently attending Draughon-Norton School of Business in Shreveport. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Tom E. Hicks and the late Mr. Hicks of West Monroe and of Mrs. Marie Zimmer and the late Charles F. Zimmer, Monroe.

Mr. Caldwell is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College in Monroe, where he was secretary of Sigma Epsilon and advertising manager for the Chacahoula staff. He is presently employed as a trainee for International Harvester in Shreveport where the couple will make their home.

Bring water to a high boiling point, without salt, before cooking corn on the cob. It will taste better.

New Housedress Is Stretchable

It's a natural for homemakers — the new stretch uniform and - or housedress, made of machine - washable cotton gingham.

Its slick styling, adjustable fit, and easy action — plus no-iron laundering — make this combo costume top the crop of fashions for professional and home wear.

ROMANTIC HATS

The mood in millinery is for romantic little hats, lots of lace, tulle, chiffon and muslin and, above all, things softer. Tops are understated hats — those that are head - hugging and in proportion to the head.

CASHMERE BACK

Cashmere, long on the decline is making something of a comeback in both single and dyed-to-match ensembles. There's been no real change in cashmere but it's still a good high-fashion accessory second, in sales, to the test-tube fiber replacements of late.

Visitors from out of town have inspired Monroe hostesses to a round of parties this week. Several different sets of guests have been honored: some at the same, a number at different affairs.

Last Saturday night things got underway with a party given by RUTH SHERROUSE honoring her guest, MARY BURCH of Helena, Arkansas. Yellow chrysanthemums massed in window boxes set the color theme noted in decorations. Ruth used twin refreshment tables at opposite ends of the room. Each was centered with a tree covered with yellow chrysanthemums, tangerines and ivy. The buffet included devilled oysters in tiny patty shells; pressed duck with orange sauce; cheese balls; and trays of petit fours.

Another out of town guest present for this affair was MRS. HERMAN von KAAS of Milwaukee, who was visiting the GEORGE TROUSDALES this week. Sunday morning Zette invited a group for breakfast at her home.

Guests of the THOMAS LEIGHS, also here for Ruth's party, were SARA STONE of Jackson, Miss., and VIRGINIA GIBSON of Galveston, Texas. Louise invited about twenty guests for Sunday brunch at her home. Her decorations included masses of greenery, with a bouquet of red carnations on the piano. She served stuffed ham, devilled oysters, and hot biscuits . . . These guests were also honored at a dinner party Monday evening at the home of CHICK and BUD LEWIS. Sara and Virginia returned home on Tuesday.

Sunday evening all the visitors were together again at a buffet supper at the home of LOUISE and JOHN THEUS. On Monday at noon, FRANCES HUEY was hostess for luncheon at her home.

Luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club was the compliment planned by BESSIE BIEDENHARN for Tuesday at noon. The table in the Garden Room was centered with an antique English muffin server filled with Fuji chrysanthemums and roses. The menu served to eight ladies included broiled Cornish hen with wild rice dressing, hot biscuits, and fresh strawberries.

Others who entertained during the week were MARY ETTA and TRAVIS BROWN, dinner on Monday evening; BELLE and C. D. OAKLEY, Tuesday dinner; and BERNICE and HAROLD WOODS, dinner Wednesday evening.

Ending the round of festivities was the Chinese dinner at the home of KATIE MAE and BRIDGER THORNHILL Thursday evening. Carrying out her theme, the hostess used Oriental arrangements of quince and red camellias throughout the reception area. Centering the dining table was a small chop table, with a porcelain figurine arranged with quince and camellias. Placecards, ornamented with tiny parasols, were marked with suitable names such as "Generalissimo."

Another visitor in town this week was HELEN GARRETT of Haynesville. She was the guest of her daughter and son-in-law, JANET and MALCOLM HOOD; and of her sister and brother-in-law, THELMA and JACK CAMPBELL.

On Tuesday at noon, ELIZABETH ABINGTON honored Helen at a bridge luncheon at Bayou DeSiard country club. The table in the bay window was covered with a gold cloth and centered appointed with amber goblets. Yellow Fuji pompoms and acacia filled a crystal compote, from which yellow ribbons spilled across the table. Place cards were white, written in gold ink. The menu served to nine guests included hot spiced apple juice, chicken chow mein with tomato aspic, and golden Bavarian cream for dessert.

Also on Tuesday, LESSIE GARRETT, RUTH MADISON, and SANCY MADISON were hostesses at luncheon honoring MARY JO LUSK of Houston. The honoree was here this week as guest of her mother, EULA DAVENPORT. Nine guests attended the party in the Garden Room at Bayou DeSiard country club. Ruby goblets echoed the color of massed potted red verbena which centered the table.

Paying her annual visit to the FIFTH DISTRICT DENTAL AUXILIARY, state president IRENE (Mrs. Sidney) FREDERICKS of Lafayette arrived in the city Wednesday evening, accompanied by her daughter ANN. The CLAUDE EARNESTS invited them for dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club that evening.

A sherry party Thursday morning at the home of ANN PADGETT honored Irene. Ann is president of the local group. At noon, the auxiliary met at Bayou DeSiard country club for their regular luncheon meeting. Twenty - two members were seated at a table centered with a pyramid of lemons and ivy in a milk glass compote. BOBBIE BUIE and ANN COLE were luncheon hostesses.

Out of town visitors here to attend the wedding of CLAIR SOLOMON and NAT JOSEL were invited to a cocktail supper Friday evening at the home of STELLA and PERCY SANDMAN. Stella centered her table with a crystal and silver epergne filled with white stock and carnations. Five-branch silver candelabra held burning tapers at each end of the table. Invited to attend with the families of the young couple were MR. and MRS. A. B. TENENBAUM and MRS. ARON JOSEL of Atlanta; MRS. ABE GOLD of Shreveport.

Clair and Nat are to be married today at Temple B'Nai Israel. Guests arriving yesterday were invited to stop by the home of Clair's parents, EDWYNNE and SEYMOUR SOLOMON. A buffet luncheon was served from noon until two-thirty. Expected in time for this party were MRS. FANNIE JOSEPH, PAUL SIEGEL and daughter ANN; MR. and MRS. PERCY T. JOSEPH and son DAVID; MRS. LUCILLE POLLACK, all of Baton Rouge; and MRS. IKE SOLOMON and MRS. HERBERT BRILL of Greenville, Miss.

PI BETA PHI members in Monroe and the surrounding area are invited to lunch this coming Wednesday, January 27, at the home of BARBARA EASTERLING, 2020 Island Drive. Actives and pledges who are at home during the between semester recess are to be honored.

This week we visited CHERIE and ED LONG in their lovely contemporary home on Good Hope Road in West Monroe. The house is built on a small hill, surrounded by water on three sides and sloping abruptly to the lake. A winged roof gives promise of ceilings open to the beams. Construction is of King George blend brick, combined with vertical fir siding in a shade between green and cedar.

A covered walkway leads from the parking area to the entrance: a pair of truly handsome oak doors. Each door is of three thicknesses of oak planking. Outer and inner surfaces are machine carved in geometric patterns and then attached to the solid oak center section.

To the right is the living room, three steps down from the entrance hall and dining room straight ahead. One wall of the living room is of brick, matching that used on the outside of the house. Other walls are of Provincial gold, complimenting the bronze-colored carpet. At the end of the room, glass panels on two sides overlook the water. Separating living and dining room is a wall of shelves which stops short of the ceiling, giving an open, spacious feeling to the reception area.

In the dining room, floors are of oak and walls painted a pale Provincial gold. One wall is filled with two double doored closets filled with shelves for glass and china storage. On the water side of the house, the wall is made of glass, installed above a built-in buffet. This oak piece features caned doors, and a slate serving counter. Other furniture in the room includes an old oak sideboard and a marble top dining table.

Very careful planning has obviously gone into the kitchen, planned for maximum efficiency with its centers for various types of cooking. The vegetable sink, disposal, chopping board, are located near the refrigerator; spice cabinets, stainless steel counter, divided drawers for pots and pans near the stove; double sinks and dishwasher in the clean-up area; marble counter and swing-up mixer at the pastry center. Cabinets are of fir, rubbed with green. Counters are chutney Formica, with floor of green Tessara corlon.

Behind kitchen and family room and accessible to each is a wooden deck. This area gives the feeling of being in a tree-house as one looks through the pines to the water and the primeval forest beyond.

The oak-floored family room has two walls of glass: one overlooking the water and one onto the deck. Fixed panels are used above, with tilt-out sections below for ventilation. This room is centered with a regulation size pool table. Padded barrel shaped chairs are used at the counter which is built-in under the pass-through from the kitchen serving area.

Walls of the family room are painted a shade called celery. The same color is repeated in the guest room and study just down the hall. In the study are twin built-in desks topped with wood-grain Formica. Both of these rooms as well as the master bedroom, open with sliding glass panels onto a long balcony overlooking the water on this side.

The master bedroom at the end of the hall utilizes the brick outside wall as the long wall of the room. Opposite is a wall of closets and built-in chests of drawers. Cherie's closet has bi-fold doors with full length mirrors installed so as to give a triple view. The same arrangement is seen in the dressing room, with wrap-around mirrors surrounded with lights at the make-up table.

Stairs from the family room lead down to the children's suite, at ground level. Here are rooms for VIVIAN and BRYAN, each with sliding glass doors opening right onto the waterfront. Both rooms are painted pale Tidewater blue. Their desks are built-in with a pass-through between for games and play between study.

Today, a short poem by Frances Shaw:

Who loves the rain
And loves his home,
And looks on life with quiet eyes,
Him will I follow through the storm;
And at his hearth-fire keep me warm;
Nor hell nor heaven shall that soul surprise,
Who loves the rain,
And loves his home,
And looks on life with quiet eyes.

St. Mark's Church Scene Of Van Zile-Davis Vows

Solemnized Saturday, January 23 in St. Mark's Methodist church was the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Sharon Marie Davis and Patrick Sherman Van Zile. Rev. James O. Evans performed the double ring vows at 7 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan W. Davis Jr., 406 Lincoln Drive, Monroe and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Van Zile, 1133 Otis, West Monroe.

White tapers in candle trees, entwined with smilax and stephanotis formed a background setting at the altar. Preceding the ceremony appropriate music was presented by Mrs. John Clark, organist and Miss Gayle Smith, soloist.

The bride was escorted by her father who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white peau de soie was fashioned with slim skirt, overlaid with Chantilly lace, re - embroidered with pearls. The bodice featured a high rise midriff and long fitted sleeves of matching lace. A train of peau de soie fell in deep folds from the back waistline to chapel length. Her veil of silk illusion was held in place by a double crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Connie Davis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a frock of green brocade, styled with fitted bodice, belled skirt and elbow sleeves. Her headpiece was of hand rolled self fabric roses and velvet ribbon with matching maline veil. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant were Misses Jeanne Foster, Carole Clark and Peggy Van Zile, sister of the bridegroom. Each attendant carried a long stemmed red rose.

Flower girl, Mary Roberson, wore a white dress, accented by green velvet ribbon and carried a white basket of flowers.

Mr. Van Zile attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Jerry Albright, Richard Van Zile and Dan Davis III. Candles were lighted by John Davis.

Mrs. Davis chose for her daughter's wedding a sage green sheath with rolled collar, brown accessories and a green tinted carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink sheath with accessories to match and a pink carnation corsage.

A reception followed in the church social hall where Miss Linda Carlson presided at the guest book table which held a memory candle. White chrysanthemums and green candles formed the central arrangement for the bride's table where Miss Pat Ainsworth presided at the crystal punch bowl. Alternating at serving the bride's cake were Mrs. Lavelle Roberson and Mrs. George McDonald.

Tea girls were Misses Carolyn Rea, Linda Ballenger, Bonnie Thrower and Jerry Clark.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride was wearing a green silk tussah suit with hat of matching fabric, bone accessories and the rosebud corsage from her bouquet. They will be at home at 4204B DeSiard Road, in Monroe, where both are attending Northeast Louisiana State College. Mr. Van Zile is a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia music fraternity.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Here's a novel solution to the one-lost-glove problem that crops up every winter. There are new gloves made with Creslan acrylic fiber that are reversible — they can be worn on either hand. Buy two pair alike, and it doesn't matter which gets lost. There's always a mate to it.

Make Sukiyaki Right At Table

Take a tip from leading Japanese restaurants and let your guests watch you prepare sukiyaki right at the table with your electric fry pan. Mary Troy, homemaking consultant, gives this never - fail method. Set fry pan to medium setting and brown thin slices of filet of beef quickly. Push to one side of the pan, add soy sauce, chopped onions, celery and bean sprouts or bamboo shoots. Heat quickly to crunchy stage, blend with meat and serve over noodles. Second helpings keep warm right at the table in shining stainless pan. No messy cleaning up either. Just dunk fry pan in sudsy water and wipe dry to restore lasting shine.

The wedding will be an event of February 27 at Trinity Episcopal Church in Pine Bluff.

RUFFLES ON SPSWING

Ruffles have long been on the upswing. Now they are definitely back in their frilly best. Watch them on everything from bathing suits to evening gowns. They help soften the tailored look, for example, on the V-neck of a sleeveless white cotton organdy shell.

LSPA Auxiliary Has Speaker

Mrs. Frank Martin, president of Fifth District Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association Auxiliary, appointed a nominating committee to select a slate of officers for the ensuing year at the January meeting held last Saturday. The Admiral Benbow Inn was scene of the luncheon meeting.

Named to the nominating committee are Mrs. A. S. Gunter, chairman; Mrs. Olan Dawson and Mrs. J. A. Sampognaro.

During the business session Mrs. Olan Dawson was elected recording secretary to fill a vacancy for remainder of the year. Mrs. J. B. Kendall Jr., who represented the fifth district at the state executive board meeting in New Orleans January 10, gave the report for the district.

Mrs. Hervest Baudoin of Columbia, was welcomed into the auxiliary as a new member.

Following the business meeting Mrs. August Danti, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Ruby Cloyd, who gave a talk on hair styling and proper application of make-up.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs. A. Beverly Coles, Mrs. Olan Dawson, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. Aubrey Chapman, Mrs. Frank Martin, Mrs. Dale Cronk, Mrs. Ralph M. Wilson, Mrs. Ben F. Davis, Mrs. August Danti, Mrs. Gary Coca, Mrs. J. A. Liljeberg, all of Monroe, Mrs. Jack Irvin, Oak Grove; Mrs. Paul Hammond, Gilbert; Mrs. W. A. Rodgers Jr., Bastrop, Mrs. J. B. Kendall Jr., Ruston and two guests, Mrs. J. D. Lang and Mrs. Ruby Cloyd.

Ye-Ye Swimsuit Sets New Trend

While even the young seem unlikely to go in for bare-top swimsuits, they have sparked a trend to what are being called ye-ye suits with lots of suggested bareness.

Black is the color and the vehicle is a semi-transparent stretch net which can make a one-piece black look barer than if it were bare. It's used through the middle of the suit.

Bikinis are beginning to look conservative now, so do ones in black stretch lace. Use the net beneath a lace sequinned overblouse for a peek-a--boo look. The suit with the net torso is actually a maillot with a deeply plunging back.

California surfers are already wearing two-piece suits with laced sides. Many a covered-up suit turns out to have cut-outs at sufficiently daring places. If these ye-ye suits are worn by girls with the right figures, it could be quite a season.

MISS MELBA JEAN BEASLEY

Melba Beasley To Become Bride Of Sidney Wilhite

Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Melba Jean Beasley to Sidney Ross Wilhite is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bird Beasley 2606 North 10th, West Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbie Ross Wilhite, 200 Fairview, West Monroe.

Vows will be exchanged by the couple on February 14 at 4 p.m. in the pastor's study of the First Baptist Church, West Monroe. Dr. Clifton R. Tennison, will perform the ceremony.

Attending the couple will be Miss Nancy Lea Jordan, cousin of the bride-elect, as maid of honor and Don C. Antley, cousin of the future groom, as best man.

Miss Beasley is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Neal McKascle and the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Claude Beasley. She attended the University of Mississippi and is now attending Northeast Louisiana State College where she is a member of Phi Mu.

Mr. Wilhite, who is employed by Adams Paper Converting Co., attended Louisiana State University and is now also a student at Northeast. He is a member of the Army Reserve.

SMALLER LINING

Make the paper lining for the bottom of the cake pan a little smaller than the bottom of the pan. The lining will be easier to remove.

Winter Wonderland Is Theme Of Phi Mu Ball

Winter Wonderland was reflected in decorative motifs at the Phi Mu Sorority dance Saturday night, a traditional event hosted by pledges of Northeast State's Alpha Rho Chapter on the Virginia Hotel roof.

Invitations were extended to campus collegiate sororities, fraternities and several members of the faculty, their husbands and wives.

Guests caught the spirit of the season at the entrance of the ballroom where stood a large jolly snowman with a gay red plaid scarf around his neck. The glass doors were covered with snow and above were glittered pink Greek sorority letters and Winter Wonderland in sparkling snow.

Guests registered at a white covered table displaying a glowing candle embedded in pink snow. Enhancing the theme was a gold and white sleigh filled with silvered pine cones with gold tips and small holly sprigs.

Phi Mu's official colors of pink and white were reflected in motifs on tables where white candles were encircled in pink snow.

Attracting special attention were flocked trees on one side of the dance floors. A large tree was flanked by two smaller ones illuminated by pink lights near a fountain from which sprays of water fell.

Attending the semi-formal affair were the following pledges and members of Phi Mu, Alpha Omicron Pi and Zeta Tau Alpha sororities and their dates from Kappa Alpha Order, Sigma Tau Gamma and Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternities and special guests: Betty Inabnett and Bookie Shilcutt, Vickie Volmer and Gary Holt, Linda Lee Green and Dalton LeBlanc, Carol Glover and Kenneth Holland, Betty McHale and Steve Huffman, Melda Johnson and Buddy Larche, Harry Parker, Mary Farley and John Graham, Karen Kinard and Don Ebarb, Sage Redding and Jim Lyons, Jamie Gammill and Bobbie Rugan, Monte Sue Ballard and Wayne Verrett, Leda Ann Hover and Glenn D. CASUAL SHOE

The glove casual shoe, originating in Italy and transported intact to France and England, will be important among spring shoes for American females, reports the National Shoe Retailers Association. This is a casual shoe of very soft, sueded leather, often with no-seam construction. Some tops are bound but frequently they are raw-edged.

MRS. JOSEPH LEE WILEY

Blue, White Theme Used At Wiley-Moore Wedding

Miss Betty Dee Moore, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Lonnie Moore, North Park Village, Monroe, became the bride of Joseph Lee Wiley, 813 S. 8th, Monroe, in a candlelight ceremony Saturday, January 23 in the First United Pentecostal Church. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Kelly Wiley of Jonesville and the late Mr. Wiley.

Pedestal baskets of white carnations and gladioli, and candelabra holding white tapers flanked an arch, adorned with bells and greenery to form a setting for the ceremony performed by Rev. Glen C. Chance at 7 p.m.

Candles were also used with greenery in the church windows and family pews were marked with carnations and white satin ribbons.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Glen Chance, organist and Alva Reece Franks, soloist.

Rev. Moore gave his daughter in marriage. The bride wore a full length slim skirted gown of white peau de soie, styled with fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves, embellished with lace appliques, embroidered with pearls and sequins. The applique motifs were repeated on the chapel train, which was attached by a cummerbund encircling the waist. Her full length veil of illusion cascaded from a tiara of pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of white roses in cascade design.

Maid of honor, Miss Judy Moore, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Carolyn Cupit, matron of honor, wore floor length gowns of baby blue peau de soie, with slim skirts, high round necklines and three-quarter sleeves. They wore veiled pillbox hats of matching blue peau de soie and white satin slippers and carried bouquets of white carnations tied with white streamers.

Bridesmaids, Miss Brenda Griffin, Miss Floradene Morace and Miss Brenda Greenfield, were dressed in slim floor length gowns of white peau de soie, with matching veiled pillbox hats and carried bouquets of white carnations, tied with blue streamers.

Kimberly Ogletharpe, flower girl, wore a long white peau de soie dress and a wrist corsage of white carnations, matching two carnations worn as a headdress with a short veil. She carried a basket of white chyrsanthemums and carnations, tied with a large blue bow.

Candles were lighted by Miss Anita Kay Staggs and Freddy Cory. Miss Staggs also wore a gown of white peau de soie with a matching veiled pillbox and a wrist corsage of white carnations.

Serving as best man was Barney L. Staggs and groomsmen-ushers were Harold Kelly, David McKeithen, Ronnie Cupit and Perry Kirkland.

Mrs. Moore, mother of the bride, was wearing a white wool textured knit suit, trimmed in gold, with gold silk blouse, gold suede shoes and other accessories in gold. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Wiley, chose a beige lace three-piece ensemble with brown accessories and a corsage of carnations.

The dining hall of the church was transformed into a garden setting for the reception which followed. Baskets of white flowers were used against massed greenery which formed a background setting with numerous candles throughout. The guest book table, presided over by Miss Jerrie Boliew, was covered with a white lace cloth over blue and adorned with the memory candle.

Blue and white theme of the wedding was carried out in all appointments for the reception table, also covered in white lace over blue and centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and carnations. The all white bride's cake was served from one end with the bowl of blue punch opposite. Coffee and groom's cake were also served from another table. Assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Joe Wilks, Mrs. Leach, Miss Lynda Masters and Mrs. Kence Booth. Rice bags were presented by Anita Kay Staggs and Kimberly Ogletharpe.

After a wedding trip to Santa Rosa Island, Pensacola, Florida the couple will be at home in Monroe. For travel the bride changed into a blue wool and mohair costume with white lizard accessories. Mrs. Wiley graduated from Ouachita Parish high school and attended Pentecostal Bible College at Tupelo, Miss. Mr. Wiley was graduated from Block high school, Jonesville and is a senior at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Review Club Hears Book On Western Liberalism

A massive arrangement of Flemish flowers and hand made candles decorated the Lestar Martin home on Valencia when Mrs. Martin was hostess to the Review Club Monday, January 18.

During the business meeting presided over by Mrs. Fred Huenefeld Jr., excerpts were read from the Louisiana Federation of Women's club bulletin. Announcement was made of the annual meeting of the Fifth District Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs will be held February 27 at Baskin school.

Mrs. Robert Powell, conservation chairman, announced that a new citation award will be presented for the first time by the division of air pollution, Public Health Service, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, for outstanding community clean air action programs developed by local federated clubs electing to sponsor a Clean Air Community Action Program.

Mrs. W. Tom Davis, home life chairman, presented articles from the "Louisiana Clubwoman" and other periodicals pertaining to the health division of the home life department. Mrs. Herschel Gentry Jr. gave a brief history of Parliamentary Law.

Advisory board chairman, Mrs. George T. Walker, introduced the afternoon's program "Toward Excellence in Western Civilization, Democratic Processes." She presented Mrs. Craig Morgan who reviewed "Suicide of the West," by James Burnham, well known conservative, author, lecturer, editor and commentator on current affairs. His work is an attempt to show that the liberals are edging the west toward suicide. The book states that for the past two generations Western civilization has been shrinking and the author says that by the end of this century will disappear if the trend continues at its present rate. Liberalism, a set of ideas and attitudes defined by Mr. Burnham, permeates and largely guides America.. policy, on which Western survival depends, Mrs. Morgan cited in her review.

Mrs. Claude Smith reveiwed "The Block Busters" by Lou Cameron, a novel telling how a group of unethical realtors engineered the destruction of an entire district.

During the coffee hour a dessert course was served by the hostess to Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. Thomas C. Dansby, Mrs. W. Tom Davis, Mrs. Herschel Gentry Jr., Mrs. C. P. Gray Jr., Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, Mrs. Ralph B. King Jr., Mrs. Craig Morgan, Mrs. Robert Powell, Mrs. Claude Smith, Mrs. Sam Smith and Mrs. George T. Walker.

DAR Chapter Honors Good Citizens, Elects Officers

Delegates for the 1965 State Conference and the 74th Continental Congress were elected and recipients of the three Good Citizens pins were honored by Chief Tusquahoma Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at the January meeting in West Monroe Branch of the Ouachita Parish Library.

Mrs. Gordie Roy, hostess chairman was assisted by Mrs. W. G. Haynes, Jr., Mrs. D. C. Brothers, Mrs. D. W. Rhodes and Mrs. Lester Corley.

Mrs. Archie L. Dickerson, chairman of Good Citizens introduced Miss Sharon Harrelson, West Monroe high school and Norma Jean Slocum, Calhoun high school recipients of the Good Citizens pin. Mrs. H. H. Winters III, co-chairman introduced Miss Patsy Riser, Columbia high school.

Mrs. Herman M. McGuire, regent, presiding over the meeting welcomed two new members, Mrs. Tommy H. Spurlock, Jr., and Mrs. Gary Hayes of Farmerville, who were recognized as Junior members. Mrs. Kate Stewart, treasurer, presented Mrs. Spurlock with the DAR white hand book, chapter year book, and a pamphlet "What the Daughters Do." Mrs. Solon King was introduced as a potential member, with papers pending at National Headquarters for the February 1 board meeting.

After the ritual, the vice regent, Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux read the President General's message from the national magazine.

The chapter made a cash donation to the state treasurer for the Lucille Fonville Messer Memorial fund for the Louisiana Room located in Memorial Continental Hall at Washington D. C. Mrs. Messer was state chairman of the Louisiana Room at time of her death early this year.

The national defense topic "Under God" in reference to the Pledge of Allegiance taken from the National Defender was given by Mrs. E. W. Stinson Jr.

Mrs. Donald Cannon, chairman of the nominating committee, submitted the slate of new officers elected to serve for the next three years, to be installed at the May meeting. They are Mrs. Joseph B. Landreaux, regent; Miss Katie McGee, first vice regent; Mrs. J. L. Norris, second vice-regent; Miss Mary Louise Ellis, chaplain; Mrs. Ruth Hundley, recording secretary; Miss Lenee Lacey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. D. C. Golson, treasurer; Mrs. H. M. McGuire, registrar; Mrs. J. E. Dupuy Jr., historian; Mrs. Lester Corley, librarian; Mrs. Robert E. Harrell, curator and Mrs. Kate Stewart, parliamentarian.

Miss Katie McGee was elected to serve as delegate for the state conference to be held in Monroe March 2, 3 and 4. Alternates will be Mrs. D. C. Golson, Mrs. James L. McGuire, Mrs. Donald Cannon and Mrs. J. Metris Bell. Mrs. Golson was elected delegate to the 74th Continental Congress in Washington D.C. and alternates for the regent will be Mrs. H. C. Mize, Mrs. Donald Cannon and Miss Katie McGee. The regent, Mrs. McGuire is expected to attend both the state conference and the Continental Congress.

Mrs. Landreaux reported the chapter sent 29 boxes containing 815 pounds of clothing to state DAR schools. Mrs. Cannon, junior membership, announced she was collecting items for the Junior Bazaar for both state and national conferences.

The annual George Washington birthday luncheon will be held February 13 at the Paragon club at 12:30 p.m. with Taylor O'Hearn, state legislator and attorney from Shreveport, as guest speaker. Reservations should be made with Mrs. J. Metris Bell, 212 Lazarre Avenue, no later than noon Friday, February 12. Plans for the observance of American History month during February were announced by Mrs. James L. McGuire.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses during the social hour to Mrs. Kate Stewart, Mrs. D. C. Golson, Mrs. Ruth Hundley, Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, Mrs. Donald Cannon, Mrs. E. W. Stinson Jr., Mrs. T. H. Spurlock Jr., Mrs. E. G. Davidson, Mrs. DeWitt Smith, Mrs. Carter Cozine, Mrs. H. C. Ervine, Mrs. H. C. Mize, Mrs. Mattie Stewart, Miss Katie McGee, Mrs. C. G. McGuire, Mrs. Francis Ortis and Mrs. James L. McGuire and special guests, Mrs. Solon King, Miss Sharon Harrelson, Miss Norman Jean Slocum and Miss Patsy Riser.

De Nova Club Welcomes Two New Members

Mrs. James N. Riddle, president of De Nova Club welcomed two new members into the group at its January meeting held Saturday at the Paragon Club.

New members are Mrs. L. N. Waddell and Mrs. Z. J. Byrd.

Mrs. Max H. Kulcke was hostess for the luncheon preceding the business session. An appropriate early spring centerpiece was arranged by Mrs. Kulcke for the luncheon table.

Miss Hermione Driskell read a paper on "Morals at Stake on Our News Stands," from the General Federation Clubwoman magazine. A panel discussion followed on what we can expect of the new congress. Those taking part were Mrs. Sue R. Bradley, Mrs. Larry Loftin, Mrs. Waddell and Mrs. Byrd.

Delegates elected to the 5th district convention scheduled for February 27 in Baskin are Mrs. James N. Riddle, Mrs. Max Kulcke Mrs. Alfred K. Christensen.

The February meeting of De Nova club will be held at Highland Park Country Club with Miss Driskell, hostess. The program will feature a talk by Mrs. Alfred K. Christensen.

The February meeting of De Nova club will be held at Highland Park Country Club with Miss Driskell, hostess. The program will feature a talk by Mrs. Jack Taylor on Shakespeare.

Pot Plant Care Discussed At Garden Club

Mrs. Ruby Hightower was a guest when the Welcome Garden Club held its January 18 meeting at the Julia Wossman Recreation Center. Mrs. J. W. Golson, president, had charge of the business meeting.

Mrs. M. W. Montgomery, program chairman, introduced Mrs. J. Y. Brooks who discussed care of pot plants. Mrs. Brooks displayed 10 plants of different varieties to show which would grow best in full sunlight and those that grow best in shade. The plants, donated to the club, were awarded as door prizes at conclusion of the program.

Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Robert Cowden, Mrs. Frank Pettit, Mrs. Maude Ball, Mrs. Ed Hislop Jr., Mrs. J. L. Warren and Mrs. Julia Musselwhite.

PANNING

Panning vegetables saves color, flavor and food value. The method requires a pan with a tight fitting lid to keep the steam in.

TITLE TUNE

NEW YORK (AP) — Although "The Family Way" is a straight play, a title tune has been written for it by Eddy Manson and Al Stillman.

The comedy is a first Broadway exhibit for Ben Starr, a TV writer, and stars Jack Kelly and Collin Wilcox.

DIAMOND CARE

Bathe diamonds with lukewarm water and ammonia, then scrub with an old toothbrush.

SAW SQUASH

Use a hack-saw or meat-saw, instead of a knife, when cutting hard-shelled squash.

COTTON FISHNET, alone or over opaque cotton, has shared enormous interest on the resort scene. Crazy Horse likes black fishnet over white cotton knit. Shapes it into a T-shirt mated to hip-riding, bell-bottom pants of white cotton pique; then uses it for the long tank top of an A-line dress that's skirted in white cotton twill.

Compliments Are Easy Catch In Cotton Fishnet

Compliments should be an easy catch with all the pretty cotton fishnet on the resort fashion scene, reports the National Cotton Council.

Thanks to the recent hoopla over the "barely there, back - to - nature" look in swimwear our spirited designers have discovered that cotton fishnet is a wonderful way to bring a shade of mystery to south - going sportswear.

They've used it with gay abandon for naughty peekaboo beach wraps — sheer delights that coyly veil the brief cotton suits beneath. And, in a more modest vein, they've extended fishnet's potential by placing it over opaque cotton for your off - the - beach life.

Going straight to the point (in this case, you) is a beachwear group of unlined white cotton fishnet. It includes such lively "see- throughs" as a ruffled coat, a shift, and a trim jumpsuit.

For those who blush easily, there are "covered - up" fishnet fashions that are all youthful snap and bounce. One designer likes the shadow play of black fishnet over white cotton knit. This duet shapes the tank top of a white cotton A - line dress, and a T - shirt meant to be worn with bell - bottom pants of white cotton pique.

Paris Press Ban May Be Break For Americans

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

The last word hasn't been said yet on that ban set by a large part of the Paris couture on the press. Before the January openings, Paris may relent on its decision to permit the press in only a month after buyers have seen the showings.

But if it stands, many important American papers and magazines may be without Paris news. Papers say that news a month late is news no more, while magazines can't hold up schedules that long. Result may well be a big break for American designers.

Although American fashion gets plenty of exposure, it has often not had the glamorous build-up that Paris gets. Editors were willing to give fashion editors more space on Paris than on New York or California. American women in the mass know American designers' names far less well than they do Paris names.

Is there an American couture? Yes, in the sense that we have designers just as original as those of Paris. Norell, Galanos, Tassell, Stavropoulos, Mainbocher, Gernreich, Trigere, Beene and Moore are names that instantly come to mind. These and others may well benefit from the Paris ban, get the same press treatment country-wide as they now do from New York papers.

Simple Tricks Dress Up Decor

Is your bathroom a little dull? Have you ever stood at the door, viewed the room, and wondered how its appearance could be improved?

Here are a few relatively simple ideas to add a little life to your bath or powder room, suggested by Cannon Homemaking Service. Start by redecorating with a new towel ensemble in a brilliant design of dazzling colors. Combine this with harmonizing solid color towels. Then choose a few terry guest towels in sharp accent colors. You might place them in an interesting bowl or on a tray. Add some growing plants, ivy or philodendron (fakes will do), to bring a touch of outdoors to your bathroom. You'll be amazed at the bright transformation, so easy on the budget.

It's a good idea to check your guest conveniences. Are your fingertip guest towels near the basin conveniently? Is the bathroom light adequate for guest retouch of make-up? All these simple improvements will help to improve your room, and get top rating for you as a host or hostess.

Look For In Fashion

. . .border and tunic dresses coming up strong, often in white crepe with navy, or pale beige with black, now often belted.

. . .ostrich and more ostrich in hats for cocktails, as boas around the neck of dressy suits, as big hats, small pillboxes.

. . .the new spring yellows, now goldenrod deep, in ribbed wool suits for day, brocade cocktail dresses and cloque evening gowns.

. . .scarf hats for spring, soft and silky, in white or bright colors, draped on frames, or done as berets, often embroidered.

Space Age Inspires Gay New Fashion Collection

For the woman who goes places and does things, anywhere and everywhere, the look for spring is sleek, chic and purposeful. To take its wearer from Main Street, U.S.A., to a boulevard in Paris, is the R & K Originals "Space Age Collection" - a product of America's genius.

The look is refined with clean, tailored lines. Bodices are soft, either blouson or bowed. The finishing touches include relaxed overblouses and shirtmaker collars.

Suits feature the new longer jacket, the natural great looks of the shorter jacket with pocket and button details, the together look in a three piece suit, a fantastic fashion card.

Dresses alone or with a companion, with slim and pleated skirts. Necklines are rounded, gently scooped, collared. Sleeves are bare, short and elbowed.

In skirts the big news is A-line, pleats galore in front knee pleats, inverted hip pleats, box pleats, knifed pleats as well as skimmers.

New color tones are delectable in green, coral, marigold and fucshia, and of course the perennial navy, black and brown. The soft glow of color is in a blossom white.

Fabrics are flat, smooth and ever - so - light in weight arnel linen and jerseys, crisp seersuckers, bold plaids, abstracts, herringbone and novelty tweeds, rich barbacane, chavoni in solid and popcorn patterns. And for evening the ever elegant rayon bouclette and crepes.

Sun-Streaked Colors Inspire New Fashions

The world grows smaller and smaller, the fashion whirl goes faster and faster. Now the glamorous pathfinders are going to India where the mystery, sun-streaked colors and gold-sprinkled richness provide another dazzling source of fashion inspiration.

To be a timely "Indian Beauty" you must have a sleeveless, flowing "skimp-dress" (a wardrobe must for '65). Many styles have been inspired by the casually-draped elegance of the sari. "In" colors are the dazzling whites, lush greens (destined to be the biggest color of the year) and sunburnt oranges which look best in heavy crepes, filmy chiffons and neat-patterned silks.

Make-up should feature the current natural look accented by lush brown highlights. Final touches to the outfit should include a sleek turban and possibly an exotic piece of Indian jewelry.

BITTER COMMENTARY

LONDON (AP) —"Entertaining Mr. Sloane," a play described as a British companion for "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" in acerbic commentary on contemporary morality, has been optioned for Broadway presentation, probably next season.

The drama by Joe Orton was named London's best exhibit of the 1963-'64 season by drama critics.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Nutty Relatives Can Sicken Well Person

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am about to marry into a family of pill-takers and heavy drinkers. Charley's mother is a neurotic who goes for tranquilizing pills as if they were lemon drops. The minute she is faced with an unpleasant situation she stops eating and dopes herself up. She's not responsible for what she says when she's on pills so everyone must overlook her mean tongue.

Her daughter does the same thing and she is only 20. Her two older sons are confirmed alcoholics who take pills right along with the booze.

Charley is the only one in the family who is normal. He doesn't drink at all and I have to fight to get an aspirin down him when he has a headache.

I've discussed this problem with my doctor and he says such behavior is more environmental than hereditary — "usually" — which leaves me with questions in my mind.

Do you feel Charley and I could raise normal children despite his nutty background? I need your help — OUT-DOPED

Dear Out: A person who marries into an unstable family always runs a risk since we do inherit our nervous systems.

You don't say how old Charlie is but he seems to have done immeasurably better than the other members of his family. If you marry him I hope you will move to another city, as added insurance. Sometimes nutty relatives can make a well person sick.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 55. My husband is 57. We've been married 10 years. This is a second marriage for both of us. I was a widow. Clancy divorced his wife because he found out she was a tramp.

Our marriage was wonderful until last year — when Clancy's former wife rediscovered him.

When Clancy was married to her he never had a home-cooked meal. The house was a mess, there were no clean sheets and no groceries (so he couldn't even fix his own meals). He carried his laundry and dry cleaning to the corner. She was such a cold proposition he nicknamed her "Ice Cube."

For the past three weekends Clancy has taken her up north and I have sat home. She leaves gloves, scarves and earrings around so I will be sure to know she has been in the car.

I'm sick of this and have told him so. He says if I don't like it I can leave. This is my house, Ann. What shall I do? — V. C.

Dear V. C.: The ice cube has melted and spring is here. When ex-mates rediscover each other the flame can get pretty high.

Tell Clancy he can move out and now, but insist that he send those support checks in the mail. Chances are he'll suddenly remember why he divorced the doll.

Dear Ann Landers: We are five high school girls with a very serious problem. Last year there were five big dances but not one of us got asked to any of them, so we went stag. A whole string of fellows showed up, also stagging it.

They just stood around, holding up the walls, looking everybody over but not one of them asked a girl to dance. We had to dance with each other, which I hate.

Why do fellows come to a dance if they don't want to dance? How can we break the sound barrier and get these guys to shake a leg? Help! Help! — SENIORS NOW

Dear Seniors: One reason boys don't ask girls to dance is because they don't know how to dance.

What your school needs is dancing instructions for both boys and girls. Ask your principal or dean if you can organize dance classes after school or on Friday evenings. Make posters and promote it big. Generate some excitement. When the fellows can shake their legs with some confidence they'll do less standing around.

Parents are people — they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their view point and to promote harmony at home, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cent in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Food Colloquialisms Stem From Bible, Shakespeare

NEW YORK (UPI) — Our language is strictly from hunger.

To prove the point, let's explore some of our more colorful food colloquialisms and their origins. Unless, of course, you have other fish to fry.

Shakespeare, the Bible and proverbs are the sources for many phrases described by Bergen and Cornelia Evans in "A Dictionary of Contemporary American Usage."

In Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra," the queen of the Nile speaks of love in her "salad days" when she was "green in judgment," hence our use of "salad days" to denote inexperienced youth.

We are indebted to Shakespeare's Pistol, in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," for the metaphor, "the world's mine oyster," to describe the feeling of ebullience that accompanies good fortune.

From the Bible come:

—"Salt of the earth," describing the good, kind, generous and modest folk who give life its savor.

—"Apple of the eye" and "apple of his eye," from the Psalms and Deuteronomy, denoting something or someone especially precious or dear.

"A land flowing with milk and honey," originally a poetic description of Palestine's natural richness, now a reference to any fruitful and wealthy land.

Fish have figured in numerous cliches.

"Other fish to fry," meaning something better to do, is attributed to two sources — a translation of a line from the French author, Rabelais, and a proverb in 17th century England.

"Pretty kettle of fish," an embarrassing or irritating situation, has been traced to the practice at some parties in 18th century England of serving salmon that had been thrown live into kettles of boiling water to cook.

"Neither fish, flesh, nor good red herring," is also a proverb still used today to describe something of uncertain origin.

"Out of the frying-pan into the fire," applied to increasing misfortune, is also of fishy origin. The Evanses describe this phrase as "one of the oldest and most widespread of proverbs.

"Make no bones about," as a term for raising no objections, or being unscrupulous, has been in use for four or five centuries, the dictionary says.

Legislators and other freeloaders who accept "junkets" can trace the origin of the word itself to an Italian custom of serving a sweet, custard - like dessert of milk and rennet on guinco, a rush.

But rushes really linked with picnics and similarly festive occasions when they began to be used as ground coverings at the events.

IN NEW ROLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Abe Einhorn, a stage property - man whose hobby is writing plays, is moving into the professional authorship ranks with "Thursday Is a Good Night."

The play, about a bookmaker on his night off, has been bought by Emmett Rogers, who is eying Tom Ewell and Sheree North for main roles. Right now Einhorn is a backstage technician for 'What Makes Sammy Run?"

'Pay Silence' Newest Juke Box Innovation

ROME (UPI) — Relief is on the way for the human who is weary of listening to the incessant clatter of rock 'n' roll, jazz and beat music that reverberates from thousands of juke boxes in cafes, restaurants and bars.

The Italian juke - box industry currently is experimenting on a new machine which, in addition to a slot for the coins that set the contraption going, will possess an additional slot marked "silence." The insertion of a coin here will keep the machine quiet for a certain number of minutes.

Man has always paid for his amusements more willingly perhaps than for his necessities. But he had to wait until the 20th century to encounter a proposal that he pay not to be amused.

There are almost 20,000 juke boxes of various types — including cine-boxes offering the added horror of watching the performer on film — in operation in public places throughout Italy.

But Italy still is a long way from the 45,000 similar instruments of torture that constantly hammer away at the ear drums of West Germans and the 33,000 in tiny Belgium.

Market research analysts have not convinced the juke box industry's leaders that the racket made by their products has grated on the raw nerves of enough listeners to make it worth while to offer them silence — at a price.

While teen-agers stuff juke boxes with coins to listen to the Beatles, Rolling Stones and other 'beat stars' make noise, other customers may be willing to insert coins into the noise-makers to get a few minutes of welcome silence.

It seems that the only winners will be the men of the juke box industry. After all, it is not every industry which can offer a product where the customer is willing to pay to listen to it—and also pay not to hear it.

This could lead to a dangerous precedent, however.

Match Wall Color To Curtains

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: Our Early American living room now has pale green walls and a chair covered in beige tweed with flecks of red. Curtains are cream, about the shade of unbleached muslin. These I must keep. What color for rug, sofa and another chair?

A: Walls would be better painted the color the curtains. A braided rug in shades of beige and cream would be appropriate. Sofa could be in a beige and cream check and the third chair in apple green. Pick up green for toss pillows and accessories, also some ruby red.

Q: Since I live in a warm climate, I tend to like a summery, tropical look in decorating. Basis for color scheme in living room is a new sofa covered in a beige ground print with light turquoise and deep green. What color for walls, chairs, accent? I like such things as shutters, rattan, wicker, straw, fruits and plants.

A: Cover walls in beige or sand color and have carpet in same color but deeper. Also, have beige double shutters at windows with pale turquoise half curtains. Have a green plant arrangement concentrated in one area for emphasis. Paint a large wicker tray in turquoise. Keep this on floor for magazines and newspapers. Could have some beige wicker furniture with pale turquoise seats. Chairs could be deep green. Ash trays could be shell shaped.

The Lord is my rock and my fortress.

There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities...

Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, FA 3-3660, FA 3-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.

Annual Series On Missions Opens Today

The annual School of Missions conducted on four consecutive Sunday evenings at the First Methodist Church of Monroe, will open today, it was announced by the Rev. George W. Harbuck, pastor.

The study will be on "Our Spanish Speaking Neighbors." Officials pointed out that there are many Spanish speaking people ministered to by Methodist Churches, with much of this membership being found in the Rio Grande area of southwest Texas and New Mexico, as well as in western conferences.

SUPPER

The fellowship will begin with supper served at 5:15 p.m. in Fellowship Hall and the youth departments. There will be a period of entertainment before the different age groups start an hour of study, viewing film strips, listening to guest speakers, participating in panel discussions, and conducting projects in handcrafts and dramatics.

SPONSOR

The church - wide study is sponsored by the Commission on Missions of which Vernon Mears is chairman. Assisting is the Commission on Education of which Mrs. G. E. Boggs is chairman. Men and women of the church will serve the suppers, act as hostesses, masters of ceremony, and direct the schedule.

In addition to today, sessions of the School of Missions will be held on the Sundays of Jan. 31, Feb. 7 and Feb. 14, following the same time schedule.

During the weekly series, more than 500 persons are expected to attend, including every age group. Nurseries will be open to care for younger children and infants.

Bible Stand Is Clear On Aiding Others

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

"Charity begins at home" is one of the most often - quoted sentences in the English language.

It springs readily to the lips of any man or woman who is looking for an excuse for not making a charitable contribution.

The pious tone in which it is usually spoken reflects a widespread belief that it is a passage from the Bible. This is a libel on the Bible.

It was a 17th century British theologian who introduced this famous sentence into literature. His name was Sir Thomas Browne, and he had no intention of providing an excuse for self-centeredness. Quite the opposite: He spoke scornfully of "that worldly principle, 'charity begins at home.'"

A century later, the playwright Richard Brinsley Sheridan included in his "School for Scandal" a stingy character of whom it was said, "There is no sentiment he has such faith in as that charity begins at home."

NOT IN BIBLE

The word "charity"—in the modern meaning of giving help to the poor—actually does not appear anywhere in the Bible. The King James Version contains many references to "charity" but in every one of them, the word is used as a translation of the Greek "agape," which is more accurately rendered in modern translations as "love."

The kind of generosity toward the unfortunate which we now call "charity" was known in Biblical times as "alms-giving" or in some instances simply as "hospitality."

CLEAR, FORTHRIGHT

The Bible's stand on helping the poor is clear, forthright and consistent.

"If there is among you a poor man," Moses told the children of Israel, "you shall not harden your heart or shut your hand against your poor brother, but you shall open your hand to him . . ."

IN WEST MONROE

State Evangelism Meet This Week

DR. J. SIDLOW BAXTER

The First Baptist Church of West Monroe will host the annual meeting of the Louisiana Baptist Evangelistic Conference Monday through Wednesday.

Using the theme, "Witness and Worship", sessions will begin Monday at 6:45 p.m., Tuesday at 8:45 a.m., 1:30 and 6:45 p.m., and Wednesday at 8:45 a.m. Music will be directed by Al and Ivy Walsh, husband-wife team from Decatur, Georgia.

SCOTTISH THEOLOGIAN

Dr. J. Sidlow Baxter, the internationally known Scottish theologian, will speak three times during the conference.

Among the program personalities will be Dr. Clifton Tennison, host pastor; Dr. John F. Havlik, who recently resigned as evangelism secretary for the state Baptist convention to accept a position with the division of evangelism of the Southern Baptist Convention's Home Mission Board; Dr. V. L. Stanfield, New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary professor; Dr. G. Earl Guinn, president of Louisiana College, Pineville; Dr. Ramsey Pollard, Memphis, Tenn. pastor and former president of the Southern Baptist Convention; Dr. Leonard Sanderson, Arlington, Texas evangelist; Dr. R. Houston Smith, Pineville pastor; Dr. Scott Tatum, Shreveport pastor and president of the Louisiana Baptist Convention; and Dr. John Bob Riddle, Birmingham, Alabama pastor.

DR. PALMER SPEAKER

Dr. J. Norris Palmer, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Baton Rouge, who will direct the simultaneous pastor - led revivals in Louisiana churches later this year, will speak Tuesday night.

Sermons are scheduled Tuesday night and Wednesday morning by Dr. C. E. Autrey, former pastor of the West Monroe First Baptist Church who is secretary of the division of evangelism for Southern Baptists.

The conference will be attended by hundreds of Baptists from throughout the state. Wade B. East, superintendent of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe, said that he hopes many of them will visit the child care agency while they are in the Twin Cities.

Changes Set In Services And Building

Changes in both the interior of the building and time of services have been announced for St. Thomas Episcopal Church, 1308 Filhiol Ave., Monroe.

The announcements, along with other items of business, were made at the 10th annual congregational meeting, held recently in the parish hall. The business meeting was preceded by a family-night pot-luck supper.

The Rev. Fr. Richard Wilson, vicar, told the group the altar in the near future will be relocated to allow for the celebration of the Holy Eucharist "facing the people," as was the custom in the first several centuries of the church.

NEW SCHEDULE

Beginning Sunday, Jan. 31, the vicar told the group, the early service of the Eucharist will be held at 8 a.m. instead of the present 7:30 a.m. time.

Elected to the mission council for three-year terms were Gerald Page, Dr. Harry Olmsted, and Robert Dixon, Jr. They replace Neil Covington, who served as warden during 1964, Sam Donald, and Edward Schutz.

PRESENTLY SERVING

Presently serving on the council are C. E. McGee, warden for 1965, Dr. Frank Turner, O. N. McNeil, Louis Phelps Jr., Hugh Smith, and Edward Hayward, Jr.

Annual reports were made by Mr. Covington, retiring warden; the treasurer, McNeil; Mrs. Audrey Phelps, president of the St. Thomas Women; and the Rev. Fr. Wilson.

The Rev. Wilson also said the Rev. Robert Ratelle, first vicar for St. Thomas, will conduct a preaching mission from Monday, March 29, through Thursday, April 1.

Monroe Pastor To Participate In Board Session

The Rev. T. Earl Ogg, pastor of College Place Baptist Church here, is scheduled to attend a semi-annual session of the Baptist Sunday School Board in Nashville, Tenn., Tuesday.

The Board consists of 58 pastors and laymen from 26 states elected to serve a three year term. Rev. Ogg is a member of the Board's plans and policies committee, one of eight committees which will meet Monday and Tuesday preceding the full Board meeting.

Chairman of the Board's 18-member executive committee is Theodore C. Chitwood, an Internal Revenue Service employe in Nashville. The Rev. Vern Powers, pastor of Glendale Baptist Church, Nashville, is recording secretary.

The executive committee, composed of members from the Nashville area, meets monthly.

MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: I hear you talk on the radio about restricted sex. I believe in the Playboy philosophy — that God made sex to enjoy, and he made men to be free. I believe that prudish people who say that something God created is dirty are to blame for the guilt that people carry.

I.S.

ANSWER: First of all, I appreciate your frankness. But you are not the first frank person to be wrong. The Playboy boasts of sex freedom. But you are smart enough to know that there is no freedom without a corresponding responsibility.

There is a Jewish legend about a leaf on a tree that wanted to be free — free to fly like a bird. He wiggled free from the branch he was attached to and went floating through the air. "I'm free, I'm free, he called to the other leaves." The next day when the sun came out he began to lose his color, and soon the life was oozing out of the leaf. He called to the other leaves; "Don't do as I have done. This is not freedom; it is death."

Life has many liberties but we are not free to do as we please. Ask the young man who took improper liberties with a girl, got her pregnant. He now has a wife he didn't want, and a child he didn't want, and a bad reputation besides. He is paying dearly for the liberty he sought and found.

Charlie Sutton Called To Serve Cypress Church

The Cypress Baptist Church has called Charlie Sutton of Monroe to serve as pastor, it was announced by the Rev. Wayne Gentry, interim pastor for the past six months.

The new pastor, who is married, and has a 10-year-old son, will be ordained January 31 by the Southside Baptist Church of Monroe.

Rev. Gentry now will be devoting his full time to the Open Door Home for Homeless Children, Route 3, West Monroe, of which he is president, he said. He will be available to speak in churches of all denominations to explain the work of the Open Door Home, a rescue mission for children and their mothers.

Nazarenes' Conference Site Changed

The annual Louisiana District Nazarene Preachers' Conference, originally planned for Monday through Wednesday at the First Church of the Nazarene in West Monroe, North 4th and Stella streets, has been rescheduled for that same period at the First Church of the Nazarene in Shreveport.

The Rev. Everette A. Johnson, pastor of the First Church in West Monroe said the conference site was changed because of work on streets in the vicinity of the church which has greatly restricted access and parking areas there.

PROGRAM

The conference which will be attended by Nazarene pastors and their wives will open 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Shreveport church. The schedule for Tuesday will be from 9 a.m. until noon, with activities resuming at 2 p.m. and continuing until 4 p.m. and recessing until services at 7:30 p.m. On Wednesday the program will run from 9 a.m. until noon.

Officials said that nearly all of the 54 Nazarene churches in the state will be represented at the conference. Guest speakers will be Dr. Hardy C. Powers, Dallas, Texas, general superintendent, and the Rev. Alpin B. Bowes, Kansas City, Mo., assistant in the office of home missions at international headquarters of the denomination.

The Rev. T. T. McCord of Pineville, district superintendent, will be in charge of the program.

Air Chaplain In Training For Insight

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)—Riding a hurtling test sled and learning a new system of breathing at high altitudes are not among the usual activities of a minister, even an Air Force chaplain.

For Capt. Allen A. Kolmer of Waterloo, Ill., however, these rigors are part of his self-imposed training to understand the work and problems of his flock at Holloman Air Force Base near here.

The chaplain, 31, has undergone stresses of 16 to 20 times the force of gravity on his shoulders and spine. He has learned breathing used in high-altitude flights of up to 43,000 feet.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Kolmer, a member of the United Church of Christ, has taken two rides on test tracks, known as declerators, and undergone three days of tests in high-altitude chambers at Cannon Air Force Base, Clovis, N.M.

The decelerators, or space sleds, are catapulted along two oiled rails until a braking device brings the sled to a quick halt. This abrupt stop imposes massive gravity forces on the body of the rider.

The tests are used to determine levels of human tolerance under varied forces.

The chaplain, based here since July 1963, said the jolt of stopping gave an impression of being no harder than a hard football tackle he used to receive while attending Elmhurst College, Elmhurst, Ill.

Kolmer followed his sled rides by going to Cannon to learn pressure breathing in high-altitude conditions and qualifying to be a passenger in any jet aircraft, particularly in the Tactical Air Command's F4C supersonic plane, soon to arrive at Holloman.

NEED TO KNOW

"I'll probably be working with pilots if I go overseas and I need to know what goes on and the different things they encounter," the chaplain said. "It's part of my job as well as talking to people here."

Kolmer acts as chaplain for personnel at Holloman's north area, a complex of buildings making up the 6571st Aeromedical Research Laboratory and the guidance and control directorate.

The captain hopes his first-hand knowledge of the jobs many of the men perform will help him in his assignment.

Kolmer said he entered service because he felt there "was a terrible need for service people to have chaplains." He hopes to make the Air Force a career.

IMPRESSION

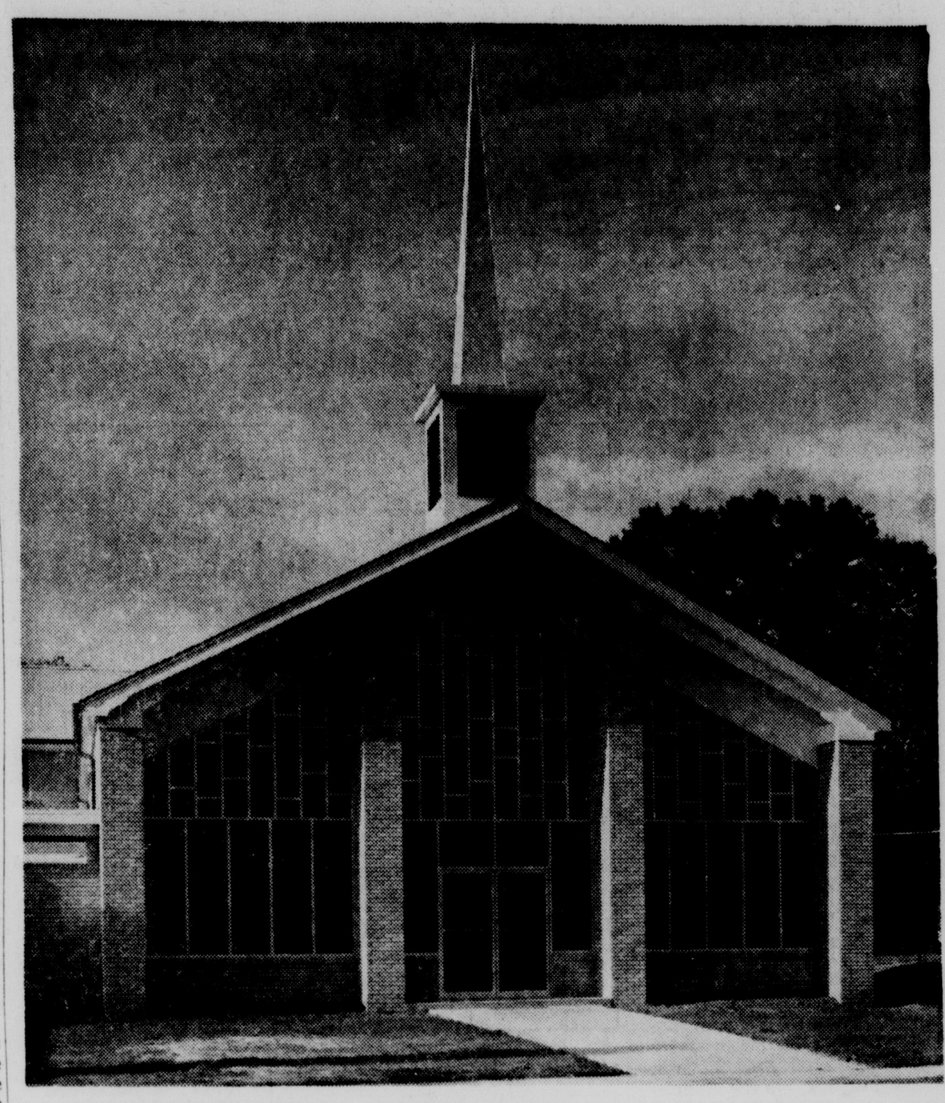
"I felt the churches were not carrying their end of this deal," he said. "A man enters service and the church forgets him and he loses his relationship with the church."

When not riding space sleds, the chaplain holds services, visits patients in the base hospital, counsels persons requesting it, and leads youth activities on base.

Kolmer, married and the father of three sons, attended Elmhurst College but was graduated from McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill. and Eden Theological Seminary, Webster Groves, Mo.

EMMANUEL BAPTIST, MONROE

Modern Church Plant Stands Where Brush Arbor Tabernacle Once Used



Emmanuel Baptist Church, North 5th and Breard streets, Monroe.

On a rainy afternoon in 1942 two men met and prayed on a weed covered lot at the corner of North 5th and Breard streets in Monroe, where they said they felt the Lord wanted them to form a church.

A church was formed there, housed in a brush arbor tabernacle, and later in more permanent facilities, where it has prospered and grown. Started with a $50 borrowed down payment on a lot, the church first was known as the Northside Baptist Church, and now as Emmanuel Baptist Church, with property and facilities valued at a quarter of a million dollars.

The two men who prayed for the successful formation of the church were the Rev. N. T. Smith, who served as first pastor, and now is in retirement in Monroe, and the late Ryan Henderson, who borrowed money for down payment on the lot.

PROGRESS TRACED

The Rev. Fred Doolittle, pastor of Emmanuel for the past nine years, provided information tracing the progress of the church. It was officially organized June 14, 1942, after having been carried on as a mission type project.

It was housed in a brush arbor type tabernacle with sawdust floor, canvas sides, and brush over the roof.

At the organizational meeting, Mrs. Ryan Henderson made the motion to organize, which was seconded by her daughter, and the new church was on its way. The Rev. H. L. Driskell, then an army chaplain, preached the sermon for that occasion, and that night a revival series was started.

The church charter roll was held open for 30 days at the end of which 29 members were listed on it. The reason for the original name, Northside Baptist, was that it was the only Baptist Church on the north side of DeSiard St. in Monroe at that time, said Rev. Doolittle.

TO NEW FACILITIES

The last service in the old tabernacle was held April 18, 1943. Another service was held on the same day in the new auditorium with 200 persons present. The original frame building was used as an auditorium until 1945, when it was moved to the second of the church's two adjoining lots, and another frame auditorium was constructed. The latter building was remodeled in 1951.

In September, 1948 the congregation voted to change the name of the church from Northside Baptist to Emmanuel Baptist, but the charter making the change effective was not received from the secretary of state until November, 1950, said Rev. Doolittle.

In 1944 the church bought a hotel in Eros, dismantled it, hauled the materials to Monroe and rebuilt it as a two-story educational building behind the auditorium. Then in 1950 the church bought the old Logan house located on adjoining property and moved it onto church property for use as a parsonage. It served this purpose until December, 1959 when it was turned into an educational building. A new parsonage at 2203 Fannie St. in Westwood Addition, Monroe, was purchased. The old house was used as a nursery until June, 1961, when it was sold and torn down.

The original brick educational building was constructed in 1958, and another educational building was constructed in 1961.

A remodeling and rebuilding program in 1964 included a two-story educational building and the auditorium, which were converted from frame to brick. The entire plant is centrally air conditioned and heated.

MEMBERSHIP

The present auditorium can seat a little more than 300 persons, said Rev. Doolittle, and educational facilities have space for 450 in Sunday school, plus one activity area used for parties, games, banquets and fellowship. This includes a kitchen.

The church's schedule of services and other activities includes the following: On Sunday, 9:45 a.m., Sunday school; 11 a.m., worship; 6 p.m., Training Union; 7 p.m., evening worship. Wednesday, 7:15 p.m., Family Night, where there is a mission organization for every age group from beginner to adults; 8 p.m., mid-week prayer services; 8:30 p.m., choir rehearsal. A nursery with two paid workers is open during all activities at the church, the pastor said.

While Emmanuel is a downtown church, it draws from an extensive area and has many young people in its membership.

Said Rev. Doolittle, "Our membership is strung out all over from Stubbs Plantation east on Highway 80 to out west of West Monroe, and from North Monroe Subdivision to south on Winnsboro Road . . . At present we have a membership of 600."

Howard Jackson is music director; Mrs. Marie Moncrief, organist; Mrs. Helen Kidd, pianist; Charles Dean, Sunday school superintendent, Carl McBeth, Training Union director; Huey Jinks, chairman of deacons.

Rev. Doolittle is 47, married, has two daughters and a son. The oldest daughter is Mrs. Karen McGee of Monroe. The other daughter, Judy, will be married Jan. 28. The son, John, 9, is a student in Ouachita Elementary School.

Rev. and Mrs. Doolittle are natives of Minnesota where he worked for a time in the jewelry business. The Doolittles moved to Houston, Texas, in 1939.

"I surrendered to preach after World War Two," said Rev. Doolittle. "I served 32 months as a bombadier navigator, and once was stationed at Selman Field."

He was injured in an accident and did not see combat. He studied at the University of Corpus Christi (Texas), receiving a BA degree. He also studied at Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, Iowa; Baker University, Baldwin City, Kans., and Central Seminary, Kansas City, Kans. He pastored in Texas, Kansas, and Missouri, as well as in Louisiana, after entering the ministry in 1946. He came to the present pastorate Feb. 1, 1956 from Santa Rosa Baptist Church, Kansas City, Kans.

The pastor is currently president of the Monroe Ministerial Alliance, and formerly was president and chaplain of the Monroe Civitan Club. For the past two years he has been secretary of the Baptist Student Union Corporation at Northeast State College here.

Emmanuel Church has come a long way from the brush arbor tabernacle to the present beautiful, modern sanctuary with the fiber glass steeple, and the array of other facilities which comprise the overall plant.

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE LOST!

The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which was lost. — Luke 19:10

Several years ago I had the experience of being lost. It was during World War II when we got off course in our airplane and we were lost over territory that we knew nothing about. How grateful we were when we finally saw a landmark that gave us the hope of returning to our base and friends.

Many people in the world today are still lost. God has placed the landmarks for them, but they have not opened their spiritual eyes enough to see them and locate themselves in the world of sin and return to their Heavenly Father. Nearly two thousand years have passed since God put Jesus, his son, into the world to be the landmark for men to use to find their way back to God's grace.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO BE LOST?

It is sad to lose your property. During the depression days many people lost their entire life savings. The banks closed and along with them hope for security in old age and present opportunity was lost. Some have lost their life savings in a siege of poor health. Money and health are seldom regained. Some have lost their closest loved ones and their heart breaks in their hour of sorrow. These are calamities that are real to men in every day life. However, the greatest loss to be suffered by man is the loss of his soul. This involves both the present and the future. No greater loss has ever been known to man.

HOW DOES A PERSON LOSE HIS SOUL?

The question is one on the lips of many people. The Psalmist wrote that we were conceived in sin and shapened in iniquity. The Apostle Paul said we are lost in the practice of sin, "The wages of sin are death." Some have said that one must be a drunkard, gambler, liar, murderer, or some other type of vile person to be lost, but the Bible says that the one sin that condemns a man's soul is unbelief. We know that Jesus forgave the thief on the cross, we know that He forgave the sin of adultery and many others as they are mentioned in the Bible, but there is not one place in the whole of the Bible that says Jesus ever could or would forgive the one who would not believe. "He that believeth is not condemned, but he that believeth not is condemned already." "He that believeth hath eternal life, but he that believeth not shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him."

No person has ever sunk so low that he cannot be saved by Christ, but neither has anyone ever had a second chance after death. The Scripture says, "Now is the accepted time" and "There is a great gulf fixed" and God cannot go to the relief of the soul in Hell through unbelief.

WHEN DOES A PERSON BECOME LOST?

Contrary to some modern ideas, a person does not have to die to become lost. In life, as an unbeliever, we are lost to God and the church. Our lives are lost because they are not used in service for God. We are lost in death. When a person dies without Christ they die without hope. Many trade "the pleasures of sin for a season" for an eternity with God. We are lost in the judgment that God shall have for the whole world. "It is appointed unto every man once to die, and after that the judgment." Would it not be a terrible experience to be in hell and hear an echo in our ears that said, "You are lost because you would not believe." Righteous living does not give men faith, but faith gives men righteous living and a belief in God that will save their souls for eternity.

IS THERE A WAY OUT? IS ALL FUTILE?

The great hope of man is the promise of God. "Whosoever believeth in My Son shall not perish, but have everlasting life." God sent His Son; He lived in the world, but not of the world. He gave himself a ransom for the sins of man; He paid the price of a sacrifice; he was victorious over sin, death, and the grave.

We do not have to turn to a form, ritual, or ceremony. We do not have to look to the church or an ordinance. We do not have to look to a dead body or an empty tomb. We must look to the true and living God and His Son, Jesus Christ. "For there is no other name under Heaven whereby we must be saved." The church and pastor are God's instruments to be used for His glory, but Jesus is the way to a more abundant life.

News Briefs In Religion

ETHICS CALLED EXCITING

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The "ethical life is an extremely exciting life," famed theologian Paul Tillich told a University of Michigan audience. Said he:

"The moral life is not a life of dull obedience to moral law. It is participation in the creative life, with all its risks. . . There is no spiritual security in abstract moral laws. . .This is so because the concrete situation changes and with it the application to the problem."

BUILT CHURCH THEMSELVES

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Talk about bargains, the Trinity Church of the Nazarene in Louisville has a new building valued at $100,000 but it cost only $41,000.

The pastor, the Rev. W. Eudell Milby, acted as general contractor, a line he once pursued before entering the ministry.

It helped, too, because his brother is in the building supply business and could furnish materials at cost. The Rev. William Kelly, a carpenter by trade, was superintendent of construction and members volunteered for most of the work.

The 21-foot, aluminum spire was obtained with trading stamps.

RESEARCH URGED

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the advertising world, the churches must begin a "great new movement of communications research," instead of ridiculing such studies as unworthy of the holy gospel, a Methodist leader says.

The Rev. Dr. Harry C. Spencer of Nashville, a church television - radio executive, told a meeting here that "too frequently psychological research is not related to the proclamation of the gospel. . .Careful research can give us answers to our questions concerning communication."

Revival Planned At Church Here

Featured speaker in a series of revival services opening 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 1 and continuing daily at that time through Sunday, Feb. 7 at the First Southern Methodist Church of Monroe, Eanut Hall 400 Jackson St., will be the Rev. Glenn S. Comfort, pastor of the First Southern Methodist Church of Baton Rouge, and supply pastor of the church in Amite.

A COMBINATION of rough stone, brick and siding gives a warm touch to this three-bedroom ranch home. A breezeway porch between the house and the two-car garage can be used for outdoor dining or just plain relaxing.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Modern Ranch Features Family Room Kitchen

By ANDY LANG

Remember the days when the kitchen was the core of the house — when the family gathered there to eat and to talk and to enjoy life in general?

How would you like to have the kind of kitchen that was large enough and comfortable enough for that kind of living, but in a modern ranch house with gracious styling?

The answer is, "you can." Architect Lester Cohen has designed just such a combination for the House of the Week series. In a three - bedroom, two - bath house, architect Cohen has placed an appropriately-named family room kitchen, 18' by 17', with a full complement of up-to-date appliances, a snack bar divider and an informal area for the family and friends to gather. The entire room can be reached from any part of the house without going through other rooms. It also is immediately accessible from the front foyer — again without crossing other rooms— and has sliding glass rooms—leading to the rear. It's sort of house within a house, with the exception of the sleeping quarters. Because so much time will be spent in this section, the entire home will be easier to keep neat and clean with a minimum of house-keeping.

A full study of this architect - designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK, c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La., and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan H-67.

Next to this focal point are a mud room and a laundry just inside the back door. And connected to them is a bath with two sinks, minimizing tracking and permitting quick clean-ups when the youngsters come in from school or play.

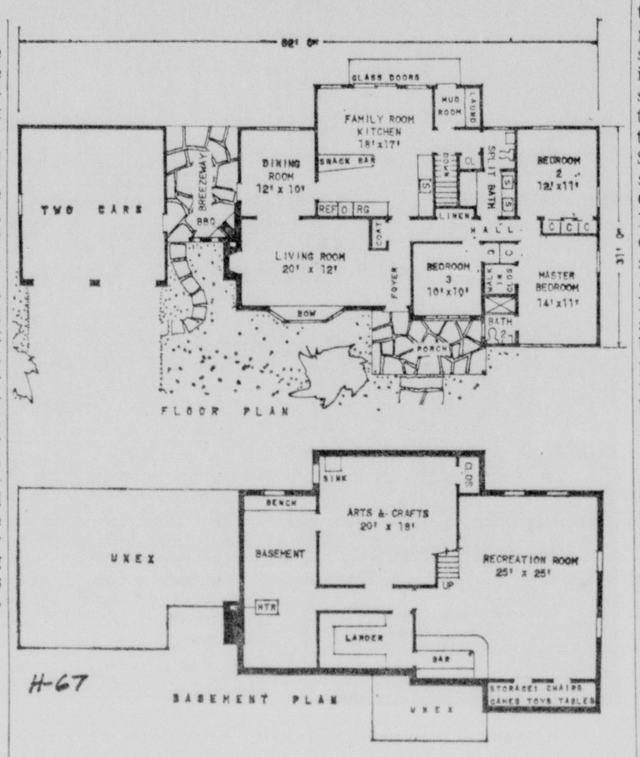
The bedrooms are on one side of the family room kitchen, the living room and dining room on the other. The master bedroom, facing the front, has a private bath. There are two closets, one a walk-in. Double windows at the front and another at the side provide cross ventilation. This room is insulated from the rest of the house by closet walls on two sides. The second bedroom also has cross ventilation, while the third has attractive latticed windows for privacy. If this latter room is not needed for sleeping, it can be used as a study or library.

The living room, 20' long, is directly to the left of the foyer. It has a bow window, with a place for plants and bric-a-brac. A fireplace gives a welcoming air to the room, taking it out of the too-formal category.

Next to the living room is the dining room, with a convenient door to a breezeway porch. The breezeway has a barbecue backed up to the living room fireplace for economy and is protected from the street by a latticed stone grillwork. It would make an ideal place for outdoor dining during nice weather. A door leads from the breezeway to the two-car garage.

In his basement plan, the architect has made provision for a huge recreation room, a second large room for pursuing hobbies, a refreshment bar, a larder, storage space and a place for the heating plant. The specified living area of 1534 square feet does not include this basement area.

Interesting contrasts are obtained on the outside with a combination of rough stone, brick and siding. It's a modern but not stark house, one that will adapt to any neighborhood.



FLOOR PLANS: Design H-67 features an excellent traffic pattern, with direct access to the large family room kitchen from the front and rear.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

Plumbing repairs to boilers, piping, air conditioners and other water - using devices are multiplied in areas where hard water is prevalent. If has been estimated that the water in about 65 per cent of the nation is hard or extremely hard, in 20 per cent moderately hard and in the rest of the country soft or nearly soft.

Just what is hard water and why is it such a troublemaker? Hard water contains a relatively high concentration of dissolved minerals picked up while flowing along the ground or seeping along under it. While a certain amount of mineral content is picked up while water is going through the air, it is small enough so that rain caught in a container is soft.

WOE GROUPS

The minerals that bring so much woe are mostly those in the calcium and magnesium groups. When they combine with the ingredients of soap and similar products, they form a crusty or gooey film. The scale deposited inside your tea kettle is old fashioned limestone formed by the chemicals in hard water.

This type of deposit hits the home owner's pocketbook when it forms in heating system pipelines. At first, it merely cuts down heating efficiency. Later, it can clog a pipe completely and result in a hurried call for a plumber. (Plumbing repairs you can do yourself are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Make Simple Plumbing Repairs," available by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope to Know-How, P. O. Box 954, Jamaica, N. Y. 11431).

ANOTHER VICTIM

Another victim of hard water is the air conditioner, because it contains many feet of small-diameter tubing which can become clogged with scale and decrease the ability of the conditioner to cool adequately.

Modern water - softening devices do a good job of removing most of the chemicals from hard water. Sodium chloride or common salt, placed in the appliance at regular intervals suggested by the manufacturer of the water - softener, is the agent chiefly responsible for what is called the regenerating process. Some manufacturers recommend ice cream salt or a specially prepared water - softener salt. If you purchase a water-softener, it is well to follow the recommended procedures on this matter of adding salt, since some types of salt have a tendency to leave dirt and sediment inside the softener.

What happens when the hard water turns to soft? Mom gets the clothes cleaner, the dishes more sparkling and uses less soap. Pop gets a better shave in the morning — and cuts down his plumbing repair bills.

Tibetan Reports China Amassing Himalaya Force

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A Tibetan monk who fled to Nepal said Saturday the Communist Chinese have massed 30,000 well-equipped soldiers along the Himalayan borders, poised for the "liberation of Asia."

Nagawang Thubdob, 51, of the Tshi Lhunpo Monastery at Shigatse, Tibet said Chinese troops told him:

"We are getting ready to liberate Asia from the clutches of the imperialists and colonialists."

He told a news conference here Peking is circulating documents in Tibet which read:

"India is nothing but a paper tiger. First of all it is our plan to conquer India so we can get all the materials we need for our military to further our Asian plans. Tibet has become useful to us as a military bridgehead and springboard for our attack on India, but Tibet lacks many supplies for our army."

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Start Many Garden Jobs

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

January is the month to start many gardening jobs. The last of January is the time to plant roses, and many are being shipped into the nursery now for your choice of colors and types. Also, a wonderful selection of flowering trees and shrubs are on the market at this time. Shop early for these and plan carefully where they will be placed in the landscape.

Before planting be sure to get beds ready first. Roses and small bedding plants should be planned far ahead of time. February is the best time to put these in the ground. If your ground is ready there are many seeds that can be planted in January such as sweet alyssum, pinks, calendula, candytuft, coreopsis, cornflower, petunia, lobelia, larkspur, phlox, Sweet William, blue salvia, snapdragon, sweet pea, verbena, Queen Anne's Lace, and poppy. Plants that may be placed in open ground in January are sweet alyssum, calendula, candytuft, coreopsis, cornflower, English daisy, hollyhock, pansies, snapdragons, stock, verbena, violets, salvia, phlox, pinks, shasta daisies, delphinium, and many others that can be obtained from the list at the garden center.

BULB SELECTIONS

Don't forget the many bulbs that can be planted now such as ginger lily, amaryllis, anemone, canna, galla, rain lily, crinium, freesia, butterfly lily, daylily, Dutch hyacinth, iris, Louisiana iris, liriope, oxalis and ranunculus. Fertilize the bulbs as they come up with 5-10-5.

The New Year is a good time to attend to that Landscape Design plan. If changes are to be made to meet the family needs or plans have been made to enlarge or reorganize your present plan — now is the time to start. Don't wait until the hot weather comes and plants and trees cannot be moved.

Plant at least one new tree in the landscape — dogwoods in pink and white are available now at the nurseries and garden stores. Plant shrubs and trees that will entice the birds. A wonderful way to have color and interest in your garden is to have the colorful birds come and go throughout the year. They are a real joy and you will find yourself watching for them as the season comes. The birds add a friendly touch to the garden that nothing else can do. This is the month to take care of them by putting out seed in the feeders that are protected. Place a feeder near a window so you can watch them come for food. A kitchen window is an ideal spot. While doing the daily chores a housewife can find real pleasure in watching these little busy feathered friends. If you see a bird that is strange to you be sure to look it up and find out all about it, then in the future you will be proud that you can recognize it when it comes again. Many books are available in the libraries, with colorful pictures. The garden center has a good selection for your use.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Dates to remember for the Federated Garden clubs — Feb. 8-10, Landscape Design School, series 11, course 1, sponsored by the Louisiana Garden Club Federation. Tulane University is the Host, and cordially invites the garden club members to attend this school to be held at the University Center. Rooms are available at the University Center at $3.30 per night — to be paid at the time of departure. All meals will be available at the Center cafeteria. Send in your registration as early as possible to Mrs. Claude Pumilia, 3809 Tulane Ave., New Orleans, La. 70119. Fee for the school is $15. Make checks payable to: Landscape Design School, Series 11.

Advanced Refresher Course—to be held at the Bentley Hotel in Alexandria, March 1-2. Instructors will be Mrs. William H. Barton, Mrs. Zelda Wyatt Schulke, Dr. Charles Parker, and Dr. R. H. Hanchey.

Postgraduate students and all garden club enthusiasts, whether seeking credit or general information and inspiration, are welcome to either take the full course or individual sessions. Fee for the course is $10. Further information may be obtained by writing Mrs. H. J. Chaudoir, P. O. Box 1201, Alexandria, La. Hotel Bentley will accept reservations — early as possible.

Deep South Regional meeting, March 17-19, in Savannah, Ga.

L.G.C.F. Annual Convention, April 2-4, in Alexandria. Registration will begin April 1, from 6-8 p.m. at the Ramada Inn.

National Council Annual meeting, May 23-27, Portland, Ore. All garden clubs of the Fifth District, whether Federated or non-Federated, and all individual camellia growers are cordially invited. In fact, you are urged to plan to enter your specimen camellia blooms in the annual Camellia Show of the Northeast Louisiana Camellia Club, to be held at the Central Savings Bank, Monroe, February 20, 21. The chairman for the show is Philip F. Bernhardt, with Lee Hodges, A. R. Bates, and Duncan S. Cook, serving as co-chairmen. Mrs. M. L. Johnson is chairman of the artistic design division. More information about this show can be obtained from the chairmen of the two divisions, or from the garden center. If you saw this show last year you will not fail to take part this year, or plan to come see it. You are cordially invited, so mark the date.

Wednesday, the Primrose Path Garden Club of Monroe will present the weekly program for your pleasure. Mrs. E. D. Elmore is the president of this club. Plan to come by the Garden Center located in Sears for a close look at these designs.

O'NEILL THEATER SOLD

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway's Eugene O'Neill Theater has been sold by one producer, Lester Osterman, to another, David J. Cogan, for $1,350,000.

The 1,175-seat playhouse opened in 1925 as the Forrest, was renamed the Coronet in 1945 and became the O'Neill when Osterman purchased it in 1959.

Cogan also owns the Biltmore Theater. Osterman's other holdings are the 46th Street Playhouse and the Alvin.

FILM RIGHTS

NEW YORK (AP) — Stage-screen producer Frederick Brisson has bought the Broadway and film rights of "The Passion Flower Hotel," a best-seller novel about unsedate capers at a very proper English finishing school.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Preserving Vegetation

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Southerners building houses in new residential areas are beginning to discover the virtues of holding on to the natural character of their property. Instead of cutting down all the trees and shrubs and levelling the land in front of their new houses, they are leaving the land alone as much as possible and preserving the best of the growth on it.

With the Americans trying to out-do even the Chinese whom we have always criticized so bitterly about their birth rate, it has already become necessary to think about privacy on residential lots. Front yards need to be screened from noise, dust and the passing public. Any growth that is already present on a building lot is extremely valuable.

REPLACEMENTS

As time goes on, some of the original growth can be replaced with more desirable flowering trees and shrubs and with evergreens. Everybody preserves the native dogwoods and redbuds, and they soon discover the beauty of some of the wild haws (viburnums), the fringe tree, wild azaleas, hollies, both evergreen and deciduous, chokeberries, yellow jessamine, cross vine and many other showy natives.

Since people now live in their back yards, they no longer demand that contractors level the areas in front of their houses. This practice is helping a great deal in the preservation of the natural character of the south. Wherever it is not carried out, developers and contractors are coming more and more to be criticized.

SHRUBS, TREES

In an area where we have as much as 40 inches of annual rainfall and the very long growing season which we enjoy here in the south, developers of real estate which has been bulldozed clean can plant trees and shrubs back on it before they offer it for sale. With modern machinery, we can move fair-sized shade trees at modest cost.

Citizens in some of the old towns of the South put up a heroic fight to preserve their ancient trees. Again, the population explosion is overwhelming these beautiful towns and destroying large parts of them. It is absolutely necessary for these towns to launch out on tree planting programs along with their preservation efforts because many of their ancient trees are already doomed.

BOATING

Gimmickry Of Many Varieties

By JACK WOLISTON
United Press International

All kinds of gimmickry turn up at the boat shows each year, and 1965 will be no exception.

Some of these far-out ideas eventually turn out to be popular — and even practical. Others exist for a little while and then fade off the market.

One new idea that will be introduced publicly at the National Motor Boat Show in New York in a few days is a craft called the Sea Dart.

It's an 82-inch long, 30-inch wide fiberglass boat with an inboard - outboard engine and looks as if it had been cut in half or as if someone had sawed off the transom.

The operator of this rather unorthodox craft lies in a prone position with the lower half of his body in the water at the stern of the boat, resting on a submerged planing board.

TWO LEVERS

There are two levers forward, the one for the left hand providing ignition and the one for the right hand being the throttle. Once underway, the planing board can be depressed by the operator's legs to trim the boat. To turn left, he drags his left foot and leans to the left. A similar action on that side.

The two operating levers are similar to the "dead man's throttle" on a railroad engine. Forward pressure must be applied to make them work so if, for example, the operator should accidentally slide off, all power would be cut off. The boat then, according to the manufacturer, would "stop on a dime."

The inboard - outboard unit is mounted in the center of the boat and extends through the hull and into the water to a depth of nine inches. It has a protective shroud around the propeller.

The Sea Dart is labeled a "fun" item, although the manufacturer envisages possible commercial use for divers and its use in life - saving operations. While it is pretty much a one-man craft, two persons can ride tandem, and it is said to be suitable for towing skiers.

The boat comes in three models, all alike except for horsepower which ranges from 10 to 16 to 22.

WATER-TIGHT

The manufacturer's brochure states that the engine compartment is water tight and the hull unsinkable, that anyone can learn to operate it in five minutes and that it "corners like a sports car."

It also states that it is "completely safe for anyone from 8 to 80." However, after viewing films of two of the Sea Darts in operation, we'd hesitate to let any 80-year-old member of our family take off in one of them.

IN THE OFFING

Here are a few other things you might look for at the 1965 boat shows:

—Contour - molded life jackets of polyvinyl chloride foam specially engineered to turn the wearer face-up to the proper flotation angle even if he is stunned or unconscious.

—Pneumatic square vinyl boat bumpers particularly suited to docking situations where you don't want the bumper to roll.

—A transistorized radar of advanced design that can be viewed in normal daylight without the use of hoods or darkened areas.

NEPHEW WRITES PLAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Another member of the Hanley clan is being heard from on the New York stage with arrival of "Say Nothing."

The play is by James Hanley, an Englishman who has written 39 novels and is the uncle of William Hanley, author of Broadway's current drama, "Slow Dance on the Killing Ground." The two have never met but, says nephew William, correspond frequently.

JENNIFER IN PLAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Jennifer Jones plans a Florida test for "Goddess on the Couch," a play which she hopes will bring her back to Broadway.

The comedy by Patricia Joudry casts the film star as a lady who although wed to a psychiatrist remains highly skeptical of Freudian analysis. It is to be exhibited for a week at Palm Beach starting March 22, followed by a stand at Miami's Cocoanut Grove Playhouse.

Some Hints On Planting

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Gardener, plan to add a tree to the landscape, here are some hints to insure good growth. First of all, dig a hole large enough for the natural spread of the roots. Plant the tree at a depth approximately two inches deeper than it grew before transplanting.

Loosen the soil in the bottom of the hole and replace subsoil with good top soil high in humus. Be sure to keep the tree roots moist while they are out of the ground. Cut all dried and broken roots. Mound the soil around the tree to hold water and mulch the freshly planted tree. Also, wrap the lower half of the trunk with burlap or tree wrap paper.

Plants that can be planted in the open ground in January and February are Sweet Alyssum, Calendula, Cornflower, Petunia, Phlox - Drummond, Louisiana or Perennial, Salvia, Stock, Snapdragon, Verbena, Sweet William, Queen Anne's Lace, Four O'Clock, Forget-me-not and Hollyhock.

FORCE BLOOMING

Are you, Mrs. Homemaker, impatient and just can't wait for springtime even though winter is just beginning. You can rush the season a bit by force blooming shrubs in your home. Forsythia, pussywillow, and Thunberg spirea are easily forced into bloom in mid - winter. Cuttings from these can be made in January or February. Select the branches which have many large flower buds. Cut the stems, remove bottom inch of bark and pound the base of the stem with a hammer to give good contact for water uptake. Place stems in a warm 110 degrees F water bath and allow to cool naturally to room temperature and then remain in the water for 24 hours. Cover top with moistened burlap or with a plastic bag. Place the branches in a vase of water and keep them in the sunlight at 65 degrees to 75 degrees. Branches forced in the dark develop very little color. Scrub base of branches often and replace water. Use a flower preservative in the water. You can expect blossoms in two or three weeks.

SEWING

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, need some information on sewing our fairly new fabrics — leather and suede — keep the following hints. First select a pattern with simple straight lines with a minimum of darts and no seams that have to be eased. Be sure to alter your pattern before cutting as incorrect stitching marks cannot be removed. Trim away pattern margins to the cutting edge before placing on leather. All corners must be rounded not pointed. Pin within seam allowance as pin marks cannot be removed. Mark details with chalk on the wrong side.

Use a size 14 or 16 machine needle with "heavy duty" mercerized sewing thread. Sew with a slightly loosened balanced tension, eight to 10 stitches per inch. Seam tape can be sewn in seams to prevent stretching. Grade seams allowances to eliminate bulk. Press construction details on wrong side with warm dry iron. To press complete garment use a warm iron over brown paper on the right side. Do not use steam.

4-H MEAL

If you, Mr. and Mrs. Ouachita, want a good chicken spaghetti meal next Thursday, January 28, come over and have a meal with the 4-H Club members at the Agricultural Building in West Monroe at 704 Cypress. The Junior Leaders are raising funds for their summer educational trip. So if you want to help a group of enthusiastic youngsters, buy a ticket from one of them or call the Agricultural Building for Donna Moore or Floyd Kent, associate agents in charge of 4-H Club work and they will see that you get one. The cost, $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. The meal also includes a salad, drink and homemade cake or pie and French bread. Meals will be served from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m.

If you cannot eat at the building they will prepare you a plate to carry home or to your office.

A THOUGHT

Act the way you'd like to be and soon you'll be the way you act.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG

QUESTION: I recently put a new washer in one of our kitchen faucets. It stopped the very bad leak we had, but there is a tiny, infrequent but steady drip. I looked up a do-it-yourself magazine I happened to have in the house and it said that any dripping which continues after a new washer has been installed can be stopped by using a faucet dresser, but I don't know what a faucet dresser is and can't find a definition for it. Can you tell me something about it and whether you think it will help in this situation?

ANSWER: A faucet dresser, or seat dresser, or any one of several other names, is a small tool used for smoothing the seat on which the faucet washer goes up and down. If this seat has become corroded or irregular or otherwise marred, the washer doesn't sit on it properly and some water gets by even when the faucet is turned off.

A faucet dresser is a kind of combination filer - sandpaper which smooths the seat. Because of the difficulty of smoothing anything in such an inconvenient place, manufacturers had to come up with an odd-shaped gadget that fits down into the faucet and is turned by means of a handle. There are various types, manufactured by different companies. Your hardware dealer will know what to give you if you explain what it is to be used for.

Most dressers include directions for proper use. If the one you buy does not have such instructions, ask the dealer to show you how it is used. In nearly all cases, smoothing the faucet seat will eliminate the dripping. If it doesn't, you may have to purchase a new faucet assembly.

(Fixing leaky faucets is one of many subjects included in Andy Lang's booklet, "Make Simple Plumbing Repairs," which can be obtained by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P. O. Box 954, Jamaica, N. Y., 11431. Thirty-five other home repair jobs are discussed in question-and-answer form in "Here's The Answer," available at the same price. Be sure to specify which booklet you want.)

CURTAIN CALL

By JACQUE BIEGENWALD

With opening night, Feb. 19, just over three weeks away, rehearsals for "Sound of Music" are going into high gear. Executive Director Lonny Fraze is calling his cast every night and on Sunday afternoons in order to polish it to the fine degree of perfection Monroe has come to expect from Little Theater productions.

We have a limited number of memberships in Little Theater left and expect to reach our quota before "Sound of Music" opens. This has always been the case in the past, as newcomers to town and those who for some reason neglected to buy their memberships during the fall membership drive make sure they won't miss the high point of the season.

MEMBERSHIPS

If you are planning to buy a membership in time for "Sound of Music," please do so before the box office opens. We only have one telephone in the office, and one person, Suzie West, to man it.

And, as anyone who has visited the office during box office hours can verify, that one telephone just about rings itself off the walls. You'll get much better service by writing the Theater at Box 868 ahead of time and placing your membership order. Prices for membership are $1.50 for adults and $1. for students. Admission fees to the productions are: Adults, $1.25 for a straight play and $1.50 for the musical.

FURNITURE NEEDED

Chris West, Little Theater's Technical Director, is in need of some help in locating furniture for the show. He needs a double brass bed, a sofa, two chairs and an end table. These should be in roccoco style to fit in with the setting of the play, Austria in 1938.

In response to a previous notice in this column, Richard Walter is helping out back stage. We still need others for the stage crew, though. If you would like to help, come by the theater and talk to Chris. He's there from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. 2 to 5 and 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Or call him at home, 325-4712.

One interesting task with each play is that of gathering props, specified in minute detailing the playbook. For "Sound of Music," under Property Plot are listed such fascinating items as: two sets of milk pails on wooden carrying yokes, a carpet bag, and a bosun's whistle! Most props though are such prosaic everyday things as a six fold sheet of music, a brass tray with polishing cloth and an empty guitar case. Lonny needs three people to go on such a treasure hunt for him. It demands some telephoning and asking around among one's friends, somewhat like the scavenger hunts the kids love so!

ASSISTANCE

Also needed are people to handle these props for the run of the show.

An addition to the cast listed last week is that of Hugh Matthews in the role of Franz, the butler. Hugh is a familiar figure on our stage, having played many character roles in the past few years, often several different parts in one play.

We are still in need of the boy's gray flannel suit, size 12 or 14. Now, all the readers of this column think positively and remember some boy of this size who won't be able to get into his winter suit next year. We don't mind worn out knees at all (we're to cut them off anyway), and a few quick stitches with a needle will take care of any errant moth holes.

Murray Burford, home on holiday, stopped in at the theater this past week to watch rehearsals and stayed to read a book for Lonny. Little Theatergoers will remember Murray especially in her role of Princess "Fred" in last year's "Once Upon a Mattress."

SPECIAL STAGE SHOW scheduled for the Paramount Theatre, Friday at 7:30 p.m., will be presented by Jay and Renee Michele. The scare show is in connection with the film, "Two for the Guillotine," starring Connie Stevens, Dean Jones, and Cesar Romero.

ATOM FIRE-EATING monster Godzilla is shown in one of the scenes from the American International's "Godzilla versus The Thing," which opens Wednesday at the Jim Theatre.

Cat Club Fights Samisen Makers Bagging Tabbies

TOKYO (AP) — Tokyo's cat lovers were in an uproar.

Cat snatchers were out to snare tabbies to make samisens, three-stringed Japanese fiddles.

Representatives of the Japan Cat Club stormed the metropolitan police board Friday demanding action. A spokesman charged the police had issued hunting licenses to professional cat catchers.

Police countered they didn't know of any licenses. Then it developed that the cat catchers were from the city of Osaka in western Japan. A professional cat catcher from Osaka, attending the meeting, flashed his license.

"There it is and its issued by the Osaka police to catch stray cats," he said.

"It's improper to classify domestic cats together with stray cats," wailed a cat lover. "Aren't skins sold to samisen makers and the flesh sold to roadside barbecue stalls for yaki-tori (chicen on sticks)? Aren't these customs barbaric? Are we Japanese worthy of being called civilized people."

The professional catcatcher responded:

"We abide by the law. We have a license to catch stray cats. We set traps and take what we bag."

The cat lovers began circulating petitions to ask Parliament for legislation to protect household pets.

This apparently was too much for the Osaka cat catchers. They announced Saturday that henceforth the cats of Tokyo are safe. They were returning to Osaka.

Navy Man Gave Prime Minister Leave To Smoke

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Winnie Druce of Albany has a cigar mounted in a glass case as a reminder of the time he gave the indomitable Sir Winston Churchill permission to smoke.

That was on Jan. 26, 1943, when Churchill, then British prime minister, and President Franklin D. Roosevelt came aboard the USS Memphis, anchored off North Africa, during the Casablanca conference.

Druce was serving aboard the cruiser, and his name was called during an inspection.

He said, "Churchill was taken with my first name, my mother's maiden name." It's pronounced "Winnie" — a nickname often applied to Sir Winston.

STAMPS

'Quiet Sun Year' Set By Togo

To honor the "International Quiet Sun Year" Togo has issued an interesting new set of six stamps featuring space satellites. The 10 franc purple, blue and yellow depicts satellites OGO and Mariner. The 15 franc brown, yellow, purple and blue shows Tiros, Telstar and OSO. The 20 franc yellow, violet and green illustrates Nimbus weather satellite, Syncom and Relay. The 25 fr. green, blue and yellow is the same design as the 15 fr. The 25 fr. green, blue and yellow is the same as the 10 fr. and the 50 fr. yellow, orange and green is the same as the 20 fr. A souvenir sheet showing four of these values also was issued.

The government of Ajman on the Arabian Gulf has issued a special commemorative series honoring the late President John F. Kennedy. The stamps show scenes of Kennedy's life from childhood to the presidency. The scenes illustrated are: Kennedy as a young football player, as a swimmer, receiving a citation in his naval uniform during World War II, John and Jacqueline Kennedy boating, Kennedy and Eleanor Roosevelt, the Kennedys holding baby Caroline, Kennedy with Lyndon Johnson and Hubert Humphrey, a head portrait shot of the late President.

Norway has issued two new stamps in its regular series, reports the Norwegian Post Office Department in Oslo. The 30 ore green depicts fish and an ear of corn. The 60 ore red shows a boatswain's knot. The designer was Prof. Arne E. Holm.

The Falkland Islands has issued a special set of four stamps commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Battle of the Falkland Islands, an important naval victory for the British in World War I. The First Lord of the Admiralty at that time was Winston Churchill. The 2½ pence shows HMS Glasgow, 6 pence HMS Kent, 1 shilling HMS Invincible, 2 shilling Falkland Islands Battle Memorial. Each stamp bears a vignette portrait of Queen Elizabeth.

Liberia has issued two new bicolored stamps in its Government Buildings series. The stamps are of identical design, both depicting the new executive mansion in Monrovia. The denominations are 1 cent and 80 cents.

The French Post Office reports the issuance of an 85 franc stamp by the Ivory Coast Republic honoring Stamp Day. The design shows conditions of carrying mail 50 years ago. Depicted are two bearers accompanied by a guard leaving the post office of Korhogo, a small town in that country.

FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Borge has recorded a limited edition long-playing disc to be sold at $100 a copy.

Receipts will be used to set up student - exchange scholarships under sponsorship of Thanks to the Danes, an American organization founded to express gratitude to Denmark and its people for rescuing 8,000 Jews from Nazi occupation forces during World War II.

Borge passes up his familiar comedy skills on the recording, instead narrates a fable about aggression which he wrote called "Big Claus and Little Claus."

STOCK THEATERS

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)— The auditorium of Town Hall is to be a center of professional theatrical activity next summer with establishment of a stock troupe by Marta Byer and Donald Carter.

The producers also operate the Thomas Wolfe Playhouse at Asheville and the Roanoke Summer Theater, Mill Mountain, Va. Plays are to be rotated among the three playhouses, with every third presentation originating here. The project expects to employ 70 performers.

PEOPLE and how they live abroad get warmth and feeling through the medium of photography. Amateur photographers who take natural down-to-earth pictures on their travels, such as the study of this peasant oldster, contribute in a personal way to international understanding and goodwill.

Picture-Taking Travelers Boon

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Americans love to travel and love to take pictures.

Travel today is getting faster, cheaper and easier.

Put the two statements together and out comes a prediction: More Americans will travel this year, visit more foreign countries and take more pictures than ever before!

Basically, there is vast potential for world good in this flow of traveling, picture-taking Americans. When people visit and get to know each other, they spread good will and understanding. Through photography, the spread of good will and understanding is made easier because it is a universal language which surmounts the barrier of a strange tongue.

PONDERED ROLE

Recently a group of photographers pondered the role of photography as an instrument of good will and thought of a means to organize, direct and expand the process. The Institute for Cultural Exchange Thru Photography was established. Its spokesman is Clement E. Merowit, 330 South Broadway, Tarrytown, N.Y. He is a retired builder, camera club member and photographic enthusiast.

"There are thousands of competent amateur photographers in this country," Merowit told me, "who can use their hobby almost as diplomatic emissaries. Theirs can be a two-fold mission. Simply stated, they can show people abroad how Americans live and they can come back with their photographic images of life in other countries for viewing in this country.

"Photographers are a natural nucleus for a 'hobby peace corps' at the grass-roots level," he emphasized. "Our program will present a stiff challenge, perhaps, because we look for high quality in audiovisual presentation. But we think camera clubs and photo groups have made photographers very competitive and able to meet that challenge."

ARRANGEMENTS

Arrangements have been made with representatives from several countries for participation in the institute's program. They will arrange receptions abroad for qualified photographers at which they will show color slides of some aspect of American life of their own making. To qualify, the participants will be judged by the institute on the basis of photographic ability, interpretive capacity and their personal qualification to represent the good will effort.

It is expected that participating photographers will seek their own photo impressions abroad, aided by briefings by foreign travel and cultural societies. On their return home, these pictures can be selected and edited to form a photo essay or "Travel Set" picture series accompanied by tape recorded narrative and music.

"We plan a Travel Set contest as the first phase of our program," Merowit disclosed. "Winners in the competition will receive broad distribution on local and national level. Photographers will receive appropriate recognition and top prizes will be three-week all-expense tours abroad."

Even if there were no prizes, photographic effort to spread good will and understanding is a rewarding experience.

48-NATION MEETING

TEL AVIV (AP) — Delegates from 48 nations are expected to attend the 11th biennial congress of the International Theater Institute here during June.

The Institute, a branch of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, is planning a symposium on "The Modern Interpretation of the Classic Drama" as the main discussion theme.

LEFT: STILL fit at 62, newly elected Sen. George Murphy, California Republican, steps off an escalator in the Capitol in Washington on the opening day of his first Congress Jan. 4. In the November election he defeated Democrat Pierre Salinger, recent Presidential press secretary. Call Me George Says New Senator From California

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In Hollywood, the make-believe capital of the world, people are accustomed to instant magic so it really was no trick at all for the handsome new sign to blossom quickly on George Murphy's office door.

"Mr. Murphy. U.S. Senator."

The trim, agile, neatly handsome 62-year-old Murphy seems as much at home with his new title — junior Republican senator from California — as the most veteran of senators. This may be the result of his skill as a veteran actor, but Murphy really has been practicing for the job a long, long time.

"I've worked for the Red Cross, the Community Chest, the Boy Scouts, the Hollywood Bowl Association, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the Y.M.C.A. I've had business experience. I've been active in politics for 25 years — I worked with Warren, Nixon, Knowland," he says, in a partial recital of his nontheatrical involvements.

HOW STARTED

But it wasn't until the middle of 1963 that the notion of seeking elective office was given him.

"Some ladies in Long Beach suggested it," he recalled after his November election, "When I addressed the State Federation of Republican Women there. We researched the idea, and the results were good. I was very flattered, and the suggestion began to make sense."

Thinking of Murphy as a politician does not come easily to most Americans these days. It is not because Murphy is the hottest box-office draw in moviedom, because he has not made a film for more than 10 years. He doesn't even remember the name of the last Murphy picture. But thanks to television and the late, late show, there are millions of people who see him still as a movie performer.

His opponent, Sen. Pierre Salinger, once press secretary to President John F. Kennedy, made frequent allusions during the campaign to Murphy's movie career. Murphy says: "Salinger used to refer to me as a song and dance man. I guess that was supposed to disturb me, which it didn't.

"I danced with the best — Fred Astaire, Buddy Ebsen, Ginger Rogers, Shirley Temple."

The song-and-dance clearly didn't hurt a bit in the voting booths where Murphy, the underdog candidate, outran Salinger 3,628,555 to 3,411,912. That was in a state where there are four registered Democrats to every three registered Republicans, and where President Johnson topped Sen. Barry Goldwater by a plurality of more than 1.2 million.

Campaigning for Murphy were such movie celebrities as Ebsen, Irene Dunne, James Stewart, Cesar Romero, Ricardo Montalban, Joe E. Brown and Andy Devine.

Murphy, who was born in New Haven, Conn., July 4, 1902, was the son of Mike Murphy, coach of the Olympic track teams of 1908 and 1912. George went to prep school and finally Yale University. On his way toward the stage, he waited on tables, worked as a steerer for a tailor, loaded coal in Pennsylvania mines and was a bouncer in a Newark dance hall. In 1927, he took up life on the stage — as a dancer. At one point, he teamed with a Detroit girl, Julie Johnson, in a night club act. She has been his partner since, at home. They have two children, a son, Dennis, now 26, and daughter, Missy, 21, who is now married and lives in Colorado.

As befits a onetime bouncer, longtime dancer and son of a track coach, George Murphy stays fit. He is nearly 6 feet tall, and nearly 200 pounds. To stay trim, he gets his circulation by morning exercises topped with 20 pushups.

Murphy's administrative activity began years ago. He was a two-term president of the Screen Actors Guild, commencing in 1944, and moved to a front-office industry post in 1954, as a vice president of MGM. He then was an executive with Desilu Productions and in 1960 became a vice president in charge of public relations for technicolor corp. He'll continue on the technicolor payroll as a consultant, and at a radically reduced pay.

"I had my lawyers examine the status of that carefully for any conflict of interest," he says.

Technicolor's Edward E. Ettinger, who was treasurer of Murphy's campaign, said, "He has a charm about him that gets things done. Married 38 years in an industry that's full of scandal, a reputation that nobody can point a finger at. He is going to be a breath of fresh air in Washington."

Murphy, referring to his activity as president of the Screen Actors Guild, says "I was a union leader for many years — I didn't get any union endorsements, but I got a helluva lot of union votes. And I've got a good reputation for being honest and decent."

And what does the junior senator from California hope to concentrate upon in the nation's Capitol?

1. Re-establishment of the program under which braceros — Mexican farmhands — work in California fields. 2. Programs to convert ocean salt water to fresh water. 3. Jobs — "We've got to find ways to create more industry in this state."

In a town that has an easy way with first names, it seemed out of keeping to some people to attempt familiarity with him. He was asked about how he should be addressed.

"D—— if I know," says Murphy. And then —

"Call me George."

Train Kills Boy

BILOXI, Miss. (AP)—Michael Marlowe Jr., 2, of near Biloxi died Friday night of injuries received when hit by a freight train despite the train fireman's heroic efforts to save him.

Fireman E. C. Kennedy of Mobile, Ala., saw the child on the tracks Thursday as the Louisville & Nasville freight train approached. Kennedy scampered onto the catwalk and pushed the boy down between the tracks.

The engine and three cars passed over Michael before the train could stop. He suffered head injuries.

The train was en route from Mobile to New Orleans.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Provides Overnight Room

An Albuquerque housewife was delighted when an attractive young girl answered her ad for a maid. Hired on the spot, the girl did the dishes and retired early. Next morning the lady found her packing. "I've a confession to make," the girl said, "You see, I'm going through to California, and I could'nt get a single overnight accommodation in Albuquerque. So I bought an afternoon paper and answered your ad."

Aircraft Carrier Goes In Circles Off S. Viet Nam

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

ABOARD USS HANCOCK, South China Sea (AP) —Sailors work 18 hours a day to make this aircraft carrier go around in circles off South Viet Nam.

The attack carrier Hancock and its supporting destroyers have been stationed in this area for more than two weeks as part of the 7th Fleet's deterrent force in Asia.

"Everybody else in the world lives by a seven-day week. Not us. We work eight days a week because that's the Bandit's orders," one sailor groused.

The "Bandit" is crusty, hard-driving Rear Adm. Edward C. Outlaw, who commands Task Group 77.7 and Carrier Division 1 from the Hancock.

Outlaw, who earned the Navy Cross and three Distinguished Flying Crosses in World War II, is a native of Greenville, N.C. A soft southern accent and quiet humor belie the unyielding nature of a man who decided he wanted to become an admiral when he was 11.

"When he talks, a junior officer's hair stands on end," one senior officer says. "He eats captains and nails for breakfast."

There are many stories about Outlaw, most connoting respect. No one doubts that he runs a tight, proficient task group.

Outlaw's command includes the Hancock, five air squadrons aboard, a small Marine detachment and five destroyers.

The Hancock operates around a position designated Yankee and is protected by the destroyers. Two of them guard the entrance to the Gulf of Tonkin.

The Hancock's primary mission is to provide immediate striking power if called. The carrier also represents a show of force and could be used to evacuate dependents from Saigon.

The Hancock carries 3,000 men, was built 20 years ago, and is the smallest operating class of carrier the United States has. Aircraft, ranging from twin-engine medium bombers to helicopters, jam the decks and hangar bays.

Some of the crew, overcrowded in the sleeping areas, sleep in bunks slung in passageways and offices.

Temperatures in the engine room run from 110 to 150 degrees where men work.

In an average day, the men are up before 5 and at flight quarters or their stations at 6 a.m. They go nonstop, jockeying planes, refueling launching and recovering aircraft and running the ship until past 10 at night.

When the planes are all in, they start to clean up and get ready for another day.

Cooks work in shifts 17 hours a day to handle 10,000 meals.

The crew uses 125,000 gallons of fresh water a day.

The men spend approximately $45,000 monthly while on the ship, buying cigarettes, watches, toothpaste, candy and other small items.

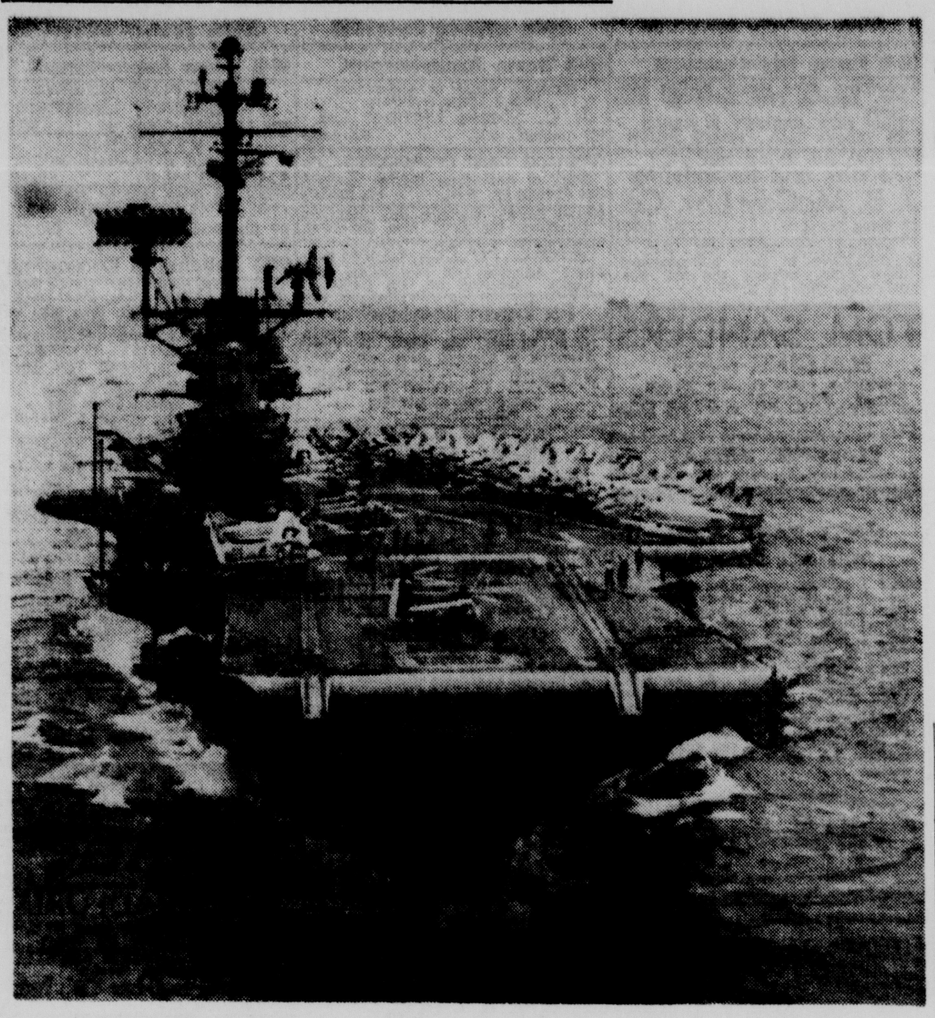
The crews can be generous. They gave more than $5,000 to charitable organizations in 1964. In Hong Kong they bought a noodle machine for an orphanage. They also bought a junk which they painted white and turned into a hospital for the colony's boat people.

The engineering department, which handles everything from 37,500-horsepower engines to drinking fountains, as one of the ship's biggest jobs. Its men handle the ship's engines, boilers, water pipes, electrical wiring, steam for the catapult, fresh water and thousands of other tasks.

To support the air wing on the Hancock, a wide assortment of weapons is carried, including nuclear weapons.

Three A3 twin-engine jet bombers aboard are capable of carrying heavy nuclear weapons. The A4 attack jet and A1 Skyraider can carry similar weapons.

Seven decks down are racks of bombs up to 1,000 pounds, 2.75 and 5-inch rockets and the deadly, heat-seeking Sidewinder rockets.



U.S. AIRCRAFT Carrier Hancock has the simple but potentially dangerous task of going in circles. Its crew works an eight-day week by orders of the "Bandit." (AP Wirephoto)

Too Much Winter

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Monroe County Park Department Saturday canceled its annual "winter frolics" scheduled this weekend. The reason — too much winter.

"Too much" includes up to 10 inches of snow, high winds and a low temperature of 14 degrees, followed by a forecast of freezing rain.

THE REALM OF COIN

Benefits From Club Are Listed

By JOHN BLUCK

What benefits should a collector expect to derive from a coin club and what should the club membership expect from a member?

Let's talk about the first question first:

Collectors associate themselves with a coin club for several reasons, but primarily because it brings them into contact with a large group with a similar interest — coins. Most clubs are organized by an enthusiastic group of collectors that feels that by banding together with other collectors their hobby will become more enjoyable. This means having the opportunity to talk coins with other collectors at club meetings, to trade duplicate coins for those needed to complete a collection, to become better informed about some aspect of their hobby and to have the opportunity to broaden their knowledge of coins.

EDUCATIONAL

They want, and should expect, the club to provide regular educational programs, either in the form of lectures by well - informed members or qualified visitors or through films, slide presentations or roundtable discussions. In short, coin club members need, want and should expect stimulating programs on some phase of the hobby at every possible meeting.

The club that neglects to provide this opportunity for members to become better informed about their hobby has long since lost its reason for continuing to exist.

Unfortunately, this is the position in which many coin clubs find themselves today. After an initial burst of enthusiasm following organization a club often goes into a decline. Programs are seldom held and often little thought and planning goes into those that are provided. Membership falls off; attendance shrinks; enthusiasm disappears. The club suffers from lack of purpose.

It is for this reason that many advanced collectors, numismatists in some cases, choose not to affiliate with a coin club. These collectors may have devoted much time and study to their hobby and in many cases they can see no advantage to being a club member. Yet, these are the very people who should be active and prominent members of any local coin club. They have much to contribute in the way of helpful suggestions to less well informed members and they can serve as the nucleus around which a program chairman can build highly informative and educational programs.

SPECIALISTS

Many of these non-member collectors are specialists in some aspect of the hobby which is totally foreign to the average club member. This might not be the case if the non-member were an active participant in club affairs and made himself available to share his knowledge.

Some clubs have faced the program problem and gone on to new heights. Those that have neglected to provide interesting programs have withered and died. In solving this problem of providing worthwhile programs some clubs have looked to the members themselves for the answer. This has resulted in each member making himself responsible for the program on a set date well in advance. The subject may be assigned or left to the member's choice. In any event, the member must prepare himself either through experience or through study. The result of assigned programs can be a series of outstanding lectures and presentations which can rekindle the interest of the entire membership.

NUMBER TWO

Now let's take a look at question two: what should the club membership expect of a member?

First, payment of dues and attendance at meetings. Without dues the club has very limited funds with which to operate and it can not provide the services which members have every right to expect. The member who fails to attend meetings may miss many fine programs and at the same time be denied the opportunity to "talk shop" with fellow collectors.

Not least important is the member's responsibility to serve in any capacity for which he is qualified and for which he has time when called upon by his club officers. He should be willing to serve as an officer or director or on a committee or help in any other way for which he has time and talent. He should be willing to share his knowledge with others, especially if his specialty is one not generally familiar to the other members. He should be willing to provide a program when called upon. He should help his club grow by inviting prospective new members to meetings.

If either the club or the individual members fail to fulfill their obligations the club can not long continue to exist. It will have failed to provide for the needs of members and the members will have failed their fellow hobbyists.

The beginning of a new year is a good time for all collectors to take an objective look at their coin club and to let their officers know whether or not the club is filling their needs.

GEE-- THAT'S A PRETTY GOLD PIN-- I THINK I'LL BUY IT FOR BLONDIE

BUT, DARLING-- IT'S NOT OUR WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OR MY BIRTHDAY

I KNOW IT--

YOU MEAN YOU JUST BOUGHT IT FOR NO PARTICULAR REASON AT ALL?

KISS

THAT'S RIGHT, DEAR

I'LL HAVE TO SHOW IT TO TOOTSIE WOODLEY AND THE GIRLS

IT'S LOVELY --WHY DID HE BUY IT? WHAT'S THE OCCASION?

NO OCCASION --HE JUST THOUGHT I MIGHT LIKE IT

LOOK WHAT DAGWOOD BOUGHT BLONDIE, AND IT'S NOT EVEN HER BIRTHDAY

IS IT YOUR BIRTHDAY, BLONDIE?

NO, IT'S NOT MY BIRTHDAY

YOU MEAN HE JUST BOUGHT IT FOR NO REASON AT ALL ?

WHY DON'T YOU EVER BRING PRESENTS HOME FOR ME?

SHAME ON YOU -- YOU NEVER SURPRISE ME WITH PRESENTS

BUMSTEAD'S GOT THE WHOLE NEIGHBORHOOD UPSET

LET'S GET BUMSTEAD

WHAT'S ALL THAT UPROAR OUTSIDE? WHAT'S ALL THE NOISE?

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

My husband discovered that a cake breaker (the kind with 10 or 12 tines used to slice cake) is wonderful for uniform slices of tomatoes.

Place the tomato on your cutting board, insert the cake breaker, press the flat side of your knife against the tines and run the knife through each tine until your tomato is completely sliced.

If you want thicker slices, use every other tine. It makes a beautiful plate of tomatoes and very little waste, too!

Margaret De Mar

SHORT BLOUSES

DEAR HELOISE:

When little girls' blouses get too short to tuck in, but the shoulders still fit, I buy a yard of printed material and sew a full skirt (with a set-in belt) onto the blouse. I add a sash from each side seam of the skirt material, and it makes a darling little dress.

Mrs. Thomas Williams

* * *

And as everyone knows, the hardest part of making a dress is the top, certainly not the skirt. Try it, gals. It works.

Heloise

GREEN THUMB HINT

DEAR HELOISE:

I cut off the tops and bottoms of my plastic bottles when they are empty. I use the remainder of the bottles to put around little plants, such as rose plants, when I am trying to get them started.

Not only do these bottles keep the plants shaded until they get their start, but if pushed down into the ground a little bit, they hold water around the roots.

Irene Wilda

STITCH IN TIME

DEAR HELOISE:

An empty match cover makes a neat little repair kit to carry in your purse.

After all the matches are used, stick a few pins and a needle in the edge where the matches have been torn out, wind various colored thread around the cover, fold the cover and put in your purse.

Mrs. Howard Philleo

Lots of people paint the match cover or use plastic-back adhesives to cover the outside, and give them to friends. Real perky idea, I'd say.

Heloise

NO FADING HERE

DEAR HELOISE:

I have found that plastic bags which come on shirts from the laundry are excellent for holding dampened clothes before ironing!

I have no fear of things drying out or fading on each other, so I dampen each article and put it into a separate bag.

Please tell the ladies about this one.

W. W.

You just did, you doll! What a fantabulous idea.

Heloise

A CLEAN MEASURE

DEAR HELOISE:

A tip for those who make their own French dressing and find that the inside of the mixing bottle becomes oil-coated.

Add the required amount of vinegar first, cap the bottle and give a few healthy shakes. The inside will be crystal clear, making the measuring marks easy to read.

Also wipe the outside of the jar and its lid with vinegar . . . they'll sparkle, too.

R. K. H.

STAMPED WITH LOVE

DEAR HELOISE:

Many grown children try to be as much help as possible to their parents and every little bit helps, especially if you live on a pension.

My youngsters rotate in keeping me supplied with postage stamps. It saves not only going out to buy them, but helps our budget, too. And with the stamps in the house, it is no problem to write a letter.

E. B.

One mother wrote that the only way she could get her children to write was to send self-addressed, stamped envelopes. This way they couldn't use them for anything else and she got more news of her grandbabies this way than ever before!

Heloise

SUPER SHOPPING

DEAR HELOISE:

Most of us do our grocery shopping at one store more than others, and sometimes our husbands have to go to the store for us.

Try to memorize how the food is arranged on the shelves the next time you go to your favorite store.

I have found that if I make out my grocery list, remembering how the food is arranged, I can guide my husband from the door of the store to the cash counter without his having to hunt for every item.

Fay McGee

BLACK-TIE TRICK

DEAR HELOISE:

For the girls whose husbands wear black uniform ties, here's a tip on how to clean those ties!

Usually these black ties get grubby. I rub fabric against fabric. (This means, gals, to take the spotted part of the tie and, with an end piece of the tie, rub briskly on the spot.)

To complete this cleaning method, I wipe the spotted area with a cloth dipped in vinegar.

Army Wife

BLOUSE HANGERS

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is an idea for making inexpensive blouse hangers.

Slip a piece of chain (as long as desired) over the hook of a wire clothes hanger, then hook three or four more hangers at suitable intervals down the chain.

This really saves space.

POWDER-PUFF LINE

DEAR HELOISE:

After washing your powder puffs, pin them onto a dry washcloth with a safety pin and hang the washcloth on the line.

This lets the powder puffs dry on both sides at once, and the cotton inside fluffs up.

Renie

LONG AND SHORT OF IT

DEAR HELOISE:

As the mother of several young boys, I have the problem of holes in the knees of pants belonging to the afore-mentioned boys!

I cut off the legs of these pants and blue jeans, and lo and behold, shorts for the summer! Practical and pennywise, eh?

Angela Rush

This feature is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper. 1-24
